Pullman's Birthday.
Einstein on Religion.
When a Grizzly Is Shot.
A Real Gas Fight.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, March 3.

TODAY, MARCH 3, the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of George M. Pullman, father of the American sleeping car, important to the whole world, will be celebrated with a dinner here. Many interested in the Pullman organization, including George M. Pullman's youngest daughter, Harriet, now Mrs. Arthur F. Schemerhorn, will attend.

George M. Pullman, one of the great benefactors of his country, added strength and value to the lives of important men. There should be many monuments erected in his honor, inscribed on each a line from the Psalms:

"He giveth his beloved sleep."

HOPI INDIANS, of the Grand Canyon, Ariz., have adopted Prof. Einstein, giving him for a tribal name "The Great Relative," as tribute to his "relativity" theory. In spite of his pathetic struggles, it seems impossible for Prof. Einstein to keep out of the limelight or avoid publicity.

CLERGYMEN everywhere will be interested in Prof. Einstein's recent disquisition on the gradual development of religion and the nature of God.

His theory of the beginning of religion is that of Herbert Spencer and others.

Religion started in fear. Savage men imagined a powerful being, vengeful, dangerous like themselves and they tried to placate him with sacrifices including human sacrifices.

That was the "religion of fear."

THIS FEAR, says Prof. Einstein, developed a priesthood "claiming to mediate between the people and the being they feared, then attaining a position of power."

Then "a leader, despot or a priviliged class combined the functions of the priesthood with temporal rule."

LATER GOD was looked upon as men look upon their parents, punishing evil, rewarding good deeds.

Thus began a religion of "Providence."

It is very interesting to read Dr. Einstein's description of gradual changes in religion. Concerning his own religion, that of the Jews, he says:

"It is easy to follow in the sacred writings of the Jewish people the development of the religion of fear into the moral religion, which is carried further in the New Testament."

THERE IS another religious emotion, according to Einstein, of which "only exceptionally gifted individuals or especially noble communities are capable." This "third level of religious experience" he calls "the cosmic religious sense."

Like relativity, the cosmic religious sense is a little difficult for the average man because "it does not involve an anthropomorphic idea of God," namely the imagining of God as an individual with a beard and clothes like a man.

PROF. EINSTEIN agrees with Schopenhauer that the Buddhists possess more of the genuine cosmic quality than the Christian or Jewish religion.

And in that "cosmic religion" such personalities as Democritus, Saint Francis of Assisi, and Spinoza, the Jewish philosopher, are near to one another.

It is a little "highbrow" for the average individual, who clings to his "anthropomorphic" idea and wants a God who can be called "Our Father," not one in a fourth or fifth dimension.

IN THIS column the fact was mentioned that the first three or four months of 1931 would find Wall street gentlemen worried, as unpleasant reports of "earnings" or the lack of them, were made public.

When a grizzly bear is shot in the heart he runs on some distance, not knowing what has happened. When he finds himself sitting down he is startled, and then dead.

FORTUNATELY nothing in this country is dead, but some things were badly shot and wounded during 1930. As the news comes out, the fact that the worst is over does not prevent exaggerated fear.

Yesterday Wall street was sick because actual figures of diminished railroad receipts were made public. And to that was added a worrying rumor that Mr. Mellon would resign on March fourth.

WHAT LOOKS like a real gasoline war is on here. The price has been cut already to 13½ cents, from 20 cents and higher. Another two-cent cut is predicted. It is believed that some of the big companies mean to take in hand the irresponsible gentlemen that have made the oil industry chaotic.

MR. CORD, youthful head of the Auburn Automobile Company, who includes the Stinson air lines and building of airships in his activities, says that so far as he is concerned good times are not merely "coming back," they have come.

He is building 200 Auburn cars a day, is behind in his orders, and expects to build an airplane to sell for $1,500 and a good one. Meanwhile he sells a plane for several passengers at about $30,000.

He was interested to hear that W. R. Hearst had gone flying in one of his planes over the mountain ranges on the Hearst ranch yesterday.

5 OF FAMILY DIE IN FIRE; GIRL SAVED

All Awakened by Smoke, Father, Mother and Two Children Trapped, Perish

Five of six members of the family of Frank Daniela, a miner, were burned to death when fire destroyed their two-story frame dwelling at Russelton No. 1, near Curtisville, early today.

The dead are Daniela, 52, his wife; Antonia, 50; their children, William, 11; Patsy, 9, and Jennie, 7.

Only Mary, 12, who had presence of mind to jump from a second story window, escaped. She suffered a sprained ankle.

According to Mary and Constable Rube Dumbaugh, the fire started soon after midnight from an overehated coal stove in the kitchen.

LOST IN FLAMES

The father, roused by the heat and crackling flames, went downstairs to investigate. That was the last seen of him. The mother helped awaken the children. Their escaped by the stairway was cut off. In the confusion they are believed to have forgotten the windows, with the exception of Mary.

Enrico Massimo, and Dominic Lubate, neighbors, awakened by Mary's cries for help, ran to the yard of the burning home and tried to run up a ladder to the second story windows, but were prevented by fire and smoke. They broke down a door, but were met by a sweep of flame.

BODIES RECOVERED

The house had been destroyed when volunteer firemen of Culmerville arrived. Bodies of the five victims were found in the ruins.

Coroner W. J. McGregor and Chief Deputy James L. Davidson went to the scene to investigate. Morgue Supt. John P. Black and Deputy M. F. Leslie took charge of the bodies.

Daniela was employed at Russelton Mine No. 1 of the Republic Iron and Steel Company.

At the home of her uncle, Joseph Raniero, Mary, the lone survivor, said:

"Mother came into the room where Jennie and I were asleep and wakened us. We ran back into the room which father had left and awoke the other children. I ran to a window and jumped out."

HUSBAND SHOT, ABSOLVES WIFE

Mrs. Mary Deleo, mother of six, was lodged in East End Police Station today in connection with the shooting of her husband, Joseph, 36, in their home, 7433 Susquehanna street, this afternoon.

From his bed in Pittsburgh Hospital, where he is confined with a pistol bullet in his stomach, Deleo contended the wound was accidentally inflicted. His wife corroborated that story.

Lieut. John Jones confiscated a quantity of whisky, which he said he found in the house, Mrs. Deleo, police said, admitted she was selling liquor to support her family. Her husband is unemployed.

Nye Report Clears Davis Of Fraud in Election; Assails Expenses

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS.)—Doubt regarding the right of Senator James J. Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, to his seat was virtually dissipated today when the long-awaited report of the Nye senatorial campaign investigation committee on the Pennsylvania primary and election campaigns was made to the Senate.

The junior Senator of the Keystone State was absolved of all charges of corruption, but the majority declared the ticket headed by the former Labor Secretary had been involved in excessive expenditures.

Senator Patterson (Rep.), of Missouri, filed a minority report.

SIGNED BY NYE

The report, signed by Chairman Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, and Senators Dale (Rep.) of Vermont; Dill (Dem.), of Washington, and Wagner (Dem.), of New York, placed the total expenditures for the Davis-Brown ticket in the primary and election campaigns, at $1,117,649.29. In the primary campaign alone, the Davis-Brown ticket spent $622,928.39, the majority found.

The report was changed at the last minute from the original draft, which had been unexpectedly held up for two days.

RUSH FOR VETS' LOANS EASES

Rush of veterans for loans on the adjusted compensation certificates was lessened today with 2,052 applying at the United States Veterans' Bureau regional office and central headquarters of veterans' organizations throughout the city.

More than 8,650 personal applications have been made, while 9,000 applications by mail have been received at the regional office since Saturday. Hundreds of forms are expected to be written nightly at the veterans' posts in every district of the city.

Additional all-day headquarters in various points of the city were opened today by veterans' organizations.

While the Sun-Telegraph has turned over its main building lobby and downtown office for the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion, as well as supplying ex-soldiers with fullest information in its news columns, it will render further aid tonight

HOW TO GET BONUS LOANS

Veterans can obtain bonus loan application forms, information and assistance in filling out blanks from the Veterans' Bureau Regional Office, 5118 Penn avenue (telephone number, Montrose 7381), but it is suggested that in order to speed work applicants apply to The Sun Telegraph main building, Bigelow boulevard, or downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street; Veterans of Foreign Wars Bureau, 314 Plaza Building "40-8" Society, 403 McCance Build, Smithfield street and Liberty avenue; the American Red Cross, Chamber of Commerce Building, or any veterans' headquarters listed on pages 4 and 6.

Following are steps to be taken by ex-soldiers seeking loans:

1. Go in person or write for a "Veteran's Note," form 1185 of the Veterans' Bureau, from any of the agencies listed above. Mention if a previous loan had been obtained and where.

2. Sign the note and insert the number of your adjusted service certificate and home address in spaces indicated.

3. Have the "Certificate of Identification" on the note executed by a Postmaster, an officer of a veterans' organization or a notary public. This action is unnecessary if there has been a previous loan.

4. Hand or forward by registered mail the note to the Regional Veterans' Bureau office. Mailing is urged as the quickest method. If the application is for the first loan ever sought, note must be accompanied by the bonus certificate as collateral security. If previous loans have been granted, the bureau continues to retain the certificate, and application must be made either to the regional office which granted the previous loan or to the Central Office, Veterans' Bureau in Washington.

5. Needy veterans will receive their checks earlier if more fortunate comrades delay their applications a little.

GREEN GOODS BOUGHT BY LAX PLAN

'Confirmation' System Kerr Halted Used Often; High Grade Produce for Zoo

The bulk of the green goods for city institutions — according to city records—has been purchased from one firm, without bids, during the last six months through an inspector in the city controller's office, the transactions being handled by means of supposedly forbidden confirming orders on record in the city files. It is alleged the favored firm is owned by a brother of a city inspector, who passes on such purchases.

SABLE'S BROTHER

The goods were purchased from the Agricultural Exchange, Inc., Eighteenth and Pike streets, of which Louis B. Sable is president. Charles R. Sable, one of the two inspectors in the controller's office, is a brother of the produce man, according to information given out at the office of the Agricultural Exchange.

The office of the produce concern was called by telephone and the following conversation took place:

"Is Mr. Louis B. Sable in?"

A woman's voice answered:

"No, Mr. Sable is in California."

"Yes."

"Just what is that relationship?"

LIBERAL ORDERS

From August 20, 1930, until the first of the year, the Agricultural Exchange received $4,662.71 worth of business from the city. This

COMMITTEE IGNORES WOMEN

Herron Declares Kline, Kerr Able to Take Care Of Situation Unassisted

BULLETIN.

Council, acting as the finance committee, this afternoon refused the request of the League of Women Voters for an immediate public investigation of the Department of Supplies.

City Council this afternoon tried to wash its hands of the investigation of the Department of Supplies.

As the finance committee, which consists of all members of Council, went into session, John S. Herron, president of Council, was asked whether the committee would vote for the public investigation demanded by the League of Women Voters.

Emphatically, Herron answered:

"No. The matter will be killed in committee this afternoon. The Mayor and Controller Kerr are able to take care of the matter themselves."

WOMEN UNDAUNTED

Undaunted by Herron's statement, the League will continue its plans to have the department investigated and will, if the disclosures warrant, ask District Attorney Andrew T. Park for grand jury action, according to Mrs. J. O. Miller, of the executive committee.

Mrs. Miller did not say whether the League would hire auditors to examine the books of the department, whose director, B. L. Succop, was fired by Mayor Kline.

When the league asked for the public hearing yesterday Council referred the request to the finance committee after Herron had re-

DREW BOOMED FOR HIGH COURT

By ED PRENDERGAST,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 3.—Judge James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh, a member of the Superior Court by virtue of a recent election, is being mentioned today as a possible appointee as a justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

His friends, political leaders throughout the state, already are pushing his name before Gov. Pinchot as successor to the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Sylvester Sadler, of Carlisle.

Not without a gesture of futility, the much-publicized Maj. Lemuel B. Schofield, Philadelphia's director of public safety, yesterday appeared in Harrisburg ostensibly to discuss pending legislation, but actually to discuss the Supreme Court vacancy. With him was his chief of detectives, Patrick J. McKewen.

It was learned authoritatively that Schofield wished to commend the appointment to the judicial vacancy of District Attorney John Monaghan, of Philadelphia.

Pinchot's office aides told Schofield the Governor's congested appointment list would bear no interruption and after waiting until late last night, the Philadelphian departed.

It is likely Judge Drew's name will be advanced to the ear of the Governor, since among Drew's sponsors are persons often termed "spokesmen for the administration."

Rare Papers Lost In Trotzky's Fire

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 3.—(AP.)—Destruction of private papers of Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian Bolsheviki leader, when his villa on Prinkipo Island burned Sunday, was an irreparable loss to both Trotzky and history, his secretary, Jan Frankel, said today.

Trotzky managed to save the manuscript of the completed first volume of a history of the Russian revolution and notes for the succeeding unwritten volumes.

Police Trace Wanderings Of Injured Actress-Flier

MONTEREY, Cal., March 3.—(AP)—Edna May Cooper, actress and endurance flier found injured after having been missing mysteriously a week from Hollywood, remained in a hospital today while police attempted to trace her previous movements.

At the orders of Dr. Hugh Dormody, Miss Cooper was removed yesterday to a hospital where she was identified by Mrs. Ruth Morris, wife of Gouveneur Morris, the author. Dr. Dormody said Miss Cooper had suffered an abrasion on the back of her head and bruises on her body. Her injuries were not considered serious.

Police said they had learned Miss Cooper had been registered at a hotel several days under the name of Caroline Hope, Los Angeles.

The actress told authorities she thought she was in Santa Monica because she started for that city when she left Los Angeles. She was unable to account for her injuries.

A Monterey taxi driver, Joseph Duckwell, said he found Miss Cooper wandering aimlessly in Carmel, nearby artist colony, but the chief of police said she left a Los Angeles-San Francisco train last Wednesday night and took a cab to the hotel. She was without funds.

SENATE FACTIONS BATTLE AS ADJOURNMENT APPROACHES

REED, CURTIS CLASH OVER QUOTA BILL

Vice President Sets Measure On Immigration in Peril; Fireworks Are Due Today

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Seventy-first Congress, expiring by constitutional edict at noon tomorrow, entered a virtual death coma today while angry factions battled vainly in the Senate to enact favored legislation in its dying hours.

The House was calm, passing non-controversial measures and airing political views until 11 p. m.

The Senate began its next-to-last session, with senators tired and sleepy following a preceding 16-hour session that lasted until 3 o'clock this morning.

An all-night session was attempted by administration leaders, spurred on by the youthful "Bob" La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, in an effort to procure passage of the Vestal copyright bill. It lasted until 3 o'clock this morning, while opponents of the measure cried out against "steam-roller methods" and protested against the bill being "railroaded."

Advocates of a bill slashing immigration quotas by 90 per cent for two years, of the Capper oil-embargo bill, and of a proposal to appropriate $100,000,000 for unemployment relief were insisting upon action on their favorite measures. It was likely that all four bills would be killed in the struggle.

REED, CURTIS CLASH

Early this morning Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, sought to substitute the immigration bill for the copyright act. He lost by a lopsided vote, and, under a ruling by Vice President Curtis, likewise lost a privileged spot previously held by that bill. He thereupon threatened to have Curtis' ruling reversed by the Senate, indicating he would furnish considerable fireworks during the day.

Two bills already enacted—the Norris bill disposing of the Muscle Shoals project after 10 years of controversy, and the Wagner bill, setting up federal employment agencies—meanwhile attracted interest, while House and Senate awaited President Hoover's approval or veto of them. If the President vetoes these bills before noon tomorrow, an effort will be made—probably unsuccessfully—to enact them over the vetoes.

3 BILLS IN CONFERENCE

Three other bills were in conference—the proposed constitutional amendment abolishing lame duck sessions, the new maternity act and a new veterans' hospitalization act.

The constitutional amendment probably has been abandoned, but conference reports on the two other measures probably will be given the right of way during the day, driving other legislation aside.

The Seventy-first Congress' outstanding accomplishments were enactment of a farm-relief bill, a new tariff act, the reapportionment of the House, a census bill, promulgation of new immigration quotas, drought relief, three unemployment relief measures and huge appropriations for federal buildings, river and harbor improvements and postroads.

ANTI-DRY PLANS OF DEMOCRATS BLOCKED

By FRASER EDWARDS
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The well-laid plans of Chairman John J. Raskob to put the Democratic National Committee on record on the prohibition issue at the forthcoming meeting here were knocked into a cocked hat last night by the action of the New York State Democratic Committee.

By instructing Norman E. Mack, New York's veteran national committeeman, to oppose any action upon or even any discussion of prohibition at the Democratic pow-wow here Thursday, the New York committee produced three important results:

1. It put a quietus on any move to recommend any action on prohibition to the next Democratic national convention, or to commit the national committee itself on the issue.

2. It sent the presidential stock of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, skyrocketing among southern drys who are bitterly opposed to even a discussion of prohibition at the meeting.

3. It emphasized the already existing split between the Roosevelt forces and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, whose handpicked national chairman, Raskob, initiated the move to place the Democratic National Committee on record on the prohibition issue.

SMITH AT PARLEY

A series of Democratic conferences was inaugurated here today. Ex-Gov. Smith participated along with Raskob, Mack, Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the party, and leaders in Congress.

"Al" slipped into the capital quietly this morning from North Carolina, and hid himself away from questioners after announcing:

"I can't talk now, but I'll have something to say later."

Senators Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Robinson, of Arkansas, in speeches in the Senate waved aside the prohibition controversy and insisted the economic depression be faced as the party problem.

Walsh shouted:

"This is no time to be setting up straw men relating to the wet and dry issue, to religion or to racial issues when men and women are starving."

JUDGE REFUSES 'GIN MURDER' ACQUITTAL

Plea for Directed Verdict Overruled; Wood Alcohol Found in Girl's Stomach

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 3.—(AP.)—Judge Grant Crumpacker today overruled a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal and the defense began its case in the trial of Virgil Kirkland for the murder of Arlene Draves, his 18-year-old Gary (Ind.) sweetheart.

Dr. R. E. Harger, professor of toxicology, Indiana University, the first defense witness, testified he examined the stomach contents of Miss Draves and found 3.8 grains of grain alcohol, 17 of wood alcohol and 22 of formaldehyde.

SHADOW OF CHAIR

Seven days had been required for Indiana to piece together its story of the David Thompson party of last November 29, of Kirkland's alleged brutality toward his sweetheart and of her death.

As Prosecutor John Underwood sees it, the state's testimony, ended yesterday, throws a shadow of the electric chair across the life of Kirkland.

Defense Counsel Oscar B. Thiel and his associate, John Crumpacker, of Valparaiso; Barrett O'Hara, and Roland Oldham, of Chicago, however, declare the state's evidence does not show Kirkland struck Arlene, thus causing the cerebral hemorrhage, nor does it show he otherwise abused her.

Kirkland's alleged confession, admitted by Judge Crumpacker, said he slapped the girl to revive her from an alcoholic condition.

As the keystone of thed efense, Kirkland himself will climb upon the stand to tell his story.

Gertrude Layton, girl companion of Arlene, may be called to testify of Miss Draves' regard for the erstwhile Horace Mann High School football player.

Although the father, sisters and brothers of Arlene denied "Babe," as she was affectionately called, was in love with Kirkland, Miss Layton claimed Kirkland would have married her excepting for his mother's objections — which were based on his youth.

Restrained for a few days by judicial aggravation and the city fire marshal's orders, crowds again are overflowing the spectators' confines and elbowing into the adjacent corridor. Possibility of Kirkland's taking the stand is the magnet for the curious.

WALES GUEST OF EX-DANCER

BARILOCHE, Argentina, March 3.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, spent last night on different ranches, the Prince of Wales remaining at Estancia Huemul near here and Prince George going to Estancia Pilcaneau.

The Estancia Huemul is the property of the Ortiz Basualdo brothers, and is one of the largest and richest of Western Argentina. That at Pilcaneau is the property of the Argentine Southern Company.

The Prince of Wales originally intended to go on to San Antonio with Prince George, but changed his plans and remained at Huemul, where his hostess was the former Leonora Hughes, dancer, who as the partner of the late Maurice Mouvet once thrilled millions. She is now Senora Leonora de Ortiz Basualdo, wife of the Carlos Ortiz Basualdo.

SCORE INJURED IN PHILA. BLAST

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—(INS.)—With more than a score of persons injured, one seriously, police today began an investigation into the mysterious and terrific explosion which last night partially wrecked three apartment houses in West Philadelphia, drove a hundred frightened residents to the streets in scanty attire and shattered windows in nearby homes. A checkup early today revealed an injury toll of 22.

One girl, as yet unidentified, was reported to have suffered a fractured skull when the heavy blast let go. The other injured suffered lacerations and bruises.

Police centered their investigation on the theory that the explosion was caused by a bomb. The blast apparently let go in the rear of the apartment house at 3807-09 Chestnut street. Interiors of the structures were wrecked. The Harrison apartments and the rear of the Seville Hotel, nearby, also were damaged.

Weather Conditions.

The southeastern low developed into a storm center off the North Carolina Coast. A barometer produced heavy rain over Florida and northward along the coast to Hatteras. Over the western plains and the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains there was light snowfall. It is colder than yesterday over the Gulf states and over North Dakota and northward over Manitoba. Over the Ohio Valley states and as far west as Kansas temperature changes were towards rising. Temperatures are still above normal over most of the northern states.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary. Stage at Franklin is 2.9 feet; Lock No. 7, 14.1; Pittsburgh, 12.6; Dam No. 4, 10.3; Dam No. 6, 9.4; Dam No. 10, 10.3, and Dam No. 13, 9.3. The rivers will change but little.

GANG SHOOTS 2, BOMB FAILS

CHICAGO, March 3.—(AP.)—Five machine gunners shot and killed a man and wounded another early today, but failed to explode a huge bomb which they tossed, with one of their victims, into the basement of a gambling establishment conducted by James Hackett in suburban Blue Island.

The victims were William Mayer, 45, a caretaker at the Hackett place, and Hilario Rodriguez.

Mayer was shot to death as he ran out of the place when his attention was attracted to shots fired at Rodriguez after Rodriguez escaped from the basement. Rodriguez, wounded, was taken to a hospital.

Hackett said he knew of no reason for the attack, but police held the theory that it resulted from his refusal to join a powerful gambling syndicate.

Ginger Paralyzes 24 Ex-Service Men

LOS ANGELES, March 3—(AP.)—Twenty-four ex-service men, victims of paralysis caused by drinking an adulterated ginger extract, were being treated today at the National Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle, a suburb, as county and federal officers investigated the source of supply.

Dr. Maurice Smith, of the United States Public Health Service, who came to Los Angeles to advise on the 108 cases previously reported in the county, said the extract in most instances was purchased at drug stores.

OFFICIAL'S KIN GETS ORDERS

is a tidy sum considering that order blanks indicate that bids were unnecessary.

The two inspectors in the controller's office are Charles R. Sable and Rollo F. Long.

Officers listed for the Agricultural Exchange, Inc., are: President, Louis B. Sable; vice president, Louis J. Cover, and secretary-treasurer, Sarah Sable.

The controller's representatives apparently did little shopping in their buying for city institutions, as the files show that, with the exception of a few small orders, the green goods business went to the one firm.

NO BIDS ASKED

These orders are rubber-stamped "confirming," indicating that the purchases were made direct without bids and later confirmed with an order sent through the Department of Supplies. This is the practice which Dr. James P. Kerr, city controller, recently declared illegal and took steps to stop.

Bids formerly were taken on the green goods, according to produce men. About six months ago, the new system of buying direct went into operation, the records show.

The purchases are made for the Mayview Hospital, Leech Farm, Municipal Hospital and the Highland Park Zoo. The buying is mostly in small lots, although occasionally a large order appears.

The animals at Highland Park Zoo appear to live on a par with the inmates of the hospitals so far as their vegetable diet is concerned, a comparison of the orders reveals. Prices paid for the animal food were sufficient to buy the best on the market. An official of the controller's office said he had been informed that the vegetables in the zoo account were all for the animals and not for human consumption.

ONIONS FOR ANIMALS

There is no kitchen at the zoo at which to prepare foods, it is said. Although the animals apparently get their food raw, considerable curiosity is aroused as to just what sort of a creature enjoyed the two sacks of onions purchased in December.

On December 6, the animals got six sacks of potatoes at $2.60 per sack. This compares with 199 sacks that went to Mayview on December 4 at $2.50 a sack. However, the quantity of the order will account for that.

The animals received two crates of iceberg lettuce at $5.50 per crate on December 2, the records show.

COUNCIL TO KILL FOOD QUIZ

buked the hundreds of league women present for applauding Councilman Charles A. Anderson, who is in favor of an open hearing.

The women, however, planned to renew their demand at the committee meeting today, describing Council's action as "deplorable." Herron not only criticized the women for applauding, but for first giving to newspapers a letter to Council in which the public investigation was asked. Councilman W. Y. English added that Anderson's speech was "claptrap and political skullduggery."

Other developments today included a report from Controller Kerr to council that the Pittsburgh Bureau of Governmental Research, which was represented at Mayor Kline's secret investigation of the Department of Supplies, would soon have its own report ready.

JOBLESS RIOT IN N.Y. ASSEMBLY

ALBANY, March 3.—(INS.)—Three hundred unemployed threw the state assembly chamber into a near riot a minute after the lower house of the Legislature had been called to order today.

No sooner had Speaker McGinnies appeared on the rostrum than the unemployed men and women who filled every seat in the gallery started to yell and shout their demands for a state dole of $25 a week for married men and $15 for single men.

Two score state troopers, using clubs freely, immediately started to eject the unemployed. The demonstration lasted 10 minutes before the troopers were able to restore order.

BLAST WRECKS OHIO THEATER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 3.—A score of persons were injured slightly early today when an explosion wrecked the Lincoln Theater, a neighborhood movie, in the east side of the city.

The concussion blew the ticket grille across the street, hurled scores from their beds and broke windows in the immediate vicinity.

Following the blast, the building burst into flames, and firemen worked several hours to confine the blaze to the theater. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Search of the ruins revealed several empty gasoline tins.

Firemen believe the blast was the work of an incendiary. Police announced an arrest would be made.

Liners Delayed With Notables in Storm

NEW YORK, March 3.—(INS.)—Storms at sea have delayed the liner Europa. She will dock tomorrow morning. Among its passengers are Sinclair Lewis, winner of the Nobel prize, and Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin. Lord Decies, of Ireland, is arriving today on the Mauretania.

Senate Passes Bill For Venango Bridge

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS.)—The Senate today passed a House bill granting the consent of Congress to the state of Pennsylvania to construct and maintain and operate a free highway bridge across the Allegheny River near President, Venango County, Pennsylvania.

U. S. Employes Get Half-Day Saturday

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS.)—President Hoover today signed a bill granting all government employes a Saturday half-holiday throughout the year. Organizations of government employes have agitated such a law for years.

Son of Republican Woman Chief Suicide

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—(AP.)—Fred L. Hughes, 35, son of Mrs. John R. Hughes, Republican national committeewoman, of Yakima, Wash., died today from a head wound police said he suffered from a bullet he fired in a fit of melancholy last night. Miss Geneva Ward, 18, his fiancee, cooked dinner for him at his apartment. She said he had been drinking and declared he wanted to die.

Fight at Mary Pickford's Party Revealed

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—(AP.)—A playfully tossed ball of candle tallow which struck a woman dancer in the face caused a disturbance at a party given Saturday night at the exclusive Embassy Club here by Mary Pickford.

Details of the affair were learned after apologies had been made by those concerned. William Blakewell, young actor, said he had "started after" Myron Selznick, actor's agent, when the tallow struck Mrs. Selmer L. Chalif, with whom he was dancing.

He said he was halted by Lewis Milestone, a director, and other friends of Selznick, and that the actor's agent departed in the meanwhile.

American sea fighters on the Pacific Coast.

The idea should be carried out, and boys in the new naval school should be trained primarily as fliers and submarine operators.

After the next war no one will bother with fighting waterships, unless they can travel around the world out of sight.

Real soldiers will be soldiers of the air.

Coolidge Urges Against Criticism of Government

SOUTHAMPTON, Mass., March 3.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

In that systematic and organized way which is their national characteristic, a considerable body of German writers have made a sympathetic response to the men of letters in France who had appealed to them to promote a better understanding between the two countries.

Calvin Coolidge

This action might well be supplemented by all the agencies of the press and extended to the whole world. Of course there is room for argument as to whether criticism of foreign nations produces dislike of them or whether it merely caters to a dislike already existing. Probably both elements are present. Yet if such criticism could be avoided the result certainly would be beneficial.

In our own case the State Department always tries to be fair to foreign countries. If our domestic press attacks the attitude of our government it greatly encourages foreign antagonism to foreign countries. Governments are almost always sincerely attempting to conduct themselves so that their people can maintain friendly intercourse with each other. All nations want good will, security and peaceful commerce. They are rivals mainly in world service. In these efforts they ought to have the support of the public press.

GEN. JADWIN'S BODY TO BE SHIPPED TO U. S.

EX-ENGINEER HERE DIES IN BALBOA

International News Service.

BALBOA, Canal Zone, March 3.—The body of Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chairman of the Inter-Oceanic Canal Commission, who died suddenly last night, will be taken aboard the Army transport Saint Mihiel today, to be returned to the United States for burial.

He died at Gorgas Hospital at 7 p. m., after suffering a stroke of apoplexy while in conference with Army engineers. He was 65 years old and a native of Honesdale, Pa.

Gen. Jadwin

Gen. Jadwin arrived here some 10 days ago as head of the commission charged with investigating the proposed Nicaraguan canal route, as well as the possibility of making the Panama Canal a water-level canal. He had planned to continue to Nicaragua from here for further surveys.

WORLD RECOGNITION

Gen. Jadwin had a remarkable career, crowded with achievements as soldier and builder that brought him world recognition. He was one of Gen. Goethals chief assistants, supervising construction of the Gatun locks of the Panama Canal. During the World War he organized the 15th U. S. Engineers, the first American Regiment to pass under arms through England. In subsequent months he supervised the activities of 161,000 men in road, railroad, hospital, warehouse and barrack constructions for the A. E. F.

His work in executing a plan adopted by Congress for Mississippi flood control influenced President Hoover in appointing him as head of the Inter-oceanic Canal project.

He graduated from Lafayette College at Easton, Pa., and in 1890 with high honors from the United States Military Academy at West Point. He married Miss Jean Lauback, of Easton. The widow, who was with him at the time of death, and two children survive.

The transport Saint Mihiel, which leaves here late tonight, will carry also the body of Gen. George Leroy Irwin, former Canal Department commander. He died aboard a ship while en route here from a vacation in Italy.

FRIENDS HERE SHOCKED

Pittsburgh army circles today were shocked to learn of the death in Panama City last night of Lieut. Gen. Edgar B. Jadwin, former United States district engineer in the Pittsburgh district, and organizer of the 15th Regiment, United States Engineers, here at the ountbreak of the World War.

Gen. Jadwin came to Pittsburgh in 1911 as district engineer. When the war broke out he organized the 15th Engineers, trained them at Oakmont, and accompanied them to France. This regiment was the first American regiment to pass under arms through England.

He distinguished himself on several occasions while under fire in France. After he had been on the firing line for a time he was made director of construction and forestry, supervising activities of more than 150,000 men in the building of railroads, country roads, warehouses, hospitals and barracks for use by American soldiers.

Upon his return to the United States he was made a member of the American mission to Poland, which went to that country in 1919.

June 30, 1930, he was appointed by President Hoover as chairman of the newly-created Federal Power Commission. Prior to that time he had retired as chief of Army engineers. He was the author of the plan of Mississippi River flood control, in the flood control act.

MAID TELLS OF LAST RIDE

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Out of the maze of conflicting clues and bizarre theories surrounding the strangling of Vivian Gordon, Broadway butterfly and prospective witness against woman-"framing" vice squad cops, there emerged today the sinister fact that the beautiful, red haired "girl about town" had a premonition she was to be "knocked off."

Miss Gordon

"Knocked off" were the words she employed in writing down in her diary her growing fear that she was to meet an untimely death. On one occasion she wrote:

"——" giving a man's name, "is supposed to have said, 'we'll take her out somewhere. No one will know what has happened to her. Every mark of identification will be missing, especially that ring,' meaning the $2,500 ring I wear."

On February 13, 1929, she made the following notation:

"——" (giving a man's name) "refused to pay doctor's bill. If anything happens to me he is to blame. He has henchmen."

And again she wrote:

FEARED HENCHMEN

"——" (naming a man) "is the one who was to have knocked me off last winter. I guess (three initials) is seeking his services for that deed. (Three initials) would stoop to anything."

Other developments in the Gordon murder mystery were as follows:

1. Two men in evening dress were in the "murder car" with Miss Gordon on the night she was slain, according to the story told District Attorney McLaughlin by Mrs. Leonora Halsey, a Cuban, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who held a part-time job as maid for a woman she believed was Miss Gordon.

An automobile, believed to be the "death car," wass eized in Central Park West today. The machine was driven by Eugene Stafford, 30, a Negro, who said he had borrowed it from his boss, a man named Zena, last night.

ROTHSTEIN LINK

2.—Mrs. Cassie Clayton, of Erie, Pa., former chum of Miss Gordon, testified before Referee Samuel Seabury, head of the current inquiry in the alleged "framing" of women by vice squad policemen and detective. Miss Clayton is said to have revealed many details of Miss Gordon's glamorous past and to have connected the slain woman with the Arnold Rothstein gambling ring.

3.—The police were investigating a bizarre story to the effect that Miss Gordon took an active part in a "love racket" in which she is alleged to have "cleaned up" thousands of dollars. She is reported to have had a list containing the names, telephone numbers and description of 40 attractive girls who co-operated in making "suckers" out of their gentlemen friends.

BRIAND LAUDS NAVAL PACT

PARIS, March 3.—(AP.)—No country emerged as the victor in the naval accord reached over the week-end by France, Great Britain and Italy, Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, told the Chamber of Deputies today He declared:

"Every country made the necessary sacrifices. That is the best praise I can give it."

The details of the agreement have not yet been published, pending their study by the Washington and Tokio governments.

Briand Holds Army Of Russia Strongest

PARIS, March 3.—(AP.)—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand told the Chamber of Deputies today that Soviet Russia has the most formidable army in the world.

Replying to charges by Marcel Cachin, Communist deputy, that France was inimical to Soviet Russia and was harboring a "White Army," he declared the charges "both unjust and ridiculous."

Mr. Robin Chooses Mt. Lebanon For Home Site

Every day we're seeing signs of Spring—more and more of them. Mrs. Etra De Martini, of 267 Colonial Drive, Mt. Lebanon, did yesterday when she happened to look out on her lawn. Mr. Robin, having evidently just moved in, was there seemingly very much excited over the prospect of going housekeeping and of procuring provisions for the venture.

NEW TUBE RULE COST $67,440

Assistant Director W. H. R. Kreiling, of the County Public Works Department, today reported to the Commissioners on 10 suggested improvements in the Liberty tubes offered by the Pittsburgh Motor Club. He estimated the cost of the proposed measures at $67,440.

Suggestions made by the club include elimination of horse-drawn vehicles; prohibition of snake driving; more lights; more illuminated signs; installation of carbon monoxide recording machines; acquisition of a towing truck and a fire truck; distribution of educational papers and appointment of four more tunnel policemen.

Permanent center markers have been placed in both tubes and signs warning motorists to slow up at the north end have been posted, the report states, but it is up to tunnel police to enforce the order.

Commenting on the suggested improvements, Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong said:

"I don't think $67,440 of the public's money ought to be spent for this."

U. S. DIPLOMAT'S DAUGHTER WED

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 3.—(INS.)—Complying with Danish law, Virginia Booth, daughter of the American minister, was married by civil ceremony to William Vogel, of New York, today preliminary to the religious wedding at St. Alban's Church tomorrow.

The civil ceremony was held at the Copenhagen town hall, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Only a few family members were present, in contrast to the brilliant gathering scheduled for tomorrow's religious marriage function.

One hundred family members and friends of the bride arrived last night and attended a party at which Prince Erik and his American wife were host.

The religious ceremony at St. Albans tomorrow will be an elaborate function, with the Bishop of Fulham officiating. The invitation list included 100 prominent European society names.

Husband Names Loeb In Divorce Action

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 3.—(AP.)—Frank S. Bishop, attorney, filed a statement of allegations in Superior Court in divorce proceedings against his wife, Anna May Struthers Bishop, of St. Cyr, France, in which he named the late Albert Loeb, of Chicago, believed to be the father of the slayer of Bobby Franks, as co-respondent.

The local attorney alleges that Mrs. Bishop was friendly with Loeb prior to their marriage. S. F. Wetzler, attorney for Mrs. Bishop, said that a blanket denial of all the allegations will be filed within the time limit.

Dr. Dorrance Estate Ranks Third in U. S.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 3.—(INS.)—More than $50,000,000 was added today to the estimated amount on the estate of the late Dr. John T. Dorrance, soup king, in an appraisal just finished by the New Jersey and federal authorities.

Dorrance's real wealth, it was found, was in an estate valued at over $200,000,000 instead of $150,000,000 as had been supposed. The figures tend to put his riches as the third largest fortune in the United States, being exceeded only possibly by fortunes of the Fords and the Rockefellers.

Edsel Ford Sees Cut in Work Week

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Edsel Ford, arriving here with his wife for a three weeks' vacation, said he believed all manufacturers will come to the shorter week to meet problems arising from unemployment. He declared:

"Industry has demonstrated it can more than supply the demand, which naturally will leave a surplus of labor, and at present nothing appears which can absorb this surplus."

Endurance Flight Plans Abandoned

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Capt. J. Errol Boyd, transatlantic flier, announced he had given up a proposed attempt on the non-refueling endurance flight record in the monoplane Columbia. He said he had just heard of the new record set by the French fliers in Algiers of 75 hours and 23 minutes.

To beat this mark, Capt. Boyd said, it would be necessary for him to carry 600 gallons of gasoline, too heavy a load for the Columbia's wing structure.

Boy Road Worker Killed by Tractor

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., March 3.—(AP.)—Crushed under a tractor he was driving in road construction work, Page C. Shanholtzer, 17, was killed yesterday. The youth lived at Mt. Union, Hampshire County, and was working near Slanesville, Hampshire County.

$1,500 Rug Stolen From Parked Auto

A $1,500 oriental rug was reported stolen from an automobile belonging to M. F. Shaheen, of East Canton, O., between 11 o'clock last night and 8 o'clock this morning. The car was parked in the rear of Webster Hall.

HITS BELLEVUE SCHOOL PLAN

Assailing plans of the Bellevue School Board to build a new senior high school instead of a junior high recommended by the State Department of Public Instruction as a "bungling waste of the taxpayers money," Mrs. Nellie E. Robertson has resigned as a member of the board.

Mrs. Robertson, a member of the School Board for 10 years, sent her letter of resignation to the board at its meeting last night.

Today she declared that Mrs. Belle M. Johnston and herself had been aligned against the five male members of the board in a futile effort to have the recommendations of the state department carried out.

Mrs. Robertson said:

"Everything suggested by the state survey was ignored. Supt. of Schools J. N. Mowls is elected by the majority, and of course will do anything they ask.

"Our present high school has been a joke ever since its erection 15 years ago. It sits below the street level and looks like a factory.

"I do not want to be on the school board when it makes this mistake."

Other members of the board besides Mrs. Johnston are S. Frank McKee, president; H. A. Pickering, vice president; James W. Graham, secretary; Homer Freeze, treasurer, and R. D. Jenkinson.

Confidence Voted Bruening Cabinet

BERLIN, March 3.—(AP.)—The Bruening government weathered another storm in the Reichstag today, defeating a Communist motion of non-confidence in Martin Schiele, minister of agriculture, 311 to 60.

The Communists took the position that the government's farm policy was harmful to labor.

Creased Trousers Urged for All Workmen

CHICAGO, March 3.—(AP.)—Baggy trousers for workmen are not in good taste.

So decreed the International Garment Manufacturers' Association in convention.

The delegates displayed cotton suits, tailored and with trousers creased, to supplant overalls and ordinary work pants.

SOBBING WIDOW TO TAKE STAND

KANSAS CITY, March 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, 35-year-old widow accused of murdering her husband, was to take the witness stand today in a trial interrupted by her tears.

Mrs. Bennett wept unrestrainedly yesterday as her mother, Mrs. Alice Adkins, 67, testified concerning the fatal shooting of John G. Bennett, following a bridge game quarrel September 29, 1929.

The eyes of James A. Reed, former United States senator and chief of defense counsel, were moist.

James R. Page, prosecuting attorney, demanded a recess "until the defendant can calm herself."

The jury went out with Mrs. Bennett protesting between sobs:

"I'll be all right. I'll be all right."

J. Francis O'Sullivan, of defense counsel, announced Mrs. Bennett would be placed on the stand after the dismissal of Mrs. Adkins and state cross examination of other witnesses.

PITTSBURGHER HELD IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—Michael Lorenzo, 28, of Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, and two other men were held in the Brooklyn jail on suspicion of robbery and violations of the Sullivan law forbidding unlicensed carrying of concealed weapons. They were arrested while riding in an automobile which police said was stolen in New Jersey. The men had a new Brooklyn street directory. Lorenzo told police he received a telegram in Pittsburgh from one of the other men. The message said:

"Things look good. Need you in Brooklyn."

MISS VALERIE FRENCH

LONDON, March 3.—(AP.)—Miss Valerie French, pretty granddaughter of the late Field Marshal Sir John French, the first Earl of Ypres, was said in the Daily Express today to intend soon to marry Lord Brougham and Vaux. Both are 21.

The Express said the engagement would be announced shortly. Lord Brougham and Vaux is the fourth baron of his title and last year inherited about $1,000,000.

In 1926, Miss French's engagement to Henry Bradley Martin, of New York, was announced. Martin was injured in an automobile accident in Colorado in the summer of 1929. Miss French visited him in a Denver hospital. Shortly afterward Miss French returned to England.

Mrs. Wallace Reid Ordered To Defend $50,000 Suit

FRESNO, Cal., March 3.—(AP.)—The Appellate Court has ruled that Gabrielle Darley Melvin had a cause of action in her $50,000 damage suit against Mrs. Wallace Reid, widow of the motion picture actor; Clif Broughton, James Diamond and the All-Star Feature Distributors, Inc.

The opinion, which reversed a decision handed down by the Los Angeles Superior Court, held that no matter how unsavory the past of an individual, he had a right of privacy which cannot be bared to the public.

Mrs. Melvin brought suit on the ground that Mrs. Reid and the other motion picture producers in producing the film, "The Red Kimono," exposed her private life and subjected her to obloquy, contempt and ridicule.

PINCHOT BARES BIG POWER PROFITS

Charges Six Utilities Made From 28 to 68 Per Cent; Salus Assails Governor

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 3.—Gov. Pinchot today gave the Senate investigating committee the names of six utilities companies that he charged showed profits in 1929 ranging from 28 to 68 per cent.

Those named are Natrona Light Company, 69.65 per cent; Cresson Electric, 51.8 per cent; Portage Electric, 45.4; Hershey Electric, 38.75; Edison Light and Power, 34.18, and Abington Electric, 28.5.

The identities were related at the request of the Senate committee almost simultaneously with the report of the Public Service Commission that it could not find these figures in its records, although Gov. Pinchot said he found them there.

FATHER COX NAMED

Gov. Pinchot also officially announced today the names of his three observers on the House committee which on Thursday will start a separate investigation of the Public Service Commission. The Governor's representatives will be Father James R. Cox, of Pittsburgh; Harry J. Crawford, of Emlenton, and Morris L. Cooke, of Philadelphia.

Father Cox served in France during the war and since 1923 has been pastor of the St. Patrick's Church, Pittsburgh. Mr. Crawford is president of five banks, a director of the Columbia Gas and Electric Company, and one of the largest holders of public utility stock in Western Pennsylvania. The third observer for the Governor was director of the giant power survey in the first Pinchot administration. He is a former director of public works in Philadelphia and has specialized in public utility laws.

NEW INQUIRY URGED

Charging that the entire Public Service investigation is now surrounded by a "political atmosphere," C. J. Hepburn, counsel for the Senate Committee investigating the situation, today recommended that the inquiry be conducted by a body "free from partisanship and in which the public would have faith."

To that end he suggested a committee to consist of the chairman of the Senate Judiciary General Committee, the chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and three members representing the public, to be appointed by the Superior Court.

He also proposed that the Senate Committee confine its future activity to an inquiry into the rate structure of those companies which Gov. Gifford Pinchot has charged with earning excessive returns. Adoption of his suggestion, Hepburn said, would remove the whole matter from the field of partisan conflict.

SALUS ASSAILS PINCHOT

Senator Samuel A. Salus, of the Philadelphia war board, last night from the floor launched an attack on the Governor, ridiculing him for failing to stand for questioning. He charged the secretary of the Governor, in the fight over the president pro tem post, offered positions to senators if they would vote against Senator Augustus F. Daix. Salus declared the secretary did not know his business. He said he had to be referred to the right senator, after addressing a wrong one.

CHARGES COWARDICE

Salus shouted:

"Politics, politics. If the Governor of the commonwealth would stop playing politics we would get some work done.

"The most cowardly exhibition I have ever witnessed in my more than 20 years experience here was when the Governor refused to appear before the Senate Committee before he had a promise in writing from the chairman that he would not be questioned."

Senator Clarence Buckman defended the Governor, and pointed out that the burden of investigation was not with the Governor, but with the investigating committee.

ROGER Q. WILLIAMS MRS. CARRIE WILLIAMS

Flier Williams, the man who flew to Rome, pictured with the wife from whom he was separated by divorce action in California. He's living in Los Angeles, perfecting a world flight plan, she's in New York. He charged that she hit him, made exorbitant demands for money, refused to go to California to live and to have a family.

Anti-Blue Law Breakfast Followed by Luncheon Of Repeal Foes

HARRISBURG, March 3.—The Allegheny County delegations in House and Senate today attended a "blue law" breakfast, as guests of Bill Roper, former Princeton football coach.

Now a Philadelphia city councilman, Roper has undertaken to assist in the repeal of the blue laws and enactment of M. A. Musmanno's bill for local option.

Roper, as host, and Musmanno, as author of the bill, offered competition to the luncheon scheduled by church organizations fighting blue law repeal, with all members of the House and Senate invited.

A public hearing on the blue law bill will be held next week.

NEW HOUSE BILLS

Representative Frank E. Hoffman, Allegheny, introduced a bill in the House last night to allow "cities of the second class to define, by ordinance, a reasonable district within which electric light, electric power, telephone and telegraph wires shall be placed underground." Hoffman said his bill would protect school districts where children might be exposed if a high tension wire should break in or near the school ground.

The first of the administration measures appeared on the calendar today. They were measures designed to get Gov. Pinchot's advance construction program under way. Several bills carrying deficiency appropriations also came out of committee.

Construction to cost in excess of $10,000,000 is provided in the administration bills. One carries $9,330,000 for welfare institutions, armories, tuberculosis sanitarium and a hospital. The other gives $940,000 to Pennsylvania State College for two new buildings and a new sewage system.

JOB BILL HEARING

Appropriation committees of the Senate and House were to meet to consider administration measures to increase employment. These include $14,000,000 for construction at state welfare, educational and military institutions, and a $10,000,000 loan from the general fund to the road fund to permit highway improvements to start in April.

It is likely the committee also will consider unemployment relief measures submitted in opposition to the administration program. One of these is a proposal of Representative Matthew Dunn, of Mt. Oliver, to appropriate $4,000,000 for payment of rent, food and clothing for unemployed. Another proposes $80,000,000 payment by the state into an indemnity fund to which employers would contribute to pay weekly sums to unemployed persons.

Representative Wettach, of Allegheny, is the author of a bill to permit second-class counties to lay sidewalks and provide lights along county roads. Allegheny is the only second-class county in the state.

BILL REQUIRES NOTICE OF TAX CHANGES

Mansfield Measure Would Provide Opportunity For Hearings on Assessments

HARRISBURG, March 3.—Legislation which would prevent recurrence of the change in assessments in Brookline and South Hills without property owners being aware of it, is before the Senate today. It is embodied in a bill of Senator William D. Mansfield, McKeesport, which the Senate Committee on Municipal Affairs reported for action last night.

The bill required boards of assessment and revision of taxes to notify property owners of any changes in assessment figures and of dates for appeals.

The administration's old age pension amendments to the Constitution have been introduced by Senator Frank J. Harris, Crafton. One provides the state may appropriate for aid "to aged persons without adequate means of support by reason of indigency, disease, infirmity or other disability." A companion measure permits townships, cities, boroughs, counties and incorporated districts to appropriate money for the same purpose.

Harris also submitted an amendment to the Constitution for absentee voting. The 1923 Legislature passed a law to legalize absentee voting, but it was held unconstitutional.

Senator James J. Coyne's bill to authorize second-class city councils to increase salaries of department heads in the city government from $8,000 to $12,000 also came from the Municipal Affairs Committee and is before the Senate for action. In its present position, it can pass finally next week.

MRS. PINCHOT IN UTILITY FIGHT

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(INS.)—In a radio address, broadcast today, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot took up the public utilities question and offered an exposition of the Governor's opposition to the Public Service Commission.

The wife of Pennsylvania's chief executive reviewed the nature of public utilities, and explained that regulation of the utilities in the comonwealth lay in the Public Service Commission. She continued:

"Mr. Pinchot, however, claims that the Public Service Commission has been faithless and not only has failed to protect the rights of the people but has gone clear over to the other side, has become the catspaw of the utilities."

Mrs. Pinchot characterized Commissioners Benn and Shelby, who were removed from the commission during the first Pinchot regime, as "two of the most outstandingly faithless members" of the commission, and said the Pennsylvania Supreme Court "accordingly removed the two good men Mr. Pinchot had put on and Benn and Shelby were put back again."

Greensburg to Fight Water Rate Increase

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 3.—Greensburg Council took the lead last night in a fight against proposed increased water rates in which numerous boroughs and communities are expected to join.

Council voted to protest to the Public Service Commission the jump in rates, effective April 1, by the Westmoreland Water Company from 18 cents to 28 cents for 1,000 gallons, an increase of 55 per cent.

A PROTEST Against High Prices!

Why pay a half dollar or so per pound for any highly exploited brand of coffee when you can buy a better coffee for a whole lot less money—here is our story and we stick to it:

We think we know something about coffee and we should—we have been handling it for over a quarter of a century.

The big national advertising Coffee concerns—some with beautifully written high flown mellifluous advertisements; others with published testimonials from the glittering galaxy of Hollywood stars, loudly sound the virtues of their respective coffees and praise their brands to the skies.

—And we agree their coffees are good—but, we strongly assert and emphatically claim that our My-Te-Good brand is about the equal in quality and our Fifth Avenue brand is superior to any of the nationally advertised brands of coffee and—just think of the difference in price!

If you are a "crank" on coffee—hard to satisfy—we urge you to try Fifth Avenue brand—buy a one-pound package and—laying aside all price prejudice—carefully and conscientiously compare it with any of these much higher-priced coffees—if, in your judgment, Fifth Avenue is not superior, bring it back and we will cheerfully refund your money.

—"why bother", say you;

"If you will only try Fifth Avenue brand once, you will save a lot of money on your future coffee bills", say we

NYE'S REPORT ABSOLVES DAVIS

"LAWFULLY CHOSEN"

Patterson insisted:

"Davis was lawfully chosen and elected and there was no evidence before the committee which could in any manner affect the qualifications of Senator Davis as a member of the Senate of the United States."

The majority report said the committee regarded the primary expenditure as "excessive and inimical to the public interest, whether such sum is expended on behalf of one candidate or a group of candidates in any primary election," and could not be permitted without "most serious consequences to the nation."

Regarding the contention in Davis' behalf, that the majority report said he was chargeable with only a small per cent, the committee did not "feel called upon to attempt the impossible task of determining the amount of expenditures to be allocated to each individual candidate." (There were seven candidates on the Davis-Brown ticket).

The report said:

"In any event your committee does not regard it as material whether an excessive expenditure is made on behalf of a single candidate or a ticket comprising numerous candidates.

"Unless the expenditure of more than $600,000 in the primary on behalf of the ticket headed by Senator Davis can be construed as in itself constituting corruption, in fairness to Senator Davis as well as the other candidates in the Pennsylvania senatorial election, your committee desires to state that the evidence heard by it does not disclose any corruption for which he may be held personally responsible, nor has anything been revealed in the testimony before this committee relating to the conduct of the Pennsylvania senatorial campaign reflecting upon the honor and integrity of Senator Davis or any other senatorial candidate."

DEFENDS VAUCLAIN

Patternson defended Samuel Vauclain, treasurer of the Davis-Brown committee in Philadelphia, who had been under fire before the committee for not making a complete report of expenditures in behalf of the ticket, and concluded:

"There was no evidence of frauds, irregularities, corrupt practices or undue expenditures in the general election. The record as to the primary is conclusive, that there were no election irregularities chargeable to Senator Davis, or such as may have had an appreciable effect upon the results; that the total personal expenditures of Senator Davis were in the relatively small sums and were in no manner a violation of the corrupt practices act of the state of Pennsylvania."

Senator Davis issued a statement after the report had been submitted. It read:

"I am very glad to find that the Nye report states that nothing has been revealed in the testimony before this committee relating to the conduct of the Pennsylvania senatorial campaign reflecting upon my honor and integrity.

"That nails one lie. It was charged that I received $10,000 as a campaign contribution not reported by me, from the president of the Celotex Company.

"This charge was investigated by the Nye committee and found to be utterly false. The lobby story contained in a metropolitan newspaper came from the same source. It is of the same character with the same lack of foundation, and investigation will disclose that it has been instigated by the same malicious political enemies."

Rector, Wife, Wed 25 Years, Pass Flier Tests

NOTTINGHAM, England, March 3.—(AP.)—The Rev. John Pyddoke, 61, and his wife, 52, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary today by passing the final tests for air pilot certificates after 18 months of training. One of the tests was to ascend to 2,000 feet, shut off the engine and alight within 150 yards of a specified spot. The Rev. Mr. Pyddoke hit the spot. His wife did almost as well.

Just Leave Us the Tax

that Wilhelm the Grosser traveled further for fewer reasons.

If Einstein thinks there is neither space nor time he should see an empty apartment 30 days after you haven't paid the rent.

Charlie Chaplin will be knighted by the King and his boy friends for making a silent picture and giving the audience a chance to hear itself again.

To do it right, Charlie should kneel. But, then, he always looks like he's kneeling.

"I knight thee dub."

Arise, Sir Knight, we are ready to start shooting. That's when the beadle of the detours tosses the tree-ripened custard meringue at Chaplin and an indomitable Grenadier steps in between. And not only receives the deadly missile in his heart, but also hogs the camera.

The whole court plaster could be spread much neater if a Hollywood director manipulated the megaphone. The rotating chamberlain of the revolving door may know his business. Although not descended straight, or at any other angle, from royalty, we remember the old man's smart postcript when he invented the revolving door.

He said, "There's one door they won't slam in my face."

We believe that Charlie should have been knighted years ago if it's only for the diplomatic way in which he walks. He proved that you could get somewhere with round heels. He dresses like an old laundry-bag full of mice. But he has made the world laugh.

He goes from a sob to a giggle as suddenly as a straw hat changes its shape in the rain. And he swears he will never talk.

That's good. Neither will Tom Mix's roan cayuse. Two of the greatest actors on the screen.

Why, that pony acts as if Tom was a good rider. Now, if we can knight Farina and Rin Tin Tin we may have the start of a new restricted suburb.

Capt. Campbell was baronetted for going four miles a minute. And cabinet members have been duked for not going at all in a year.

So you can never tell the reason for being honored by a tap on the skull with a sword. Or for that matter, with a blackjack or an ostrich feather fan.

Chaplin deserves all the honors he is getting. He refused to talk and that's the third degree of Hollywood.

ASKS STATE PAY VETS' INTEREST

HARRISBURG, March 3.—The state would pay the interest charges on the veterans' bonus certificates instead of the veterans themselves paying it if a resolution submitted to the Legislature today by James F. Hoogerty of the North Side, is acted upon favorably.

Pointing out that because of existing economic conditions a vast number of veterans will be unable to keep up their interest on the federal loans, the resolution suggests that the State Veterans Bureau of the Department of Military Affairs be authorized to procure data relative to the interest due and report on the purpose of enacting necessary legislation.

PAPERS LAUDED FOR BONUS AID

Resolutions lauding newspapers of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County congressmen and Senator James J. Davis for support in the veterans' loan bill were passed at a meeting of Allegheny County Council. Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the court house last night.

The committee drawing up the resolutions was composed of Judge D. Paulson Foster, chairman; Harry J. Fossett, Kenneth Buffington, William J. Gumbert and Samuel F. Fleming.

Wife Finds Mate, Girl Dead in Home

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., March 3.—(AP)—The bodies of K. B. Tracey, 28, and Ruth (Blondie) Miller, 22, were found by Mrs. Katherine Tracey, when she returned home yesterday to ascertain whether her husband had kept a promise to quit drinking.

Police said evidence indicated the man had slain the girl and then committed suicide.

Work in Drought Aid Kills Woman

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 3.—(AP)—Unceasing and strenuous work on behalf of drought sufferers had ended in death today of Mrs. Ethel M. Wilson, executive chairman of the Blytheville, Ark., Red Cross chapter. She was 40. Mrs. Wilson died here yesterday of illness her family said was induced by her efforts to care for the thousands of unfortunates in her locality.

M'GOVERN RAPS SOLDIER FUND REQUEST

'Got to Check This Racket,' He Says, Then Votes in Favor of Appropriation

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern — hard-boiled "Buck" McGovern of Army fame—today voted to have the county join with the city in paying the $1,130.50 deficit accruing from the soldiers' convention here from November 6 to 11, but insisted that it is time to "check this soldier racket."

McGovern is now a colonel in the Reserve Officers' Corps. He went to France as a captain of cavalry, rose to major in the 107th Field Artillery. He later served as a general intelligence officer.

ASSAILS LETTER

McGovern's tirade came after a communication from Ronald L. Thompson, president of the Veterans' Association of the 107th Field Artillery, was read.

The letter said the organization had sponsored a reunion of veterans of the 53d Field Artillery, and that the city and county had each provided $2,500 to cover expenses. The attendance was larger than anticipated, however, according to the letter.

Before moving that the city and county join in meeting the deficit, as suggested in the letter, McGovern said:

"We've got to a stage where we have to check this soldier racket. Now these fellows want public money to fill their stomachs, to hire dress suits and to carry on shamefully.

"LINE MUST BE DRAWN"

"I favor anything within reason for soldiers, but the line must be drawn. A fixed policy must be adopted.

"No people will waste money and carry on as arrogantly as soldiers. Imagine spending $5,000 on a dinner.

"I'm opposed to such occurrences because they probably will injure efforts to secure permanent relief for the soldiers.

"These fellows were in to see me and I told them I'd say the same thing to the whole army. I don't care how many of them there are or what their ideas about election might be.

"That fellow Thompson was in my outfit and is a good fellow. He is not responsible for this."

McGovern also explained that the present officers of the association were not responsible for an inherited deficit. He then made his motion that the county join with the city in clearing off the debt. The motion was carried by Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong's vote.

RUSH FOR LOANS SLACKENS

LOAN AID BY RADIO

Complete information on how to apply for a loan will be given over the air tonight. The Sun-Telegraph procured time for veterans' organizations to carry their messages to shut-ins as well as throughout Western Pennsylvania and the Panhandle district.

County Commander John B. Nicklas, Jr., will deliver the American Legion message over Station WCAE at 6:15 p. m. Judge John P. Egan will be heard over Station WJAS at 6:30 p. m., while Judge D. Paulson Foster is scheduled to speak from KDKA at 11:45 p. m., Frank Dixon being named to speak by County Commander James Pirt.

Regional Manager Michael J. Shortley, of the Veterans' Bureau, asserted that if ex-soldiers will apply to the various veterans' headquarters for information, forms and assistance, the work of sending out checks could be speeded up to a maximum of 600 daily at his office. With its additional clerks, the bureau assists 500 applicants hourly during its open hours from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. The office staff is working until midnight in handling applications and mailing checks.

$400,000 DEPOSITED

The local bureau has had $400,000 deposited to its account for loans, Shortley said.

The new offices announced opening today and the hours follow: "40-8" Society, 403 McCance Building, Smithfield street and Liberty avenue, 10:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.; Allegheny Post No. 41, American Legion, North Side City Hall, Federal and Ohio streets, 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.; East Liberty Post No. 5, American Legion, East Liberty Y. M. C. A., Whitfield street at Penn avenue, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and George Westinghouse Post No. 230, First National Bank of Wilmerding, 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., and at post home, 37 Marguerite street, Wilmerding, 7 to 9 p. m.

American Legion County Commander Nicklas and V. F. W. County Commander Pirt emphasized the importance of all ex-soldiers not in immediate need of their loans to withhold applying for several weeks. This delay will permit veterans now in dire circumstances through illness in their families, unemployment or other pressing needs to obtain the first checks, it was pointed out.

70,000 Vets Apply For Loans in N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(INS.)—In two days 70,000 former soldiers have applied for bonus certificates loans, the Veterans' Bureau here revealed today. A total of 55,000 application forms were distributed yesterday.

McCann's Two Stores

To Avoid Grease Scum on Glassware

BY MARY LEE WORK

An easier way to do dishes and 2 other hard jobs. Try it yourself and see

You can avoid this entirely with a preparation called Climalene—used according to the directions below.

It's the same preparation that smart shops use to make the china and glassware you see on display shine and sparkle so marvelously . . . And in addition, it cuts dishwashing time in half and keeps one's hands lovely.

It makes two other hard jobs easier too—family washing and cleaning silver. You can get a package for 10 cents (12-oz. package) at any grocery store.

Women who use it save themselves hours of needless work. You too, can find time to enjoy life—shop, go to the movies, do many of the things you now think only a woman with servants can do.

To Make Dishes Sparkle Like Jewels

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to a dishpan of water, use only ¼ the amount of soap you now use. It instantly cuts the grease from dishes and cooking utensils, makes glassware sparkle and china gleam. The Climalene-softened water, plus certain bland cleansing agents, cuts your dishwashing time ⅓ or more—saves ½ or more the soap you now use.

To Avoid Faded Gray Washings

Use 2 tablespoons of Climalene, and ¼ the usual amount of soap. Clothes emerge soft, spotless, utterly without fading. For soap fade and soap eat are ended this way. In recent tests men's blue shirts were washed 75 times without noticeable fade; sheerest French hosiery 100 times or more—to prove the blandness of this way.

To Clean Silver Without Rubbing

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to 2 quarts of water in an aluminum pan. Immerse the silver—bring it to a boil. Then rinse silver, and wipe dry. That is all. All signs of tarnish disappear. Even the most intricate and highly embossed silver patterns are perfectly cleaned.

Why It Cleans

Climalene instantly takes all the harshness out of Lake water, medium hard water, and hard water, Makes it soft and gentle as rain water. So soft it does the work with ¼ the soap you now use. At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all grease, dirt and grime, and thus cuts your working time ⅓ or more, in washing, cleaning and in the dishpan.

RURAL CHURCH GAINS INTEREST

On account of a growing interest in country life and modern improvements being introduced in the farming sections, the rural church is expanding, the Rev Wilson Stitt, of Florence, told the members of the Presbyterian Ministerial Association yesterday.

Mr. Stitt said that a combination of forces is opening up life for the country folk. Improved roads and the introduction of modern conveniences in the home are having a great influence on rural life. As a result the churches are benefitting. Mr. Stitt said:

"The growing interest in country life is commanding public respect and attention. The old saying that the country church has had its day is by no means correct. The country continues to produce five-sixths of the men entering the ministry and six-sevenths of our college teachers."

ALMA RUBENS FOUND IN OPIUM DEN

NOTE PENCILED IN FLIGHT HER UNDOING

By ALMA RUBENS

CHAPTER XXVIII.

After driving about half an hour, poor Fred finally mustered nerve enough to turn his head and look at me.

When he saw that my "pistol" was nothing but a broken piece of steel tubing, he slowed up.

"I'm going to turn right around," said Fred, "and take you straight back."

"Don't you dare to try it," said I. "If you do I'll jump out of the car and break my neck, and you'll have to meet my mother and tell her you drove me to suicide."

Miss Rubens

I suppose he was afraid to take the chance of my keeping my word, anyhow he kept on.

Every once in a while I told him where to turn, until finally we reached the postoffice in Pasadena.

There we were held up by a traffic jam.

If the little, old, withered man in the linen duster, and sun-burned straw hat, had known who was behind him, trying to get him out of the way I think he would have moved a little faster.

But he didn't know, and he didn't move. I couldn't wait another second, every minute I expected to have a traffic cop stop us and tell us he got our number by telephone.

But I fooled them again, traffic jam, little old man in the linen duster, insane asylum, attendants, my poor mother—and all.

Escaped Auto

I stepped out of the car as light as a feather. Fred tried to stop me, but I ran like a deer till I was around the corner, then I walked quietly long, until I came to a drug store. Into the drug store I went, picked up the public 'phone and called the sanitarium. My mother was still there, they brought her to the telephone.

"I'm all right mamma," I said. "Don't worry about me. I'm right down at the postoffice at Pasadena." Then I hung up. I knew that inside of five minutes all the police in Pasadena would be at the postoffice looking for me. I stepped out of the drug store as calm as a clock, hailed a taxicab and directed the driver to take me to our home in Santa Monica.

When I got home I kept the taxicab waiting at the curb. I went into the house, flew to my room, threw a few clothes into a suitcase and started to run out.

All at once I was taken with a fearful cramp and had to sit down on the edge of the bed. These cramps are part of the suffering when you are trying to give up dope. I hadn't had a shot for quite a while, and my nerves were "getting even."

As if spurred on by the agony, my poor dazed brain began to work, like a machine.

A number came into my head—a telephone number. It had been given to me by an addict at Spadra.

"If you get up against it for dope," the addict said, "call that number."

Betrayed Herself

I thought I had forgotten it, and there it was ringing like a bell in my head. I snatched up the telephone, called the number, and got an answer, but while I was waiting for central to connect me I did something that led to my recapture, 24 hours later.

I wrote down on the pad on the telephone desk the number that I was calling.

I didn't know that I was writing, but they found it there after I had gone.

When I got my number the pain has eased up. I grabbed my bag, ran downstairs and slipped out the back way, leaving my taxicab parked in front of the house.

My mother found the taxi waiting at the curb when she got home late that night, poor soul, almost worried to death, trying to find me.

When I slipped out the back door, I climbed over the hedge in the rear like a cat, crossed an alley, slipped through a neighbor's lot, and got to the next street, then I walked to the street car line, stopped a car, sat down on the edge of the seat, and held myself together till I could reach the one spot in the world that I wanted to see.

The one place where I could get the only thing that meant anything in life to me—dope!

The flowers in such sweet profusion, in the beautiful rooms I had deserted, the luxurious couch, and the beautiful chairs, and the rugs, and mirrors, and pictures, the silken draperies—what did they all mean to me!

Not a thing in the world.

The long, broad, white, shining, winding road, I had found it. I had followed it, and it led me where I wanted to go.

Road to Dope

Not to the orchards, that crowned the hills with golden glory, not to the fields gay with California wild flowers, not to my own beautiful home with my own devoted Mother, and my handsome husband—these things meant less than nothing to me.

That road led me to "Dope!"

And dope was all I asked of life or death or times, or eternity, for that is what it is to be a dope slave.

That telephone number led me straight to a Chinese peddler, and addict.

The only money I had was the dollar my mother had given to me at the sanitarium. But I had my wedding ring which was studded with small, but very perfect diamonds. My husband paid $500 for it, when we were married.

I got plenty of dope, and after my regular shot the peddler persuaded me to take a smoke with him.

When my mother and the police located me 24 hours later, they found me in the drug sleep of opium.

The police arrested the companion of my opium debauch, not only for possession and sale of narcotics, but for stealing my wedding ring. He was wearing the ring, when the police found him. I don't know whether I gave it to him or whether he took it off my finger after I fell asleep. We were in one of the lowest dives in the Chinese section near the railroad track in Los Angeles.

And that is what dope did to a fairly intelligent, fairly well-educated, perhaps a little more than fairly attractive young American woman, who was making $3,000 a week, and was possessed of a beautiful home, a handsome, successful husband, a wide circle of pleasant friends, and a devoted mother, when she started to walk the dreadful road of dope addiction.

NEW SPAN PACT IN COUNCIL

An agreement ordinance between the city and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad today was in the custody of the councilmanic Committee on Finance, authorizing purchase of property from the railroad for widening of West Carson street as an approach to the proposed new West End Bridge.

Property to be bought will total $150,000 and the agreement stipulates the railroad will not be assessed on any of the widening projects. John S. Wendt, attorney for the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad interests, and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt have approved the ordinance.

Near the south end of the span the land bought by the city will make the approaches to the bridge wider and enable a larger volume of traffic to cross.

Both the city and Allegheny County have an agreement for building of the bridge. The stipulation is that the city shall furnish all land necessary for approaches.

3 DAMAGE SUITS ASK $57,500

Leo Joseph Joos, 4812 Kincaid street, asked $40,000 damages for personal injuries in a collision between a motorcycle and the automobile of Mary R. Wilkinson, of Cleveland, O., named defendant in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. He averred he was a passenger in the motorcycle August 20, 1929, when it was struck by the Wilkinson automobile on Babcock boulevard, Pine Township.

Claiming serious injuries due to a sidewalk fall, Mrs. Rebecca Lippman, of Campania street, asked $15,000 damages from the City of Pittsburgh in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court, in which her husband, Harold L. Lippman, joined.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company is plaintiff in a damage suit filed in Common Pleas Court against Merle Hofstetter, through which the company seeks to recover $2,500 damages to a street car struck by a truck. The suit alleged that the street car was struck by the Hofstetter truck on Island avenue near Bradley street, McKees Rocks. The truck was negligently operated by the driver, according to the suit.

Drunk When Wed, Divorce Suit Claims

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 3.—Claiming that he was induced to become intoxicated and was kept that way for a day after his marriage, John Haubrich, Sr., of Manor, has filed a divorce application in court here against Julia Haubrich.

Haubrich claims that on July 26, 1930, he was induced to become so intoxicated that he had no knowledge of obtaining a marriage license or of the ceremony being performed in the court house here.

WEAPONS BRING TERMS FOR 2

Kotex is safe

BECAUSE Kotex absorbs by a scientific method, it is safer than ordinary sanitary protection. It is soft—not merely an apparent softness that soon packs into chafing hardness, but a delicate, lasting softness. That's because it absorbs laterally, giving it a larger area of protection than ordinary pads.

Kotex may be worn on either side, with no possible danger of embarrassment. It is adjustable. You can remove layers of the filler as your needs change. It is treated to deodorize. It gives safe, secure protection. And it is, of course, disposable.

Feeling Bad Today? Listen, Here's Good News

What's the use in kidding yourself? If you feel tired and run down, you ought to do something about it before some serious illness strikes. You ought to build up your body so it's one hundred per cent fit.

The way to do this, say doctors, is to take cod liver oil. But don't take cod liver oil the old-fashioned liquid way. Take it the modern way in tiny tasteless tablets.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are made from the vitamins of the finest cod liver oil that Norway can produce. You get all the healthful benefits, but no nasty taste. That's why doctors so widely prescribe them. That's why Good Housekeeping Institute has given them its seal of approval.

If you want to lead a happy, healthy, normal life, accept this good advice. Go to your druggist and get a box of McCoy's today. They're just what the doctors say you need. 60 tablets—60 cents.

Cold in Head, Chest or Throat?
RUB Musterole well into your chest and throat—almost instantly you feel easier. Repeat the Musterole-rub once an hour for five hours . . . what a glorious relief!
Those good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor—are mixed with other valuable ingredients in Musterole to make it what doctors call a "counter-irritant" because it gets action and is not just a salve.
It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Keep Musterole handy—jars, tubes. All druggists.
To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Morton Downey

When Ruth Etting was in Pittsburgh, not long ago, she was all enthused about the network program she is to do tonight. As guest artist of the Pioneer Salute on KDKA at 10 she is to entertain her customary radio audience and three others—one underground, one in a dirigible, and a third in a submarine. Talking movies are to be made of the program as it is received in Mammoth Cave, Ky.; in a blimp flying over Hollywood, Cal., and on board the U. S. Navy submarine V-154 in the Pacific ocean. Engineers have studied this unique feat to the minutest detail. Frederick G. Rodgers, of KDKA, is to be narrator for the program, which is to originate in the studios of WJZ, New York.

Morton Downey, whose Saturday night check now aggregates $5,500 for personal appearances at theaters, is featured on WJAS at 10:30.

Prominent Pittsburghers tell "How to Get Bonus Loans" on WCAE at 6:15, WJAS at 6:30, KQV at 9, KDKA at 11:15.

QUESTION A DAY:

Is Henry Riggs, Cincinnati announcer, related to Glenn Riggs of KDKA?—E. J. H., 1349 Pritchard street, Corliss.

Answer—No relation. Bargain day, so we'll answer your other question, too. Lora McClelland is "Cousin Lora." Her voice has sounded different these last few days because she has had to address a tremendous audience of kiddies during her broadcasts.

After hearing Dick Ridgely pound four hammers on the xylophone last night we suggest that he challenge Fred S. Paine of the Detroit Symphony for the world's speed record. Paine does 964 notes in Rimsky Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee" in 65 seconds flat—or 15 notes a second!

What infinite joy to hear Gigli last night. Full, rich tones and excellent dramatic expression. This program on WJAS every Monday night at 8:30 is to give us Rosa Ponselle next week and in weeks following—Giovanni Martinelli, March 16; Maria Jeritza, March 23; Sigrid Onegin, March 30.

Tom Manning, of WTAM, turned in a nice account of a polo game recently. We wonder what alert Pittsburgh station will be first to score in reporting either a hockey or polo game.

Knute Rockne "tells all" on WLW at 9 tonight. Give an ear to the fellow who introduces him—Bob Newhall, a fine reporter.

When Andy Sannella failed to show up for an NBC broadcast the other a. m., his wife dashed home in a taxi to find him sleeping in a gas-filled room. The gas log had gone out.

Ruth Chatterton said okay, but Jimmy Walker said "Nix" when NBC officials recently approached them to sign radio contracts.

Billie Burke comes to us in the leading role of James Barrie's "Rosalind" over WCAE this Sunday at 7:30. And Irene Bordoni appears as "the Playgirl" in a new Sunday series for Columbia and WJAS.

* * *

Harold Wood, of Millvale, calls to tell us that he recognized "Sam the Drummer" singing for Ben Bernie last night as none other than the redoubtable Rudy Vallee. Ben used the strange cognomen to circumscribe the clause in Rudy's contract which forbids him singing on any program but his sponsored hour over the network. "Sam the Drummer" did "Cigaret Lady" as only Rudy Vallee can do it.

If you missed Arthur F. Mekogh's war tale on KDKA Sunday don't fail to pick it up on WCAE at 7:30 tonight. It's a thriller!

A boxing referee, a football head linesman, a baseball umpire and a six-day bicycle rider are to referee a debate on "Corn Pone Dunking" over WEAF tomorrow night at 11:15. Graham McNamee is to argue that crumbled corn pone is the correct way when it's served with potlikker. Rockwell, the funny man, is to insist on dunking.

Jim Corbett and Betty Grimes, swimming champion, answer question on WJAS in a new feature, starting next Wednesday . . . Dick Powell returns to KDKA at 6:45 Sunday.

KQV has installed "hiss filters" on their condenser mikes to overcome the sibilant "s."

* * *

Al Clarke apologizes for failing to produce Honus Wagner on KQV last night, but promises Pete Bowen, Pitt track star, for next week.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, March 3.—The epidemic of jazz baby songs seems to have been definitely halted. Nor do baby voices sing boop-a-doop as regularly on the microphones.

Boop-a-dooping owes its vogue chiefly to Helen Kane. She it was who gave it such expert voicing that it soon penetrated every cross road of the country.

Americans have ever a fondness for zany musical phrases. Every few years some crazy combination of words, set to music, seeps into the national consciousness to be taken up as momentary relief from taxes and tariffs and the price of strawberries. Thus we had "Yip I Addy I Ay, "Ja Da" and now, "Oo, Oo, Oo, Would You Like to Take a Walk?"

For breathlessness on the microphones no speakers are in a class with the pugilists who greet "Ma and the folks" after they have been declared "the winnuh." Even the victor of a two-mile foot race is a symbol of calm and restful poise in comparison.

The latest Broadway tune to win the approval of radio dance-band men is "I've Got Five Dollars." Though by Rodgers and Hart, we believe it does not come up to their usual standard of melody and zip.

One of the chief merits of radio, it seems to me, is that it has put a fairly definite stop to windy and bombastic political speeches.

A new mechanical representation of Amos 'n' Andy seems to be marketed every week. The blackface comedians are the only representatives of the radio realm, however, who have achieved toy-shop prestige.

James J. Corbett and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien are the only ex-pugilists who have found fairly lucrative employment on the air channels.

It has taken Amos 'n' Andy nearly two years on the networks to add female impersonation to their accomplishments.

There is still a rich financial return in America for programs with an authentic homespun background. Phillips Lord, of Seth Parker fame, is reaping a reward, they say, that makes even Billy Sunday's soul-saving an impecunious enterprise in comparison.

Were Edward MacDowell to return to earth I doubt he would be displeased with the jazzbos' arrangement of "To a Wild Rose." For that matter, I doubt if Rimsky-Korsakoff would find any cause for complaint in their arrangement of "Song of India."

Television will be responsible, they say, for musical conductors turning their faces rather than their backs, to listeners. When that epoch of the armchairs arrives conductors will direct their bands from a dais at the rear and the musicians will be grouped with profiles visible in a semicircle in front.

What has become of J. Andrew White?

Telephone operators are no longer harassed with inquiries about the time. The public is now setting its clocks to the fifteen-minute chime announcements of radio stations.

The best soprano voice yet disclosed on the air is, in our opinion, that of Rosa Ponselle. But Lucrezia Bori is not far behind and neither, among regular radio artists, is Jessica Dragonette.

REFRIGERATION EXPERTS SEE BUSY YEAR

New Sales Marks Expected, General Electric Dealers, Salesmen Told at Meet

The annual Monitor Top convention of the General Electric refrigerator dealers and salesmen in the territory of the Ochiltree Electric Company, Pittsburgh distributors, opened today in the Y. M. H. A. auditorium. Speakers were introduced by an "electric chairman," a system of electrical transcription.

A feature of the convention was the address of M. G. Mahony, manager of the sales operating division of the General Electric refrigeration department, Cleveland. He declared that, despite the economic depression, sales of General Electric refrigerators last year broke all previous records and declared a substantial gain is expected in 1931.

Mr. Mahony

B. M. Walthall, central representative of the electrical refrigeration department, also took an active part in the convention. Other officials gave short talks at a luncheon at which D. H. Thomas, retail sales manager, presided.

Mr. Walthall

W. H. Ochiltree spoke on the outlook for this year, declaring his company expected a marked gain. The Ochiltree company recently completed an extensive survey of business conditions in the Pittsburgh territory.

Ochiltree said Dr. George W. Allison, director of the electric refrigeration bureau of the National Electric Association, had announced his association had set a sales quota of 1,000,000 electric refrigerators for the year, which means installation in 5 per cent of all homes in the country that are wired for electricity.

During the afternoon the program was to include talking pictures, a sound newsreel and dramatic sketches depicting problems of salesmen and their solutions. The convention will end tonight with a banquet.

Mellon Gets Law To Spurn W. Va. Man's Gift

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP).—Think of needing an act of Congress to let you refuse money!

That is the Treasury's fix, however, because no law permits the government to refuse gifts. S. A. Long of Shinnston, W. Va., willed $5,000 to the government while his granddaughter only got $1,000.

Secretary Mellon thought the heir should be better provided, so Congress gave him "special relief" and today sent the President a bill authorizing Mellon to give the money back.

"ACIDINE HAS NO EQUAL FOR INDIGESTION, GAS"

I have used ACIDINE for indigestion and gas pains and find that it has no equal. It is classed alone. Nothing can compare with it," says John Hughes, 3000 E. Garfield Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which in laboratory tests, digested 500 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings. Relieves acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When your stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gases, headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money. Get it from your druggist.

2 HELD IN GIRL'S HIT-RUN DEATH

A coroner's jury today recommended two Negroes be held for the grand jury on charges of murder as the result of a hit-and-run fatality.

The pair are Hugh Benton, 24, and William Edwards, 30. They were arraigned at the inquest into the death of Jenny Wagner, 18, of Horning. Jenny and her sister, Christine, 20, were struck by an automobile in Library road, near Mollenaur, February 15.

Two days after the accident Benton and Edwards were arrested in Braddock. From the witness stand they admitted they had stolen the automobile, that they had been drinking, that they were driving without lights, that they were unlicensed drivers and that they failed to render assistance to the women after striking them.

INCOME TAXES HIGHER THAN IN 1930

Rates Return to Regular Figures Under 1928 Law; Computation Basis Given

This is the second of a series of articles on the most common problems of income tax.

The rates on income taxes to be paid this year are higher than those paid last year. Congress, late in 1929, passed a resolution providing for a reduction of 1 per cent on both individual and corporate net income, but this applied only to taxes payable in 1930. This year's taxes take the regular rates as provided in the 1928 revenue law.

On the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemption 1½ per cent must be paid.

On the next $4,000 3 per cent must be paid.

On the balance 5 per cent must be paid.

SCHEDULE FOR SURTAXES

Surtaxes on individual net incomes in excess of $10,000 must be paid in accordance with the schedules on the tax forms.

Most individuals filing income tax returns are entitled to deduct a credit of 25 per cent of their tax on the full amount of earned income. Earned income consists of wages, salaries or professional fees for personal services actually rendered. For tax purposes any amount of income up to $5,000 is classed as earned income.

Thus a taxpayer who made a profit of $1,000 by selling a house could deduct 25 per cent from the tax on this amount, providing his net income was less than $5,000 but not if it exceeded $5,000.

FORMS TO USE

Individuals with net income of less than $5,000 must make their returns on form 1040A. Those with greater incomes use form 1040.

If an individual is engaged in a business or profession or if income was derived from the sale of property or securities he must use form 1040 regardless of the size of his income.

BACK ACHE, NERVOUS, DIZZY

MRS. JOHN MILLER and TWINS

Meadville (Kerrtown), Pa.—"I am the mother of five children. Before my third baby came I was very weak—unable to attend to my household duties. My appetite was poor, I had nervous headaches and dizzy spells, and my back bothered me. I was afraid I did not have the necessary strength that one requires at this time. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and while on my first bottle began to pick up. I used about three bottles and soon felt like myself again. It gave the necessary strength for my baby as well as for myself. Since then I have had very health twin boys. (See above.)"—Mrs. John Miller, Henderson Ave.

GRAY HAIR IS EASILY DARKENED

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Hoods, a well known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Anyone can darken their gray or faded hair and look twenty years younger, with this simple remedy which they can mix at home. To 1 cup-ful of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

CHILDREN SHOULD HAVE WHOLESOME DESSERTS DAILY

Puddings and Custards Essential for Maintaining Correct Weight

Puddings made of rice, tapioca or cornstarch, custards and ice cream are appropriate desserts for the development of the growing child who is underweight. Such a dessert not only supplements the other food in the meal but causes the child to leave the table satisfied.

The part sugar plays in making these desserts appealing should be considered in relation to other foods. Those which are carriers of vitamins, minerals and roughage can be made as inviting as desserts by the use of sugar as a flavor. Cabbage, onions, cauliflower, turnips, tomatoes, peas and other vegetables—canned or fresh—are much improved in appetizing qualities when seasoned with a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt. Likewise sugar is ideal on fruits and cereals.

Doctors and dietitians approve this use of sugar. For, when the flavor of a food is inviting to the taste, the flow of gastric juices is increased, thus aiding digestion. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

CHILDREN GIVEN SPECIAL CARE

SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THIS DENTIFRICE

For healthy teeth and gums are vitally important to lasting charm. Yet, how will you decide which is the best way to care for them? There are countless different dentifrices, dozens of conflicting theories.

E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a leading research institution to make an investigation among 50,000 practicing dentists — to get their expert opinion on this important question. Read the summary of the replies received:

95% of the answers stated that germ acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation;

95% agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet;

85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.

Isn't this real assurance that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your teeth and gums? It is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia.

Squibb's cleans beautifully — and safely. It contains no grit, no astringent, nothing which might injure. Its regular use refreshes and sweetens the mouth. Try it.

SEEK OFFICIALS OF OLD RAILWAY

Sheriff Robert S. Cain would like to know the names of the officers of the old Duquesne and Dravosburg Street Railway Company which passed out of existance more than a decade ago, his men being unable to find them.

He has papers to serve on them sent by William A. Schnader, attorney general for Pennsylvania who wants to know by what right powers and privileges the corporation lays claim to the franchise.

Deputy Sheriff Nick Spanovic tried to serve the papers on the officers, but has not been able to locate them. Spanovic is from Dravosburg and has only faint recollections of seeing the road in operation between Duquesne and Dravisburg, when he was a boy. The rails of the company were lifted many years ago, the route of the old car line, he says, now being a public highway.

Soviet Takes Over 8,125,000 Farms

MOSCOW, March 3.—(INS)—A total of 8,125,000 farms throughout Russia, comprising about one-third of the entire number, have already been absorbed into Soviet Russia's collectivization scheme, it was announced by Commissar of Agriculture Jacovlev today.

Fifty million hectares (about 125,000,000 acres) of collective farms will shortly be sown with all crops, Jacovlev said.

9 U. S. CONVICTS START FOR PEN

Nine prisoners started to the Atlanta penitentiary this morning to serve terms ranging from one year to four years, imposed in Federal District Court, for offenses against the government.

The party, in the custody of United States Marshal J. C. McGregor, Deputy Marshal D. A. Goldman and special guards, entrained at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station at 9:30 o'clock.

Among the prisoners was Leo J. Smith, former paying teller of the First National Bank, Erie, Pa., sentenced to serve four years for embezzling $80,600 of the bank's funds. Smith, who had worked for the bank 16 years, pleaded guilty and said he had lost the money "playing the horses" and gambling otherwise.

In the party were Clarence and Richard McNeil, brothers, Negroes, to serve one year each for counterfeiting silver dollars and "nickels." Another counterfeiter, Sebastino Passalacqua, of Brooklyn, is to serve two years. Other prisoners, their offenses and terms of imprisonment were as follows: Robert F. Chizum, postal law, one year; James Clay, motor theft, one year; James McNany, narcotic law, one year; Earl McWhirter, motor theft, one year, and Joseph Angle, motor theft, one year.

Rites for Tin Plate Leader Thursday

NEW PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—Funeral services will be held Thursday for James A. Jones, 64, one of the first superintendents of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company works here. He died yesterday after four months' illness. Surviving are his widow and four children.

Real Estate

The Martha Washington Candy Company has rented for a term of years a portion of the former Huyler store at 520 Wood street from Schulte-United, Inc. The Martha Washington Candy Company will remodel the room. The mercantile lease department of the United States Realty Company drew up the lease.

According to the monthly report of G. Bruce Gordon, chief of the Bureau of Deed Registry, Department of Public Works, 653 deeds representing $776,573 were registered last month. In February, 1930, 1,037 deeds totaling $932,312 were registered.

V. N. Connar, manager of the technical service bureau of the Universal Cement Company, will speak Thursday at the noon-day meeting of the Pittsburgh Builders' Exchange in the Red Room of the Keystone Athletic Club. Connar will speak on "The Manufacture of Universal-Atlas Cement." The talk will be illustrated by motion pictures.

The Keystone State Building and Loan Association has sold to Elmer N. Isenberg an improved property on lot 25x100 feet in Rutledge street, Nineteenth Ward, for $3,500.

An improved property in Orchard avenue, Bellevue, has been conveyed by D. F. H. McDowell to Blanche Gillespie for a private consideration. The lot measures 150x150 feet.

Developing work is now going ahead on the second plan of North Hills Estates, new residential section on Perry highway, West View. Water mains, storm and sanitary sewers, sidewalks and street paving have been completed on several of the streets. Many who own building lots in the new plan say that they will begin construction of houses early in spring.

John Simmonds has purchased from Joseph Bullock a small house on lot 70x125 feet in Bullford road for $5,500.

Applications for building permits follow:

$20,000 SOUGHT FOR PLAY SITES

Additional playground activities under auspices of the City Bureau of Recreation this summer and early autumn will cost $20,000, it is estimated.

Transfer of that amount to the bureau was requested yesterday of City Council, as well as provision for 43 additional positions in the bureau. The new position would include those of attendants.

The playgrounds are to be operated on school property as junior activities and will be placed at 15 sites throughout the city. They will be open during July and August. Ten other playgrounds will be operated in May, June, September and October from 3:30 p. m. until 9 p. m. daily for the benefit of children attending school.

I Was Skinny, Rundown. Gained 34 lbs in Few Weeks

"I was so skinny and rundown friends thought I had a fatal disease. At last I tried Ironized Yeast and gained 34 pounds in few weeks." — Paul Dilanch.

"Skinny," weak, nervous people are delighted as new Ironized Yeast adds 5 to 15 pounds in 3 weeks. Changes "scarecrow" body quick to strong, well-developed form. Blotchy skin clears like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation end overnight. Sound sleep, pep quick.

Two great tonics in one—special weight-building Brewer's Yeast and strengthening Iron. Pleasant little tablets. Far stronger than unmedicated yeast. Results in one-half time. No yeasty taste, no gas.

SOUR STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Get Rid of Acid Before It Does You Harm

Don't let indigestion spoil your enjoyment of good food, sap your vitality and shorten your life. Get rid of the sour, burning acids that are constantly irritating your stomach, forming gas and causing pain. No matter how severe or chronic your acid stomach condition may be, you can speedily remove the cause by taking a little "Bisurated" Magnesia after meals or whenever pain is felt. Instantly excess acid is neutralized, fermentation stops, gas vanishes and pain disappears. "Bisurated" Magnesia, which is always safe and harmless, is used daily by thousands, recommended by physicians, and is obtainable in either powder or tablet form from May-Liggett Drug Stores and reliable druggists everywhere. Get a package today, use as directed, and get rid of your acid digestive troubles before they cause you serious harm.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

BAR OPPOSES BILL FOR 2 MORE JUDGES

Women Voters' Committee as City Council Rebuffed Demand for Open Food Probe

SPLENDID PANORAMIC PICTURE OF COUNCIL CHAMBER WHEN ALLEGHENY COUNTY WOMEN VOTERS' COMMITTEE APPEARED TO DEMAND OPEN INVESTIGATION OF FOOD CONTRACTS

CIVIC CLUB ALSO URGES REJECTION

Lawyers by 768 to 499 Vote Reverse Previous Action On Coyne Legislation

The Allegheny County Bar Association and the Civic Club of Allegheny County have gone on record as opposing the bill of State Senator James J. Coyne for two additional judges for the Court of Common Pleas. The bar association announced the count of its referendum taken yesterday was 768 votes against the bill to 499 for it. There were 1,287 votes cast but 20 were not counted because of improper markings.

The Civic Club, through its board of directors, upon recommendation of the State and Federal Affairs Committee, has gone on record as opposing the bill. The directors recommend that the bill be not passed, or, if passed, be vetoed by the governor.

The total bar association vote, 1,287, represented a vast majority of the membership, 1,710. The votes, cast by mail, were counted late yesterday. At a recent meeting of the association, with a small attendance, the bill was orally indorsed. The action caused so much comment it was decided to hold a referendum.

The Civic Club at its meeting unanimously approved Senate Bill No. 151, which supplements the election laws. The club is already on record in favor of improved regulation of the machinery for elections. The indorsement commends the up-to-date principal of permanent, personal registration, protected against fraud by adequate inspection and the requirement of the signature of the voter before receiving a ballot.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

Mr. Pfarr

Thoughts of a non-thinker: That loud noise you heard in town a few days ago was Jim (Red) Mason, the boxing man, come back from Chicago. . . He's crying the blues . . . He claims he hasn't made a dime since Greb died and to make matters worse the ponies have been taking him in Chicago . . . Mason doesn't have one fighter of his own anymore . . . He's a second for Ray Alvis, Tony Herrera's manager. . . He still puts everybody on the pan, although he says Barney Dreyfuss is a good guy when you get to know him. . . He's spending most of his time in Chicago because his sister and brother-in-law are both pretty sick there.

Everything's a racket these days. . . If you were in a racket five years ago that meant you were a booze peddler, or anything that wasn't on the level . . . Now a newspaperman is in the newspaper racket, a lawyer is in the legal racket, a physician is in the medicine racket . . . The best racket we've heard of recently is that of a young fellow who coaches students in one of Pitt's professional schools . . . And he's in the money. . . He keeps a catalog of every question asked in the important examinations for the last 10 years. . . And a few weeks before each examination he puts his customers through their paces at so much per pace.

As a wedding present a speakeasy boss offered one of his customers a half-barrel of beer when the customer was married . . . A lot of his customers would get married for an eighth . . . There's a fellow on the South Side who, some years ago, discovered an extra card in a new deck . . . He mailed it to the card company and, for some reason or other, they sent him a check for $50 . . .

If you're no older than 30 you don't remember Luna Park, the big amusement spot at Baum boulevard and Melwood street which didn't do so well because it was years ahead of its time . . . Once a real lion, with teeth and all, escaped in the park and the firemen and cops couldn't lasso it in less than five hours . . . Speaking of parks, those old red mills, where a fellow used to take his girl and sneak a kiss, aren't so popular anymore because the young folks are too sophisticated . . .

The odds are three to one that half of last summer's minature golf courses will be parking lots this year . . . And everybody's wondering why Al McBride, the Schenley pro, quit that money-making spot for a job at the South Park course, which probably won't pay much for four or five years . . . Every golfer in town who can break a 90 at Schenley is trying to get Al's old job.

Well, it looks like they've put Andy Park, the district attorney, on the spot in this Succop case . . . Andy says he'll take the case to the grand jury if somebody makes a complaint and shows him some evidence . . . And that sounds just like another district attorney we've had . . . Anyhow, Andy'll still get Jimmy Coyne's vote when he comes up for election this year . . . Roy Schooley, the hockey man, used to be a newspaperman and fighter promoter, and Ernie Roeser, once a reporter, still denies that he put that fake mustache on the robber who was killed in the Lantz murder mystery years ago . . .

What's become of Teddy Joyce? . . . And how do those 15-year-old flappers feel today, now that they're 17? . . .

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 3.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, let's see what happened over what the English taught us to call the week-end. We copped all their expressions, week-end, fortnight, plus fours, we are now adopting the street buses that were our source of amusement over there. We will cop their monocle yet if they don't watch us. Bernard Shaw had us right in the papers. We do things well when somebody shows us how, but with all our monkey traits we are kicking along pretty good. Our Congress is going to adjourn next week. Then watch things hum, if we can only prevent another drought and disarmament conference. Yours, WILL.

Will Rogers

Golf Firm Named In Bankrupt Plea

An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against the Plaza Indoor Golf Corporation, 533 Penn avenue, in Federal Court. The three petitioners listed claims aggregating $2,076.65.

ACCUSE OFFICER OF ATTACK

Patrolman William Schlernitzauer, attached to the Overbrook Police Station, was under suspension today as a result of his alleged attack upon Lieut. David Walsh when the latter claimed his subordinate had been drinking.

Schlernitzauer was summoned to the station when it was reported that he had been drinking, according to Walsh. When the lieutenant ordered him to go home, the patrolman seized Walsh's broken finger and attempted to strike him with a mace, Walsh charged. Schlernitzauer was then placed under arrest and fined $5 by Magistrate John J. Sweeney on a suspicious person charge Sunday.

MAN INDICTED IN KIDNAPING

Alleged to have kidnaped a Leetsdale child after stealing an automobile in the North Side, Joseph Armstrong, of 1002 Bidwell street, was indicted late yesterday on both counts by the grand jury.

Police allege that Armstrong stole the machine of Mark Eckenrode, of 1510 Woodland street, and then went to Leetsdale where he kidnaped Mary Cicconi, 8, of 343 Beaver street. He was later captured and the girl was returned to her home.

Woman Falls Dead At Lodge Meeting

At a meeting last night of Tarentum Lodge, Order of the Eastern Star, Mrs. George Vogeley, of 639 East Ninth avenue, Tarentum, a member, fell to the floor and died. Dr. Paul Bovard was called, but upon his arrival pronounced the woman dead.

83 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The City Health Department today reported the following new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 8; diphtheria, 1; measles, 17; whooping cough, 3; chicken pox, 29; mumps, 10; pneumonia, 14, and erysipelas, 1.

2 EAGLE LODGES JOIN DRY FIGHT

The Erie and Charleroi lodges of Fraternal Order of Eagles have followed the action of many other Eagle lodges in asking Federal Court to quash search warrants executed by prohibition agents at Eagle lodges, and suppress evidence, because of alleged unlawful entry.

The petitions of the Erie and Charleroi lodges allege that the agents gained entrance to the premises by misrepresenting themselves to be members of the organization. A number of such petitions are now before Judge Nelson McVicar. In each of the two new petitions rules were granted on United States Attorney Lewis E. Graham to show cause why the warrants should not be quashed.

The Erie lodge petition charges entrapment by the agents claiming to be members of the Homestead lodge and showed purported receipts for dues. The Charleroi petition avers the agents used fictitious names and produced cards indicating they were members in good standing.

After making the alleged visits the agents returned with search warrants, the petitioners aver. The latter claim that grounds for search warrants must be based upon facts legally secured, and not by misrepresentation or entrapment.

Society Celebrates St. David's Day

The Cambrian Society's ninth annual banquet, celebrating St. David's Day, was held in Fort Pitt Hotel last night. The principal speaker was W. B. Jones, an official of the American Gorsedd, the national organization of Welsh-American bards. The Rev. Percy K. Jones, of New Kensington, was toastmaster.

Coroner Holds Man In Wife's Death

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today turned Charles Hairston, Negro, 40, of McKees Rocks, over to the coroner. Hairston is accused of inflicting the knife wound which caused the death of his common law wife, Cordelia Spark, Negro, detectives testified.

Pershing Protested 'Frittering Away' of American Strength

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By JOHN J. PERSHING

Commander-in-Chief, American Expeditionary Forces

Succeeding chapters of "My Experiences in the World War" will appear daily and Sunday exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

CHAPTER LI.

Regardless of the distinct understanding that our troops behind the British front were there for training and were not to be used except in an emergency, the British made continuous effort to get them into their lines.

They planned an attack by the Australians for the Fourth of July and requested Maj. Gen. George Read, commander of the Second Corps, then still in training, to permit some of the troops of the 33d Division to take part.

At first the British suggested four companies, but later they wanted the number increased to 10. As the use of Americans at this time was directly contrary to the arrangement, naturally it did not meet with my approval.

Gen. Pershing

Having learned that such a combined attack was planned, I spoke to Marshal Haig about it when I saw him in Paris July 3, and he entirely agreed with my point of view. It seems that Gen. Read, afterward, in accordance with my instructions, told Gen. Rawlinson that I did not want partially trained troops to participate.

However, our troops had by this time become fully committed to it. Although the British Chief of Staff had consented to leave our troops out, when he learned from Rawlinson that it would compel them to defer the operation, he informed Read that no change could be made without orders from Field Marshal Haig, who, he said, could not be reached, and so the attack was carried out, as I learned the next day.

The incident, though relatively unimportant in itself, showed clearly the disposition of the British to assume control of our units, the very thing which I had made such strong efforts and had imposed so many conditions to prevent. Its immediate effect was to cause me to make the instructions so positive that nothing of the kind could occur again.

Bulgarians Weaken

The fact that Gen. Read and his officers and men were keen to get into the battle went far to excuse him. It seems needless to add also that the splendid behavior of the troops in the operation was a decided argument in favor of leniency. This division also afterward displayed the same eagerness to get at the enemy in several hard-fought engagements during the trying days of the Meuse-Argonne.

My diary records:

"Chaumont, Tuesday, July 9, 1918. Have spent last few days on reorganization of services of supply, consulting with Gens. Atterbury, McAndrew, Hapgood and Eltinge.

"Yesterday saw Col. Meriwether Walker, head of motor transport, and Col. A. D. Andrews, chief of administrative section, General Staff.

"Melville Stone took luncheon with us yesterday and told me that the Associated Press, of which he was then the head, was American first, and that if we needed its services to call upon him. Gen. Perelli arrived as chief of Italian mission. Had call by Frederick Palmer and Casper Whitney.

"Today discussed corps and organization and sector occupation with McAndrew, Fox Conner and Fiske. Have recommended shipment of 120,000 tons of steel, besides copper, iron, lead and lumber promised the British. Inefficient loading

BOYS FREED IN GIRLS' CHARGE

Frank Ronzo, 18, of 1000 Forbes street, and George Bertha, 22, of 511 Second avenue, admitted they detained two 14-year-old girls at Penn Township last Sunday, but they were discharged in Morals Court today because the court was without jurisdiction outside the city. Relatives of the girls were counseled to file information before aldermen. The girls were recommitted to the Juvenile Home.

Police located the girls in Forbes street last night after the father of one had asked them to look for his daughter. Questioned, they told how they, in company with a 13-year-old sister, had been taken to Penn Township last Sunday in an automobile. Due to the ages of the girls, the Sun-Telegraph will not publish their names.

TRIAL PARKING BAN LIFTED

Sixty-day trial "no parking" regulations on Forbes street, between Shady avenue and Wightman street, during rush periods from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m. and 4:30 to 6 p. m., have been discontinued by Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

In a report to City Council, Clark said he had discontinued the trial period because of many complaints to his office that residents of that district had been "greatly inconvenienced."

Parents-Teachers Score Rooney Bill

A resolution condemning the Rooney bill as an attempt to put the Board of Education into politics, and urging the Legislature to reject it, has been adopted by the Schaeffer Parent-Teacher Association.

The association has elected the following members to office for the ensuing year: Mrs. Walter T. Holt, president; Samuel P. Currie, vice president; Mrs. J. M. Rover, secretary; W. L. Richards, treasurer, and an executive committee composed of these officers and Mrs. J. R. Krepps, Mrs. R. A. Putnam, Mrs. Joseph A. Finney and Harry Bastow.

Auto Club to Honor Rice on Retirement

John M. Rice, retiring president of the Pittsburgh Motor Club is to be tendered a testimonial dinner in William Penn Hotel Thursday night, club officials stated. Fred A. Fichtel has been elected president for 1931. City police officials, city councilmen and members of the Highway Patrol and Better Traffic Committee will be guests of honor.

WESTINGHOUSE MEN PROMOTED

Thomas S. Perkins and J. B. MacNeill, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, have been given important promotions, effective immediately, it was announced today.

Mr. Perkins

Perkins, formerly general manager of distribution, becomes general manager of merchandising engineering. He will represent S. M. Kintner, assistant vice president.

Mr. MacNeill

Both men have been with the Westinghouse Company since their graduation from technical schools. Perkins was graduated from Worcester Technical Institute in 1893, and MacNeill was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1913.

John Fisher Mitchell, of Pittsburgh, left his $350,000 estate, in trust, to his widow, in his will probated today.

Kambach to Speak At Brookline Meet

Councilman George J. Kambach will be the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Brookline Boosters' Association tonight in the German Beneficial Union Hall, Brookline boulevard. Thomas H. Hester will preside.

OFFER MURDER CASE DEFENSE

Testimony to prove that Traffin Yenchenko, 27, of Homestead Park, on trial in Criminal Court on a charge of murdering his father-in-law, Wasil Pancrato, 42, of 2205 Watson street, struck the older man in self defense, was to be offered when the trial resumed today.

The commonwealth finished its case late yesterday when it was testified that the younger man struck his father-in-law with a beer bottle, inflicting a skull fracture which caused his death.

The defense will contend, it was said, that the older man struck the younger man first, and that the younger man struck him with a bottle while defending himself.

Fire Causes $1,000 Damage in House

Fire in the rear of the two-story brick home of Charles Wilhausen, at 7636 Kelly street, resulted in damage estimated at $1,000 last night. The flames, which broke out on the first floor, were discovered by members of the household, who sounded an alarm. Firemen fought the blaze for more than an hour.

Railways Merge Two Ticket Offices

Merging of the downtown ticket office of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway, 529 Smithfield street, with the offices of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, in the Union Trust Building, William Penn way, was announced by J. P. DeVaughen, general passenger agent of the B. R. & P.

Jews Celebrate Historic Feast of Purim

Pittsburgh Jews joined with others throughout the world today in observing the Feast of Purim. The celebration began at sundown yesterday and was to close at sundown today.

The day is a celebration commemorating the deliverance of the Jews from the machinations of Haman, described in the Book of Esther. At a festive meal on the eve of Purim there has developed among Jews a special kind of baking, cakes shaped into certain forms and given names having symbolic bearing on the historical events in Purim.

Crafton Girl at Tech Called Perfect Student

Grace Borgerding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Borgerding, of 27 Dinsmore avenue, Crafton, has earned the right to be called "the perfect student." She leads the senior class at Carnegie Tech for scholarship during the first half of the present school year, having attained a grade of 5.92, just .08 short of a perfect record.

Miss Borgerding is registered in the Margaret Morrison Carnegie College, is a member of the student council and women's editor of the Tech weekly. She is 20 years old.

WORK PROVIDED 860 BY COUNTY EMERGENCY GROUP

CITY PROJECTS TO REQUIRE 500 MEN

Street Program Approval By Council to Furnish Jobs for Two Months

The Allegheny County Emergency Association announced today that 860 men have been provided with work.

The latest requisition for labor came today from Charles W. Reppert, the city's chief engineer, following Council's approval of a dozen street improvement projects amounting to $292,000.

PATCHING WORK FOR 500

Aside from the street improvement work Public Works Director Edward G. Lang has asked Council's permission for $7,500 for truck hire in connection with the work, $5,500 more for sewer work and $5,000 for materials on a patching program for unimproved thoroughfares.

Lang estimates 500 men would be given work for more than two months, three days per week on the patching plan. Several hundred more will be accommodated on the repaving projects.

Among streets to be repaved by the unemployed with the city furnishing materials are: Penn avenue, from Eleventh street to Eighteenth street, $15,000; from Eighteenth street eastwardly, $40,000; Cedar avenue, $4,000; Camfield street, $4,000, and Dallas avenue, $9,000.

PRIVATE CONTRACTS

Private contractors will repave these thoroughfares: Wilkins avenue, from Dallas avenue to Beechwood boulevard, $27,500; Penn avenue, from Barbeau street to Water street, $23,000; Center avenue, to Morewood avenue, $42,000; Fifth avenue, from Vine street to Gist street, $14,000; Blackhawk street, from Pocono street to city line, $14,000, and other improvements, $21,000.

Workman to be paid by the Allegheny County Emergency Association are requested by the Sheraden Board of Trade to grade, pave and renovate walks and roads for approaches to the Sheraden playground.

Expressing this wish in a communication to City Council yesterday the Trade Board said the playground under present conditions was of no use to the section because of inaccessibility. The playground is located in a deep ravine. The matter was referred to committee for further action and a report to be acted upon at Council's regular meeting next week.

3 PITT FACULTY MEN HONORED

Three members of the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh were admitted to membership into the Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity at a banquet in the University Club last night. They were Robert C. Clothier, Elmer A. Holbrook and Dr. William S. McElroy.

Speakers on the program were Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the university; Dr. William M. Brown, president of Atlantic University; Dr. Gustave L. Schramm, of the University of Pittsburgh, and Robert Kleeb, president of the Pittsburgh chapter of the fraternity.

Snell to Address Overbrook Board

A. V. Snell, executive director of the Allied Boards of Trade, is to be the speaker at a community meeting, for which plans are now being made by the officers of the Overbrook Board of Trade. His topic will be "Good City Government and How to Obtain It." Officers of the trade body are C. G. Cunningham, president; J. J. Miller, vice president; P. C. Mayfield, secretary, and R. T. Camin, treasurer.

EASIEST WAY TO BREAK UP A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way

Works Fast—Makes You Feel Like a New Person Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets every three hours. Drink lots of water between times — that's all. Soon those mean aching pains in head and body begin to go, the cold breaks up, poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do just what we say, money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

Asking for Relief :-: The Long Queue That Ends in Veterans' Bureau

MRS. CLIFFORD BAUGHMAN WITH SON, YOUNGEST OF FOUR

Mrs. Baughman, Moon Run, at the U. S. Veterans' Bureau as she asked for help for her family of four children. Her husband, ill since he served in the Army, is at Veterans' Hospital, but he didn't enlist until after the war. "Everything comes at once," she sighed.

WAR VETERANS FILING INTO VETERANS BUREAU, EAST END, TO MAKE APPLICATIONS FOR THE U. S. WAR BONUS LOANS

Mothers, Wives of Sick Vets Stand in Line For Bonus Loans

Mothers and wives of former soldiers unable to appear themselves because of ill health, joined the lines of war veterans at the United States Veterans' Bureau regional office where applications for loans on adjusted compensation certificates are being received.

4 CHILDREN

Mrs. Baughman said her husband has been ill since his discharge from the Army, in which he served after the war. The couple have four children, and Baughman has been unable to work because of his health, according to Mrs. Baughman.

One of the mothers to appear was Mrs. Arch Long, 55, who is seeking compensation for her son, Matthew, of 2033 Forbes street. Mrs. Long said that her son, his wife, and their two children are ill and in need of funds.

Also among those who applied were two brothers who saw service in the Meuse-Argonne, H. H. England, of Colliers, W. Va., needs additional funds immediately to save his mortgaged farm, and to care for his wife and two small children. He was wounded, and was confined for two months in a field hospital in France. He was a member of Company A of the Ninth Infantry.

His brother, Harry, was a stretcher bearer and ambulance driver. He also has a dependent wife and two children living on a farm near McDonald, Pa. He needs funds immediately to recuperate the loss suffered last summer when the drought destroyed his crops.

Others in line included Frank Leasner, Renton coal miner, who served on the cruiser "Georgia." Leasner said that for five years he has been unable to secure steady work.

Brentwood Honors Former Fireman

Brentwood borough paid tribute to Louis Kuehneisen, Jr., an honorary member of the Brentwood Voluntary Fire Department and prominent member of the community, for whom funeral services were held at 3430 Brownsville road, yesterday. In recognition of his activities, the siren sounded continuously during the entire service. Burial took place at Zimmerman Cemetery.

BOY HIT BY CAR; MAN INJURED IN CRASH

Child Runs for Sidewalk Into Path of Machine; Two Arrested in Collision

Struck by an automobile while playing in Penn avenue, near Twenty-ninth street, last night, Stanley Patryllo, 11, of 2900 Smallman street, is in St. Francis Hospital with a fractured right leg and lacerations of the scalp.

Patryllo, playing with other boys, ran from the sidewalk into the path of a machine driven by Carl N. Hazelwood, 20, of 611 North St. Clair street, police said. Hazelwood was arrested.

Jerome Richey, 18, of 1309 Labelle street, Wilkinsburg, suffered a possible fracture of the skull in an automobile collision at Stanton avenue and Mellon street and was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital late yesterday. His machine was wrecked.

Richey and Edward Howcroft, 41, of 134 East Seventeenth avenue, Homestead, alleged driver of the truck in the collision, were arrested on reckless driving charges. Howcrof's truck was damaged.

Married 43 Years, Woman Asks Divorce

Dissolution of a marriage of 43 years' existence is asked by Mrs. Maggie A. Rattigan, of 306 East Tenth avenue, Homestead, in a divorce suit against John J. Rattigan, of the same address, filed in Common Pleas Court, on the grounds of cruelty and indignities. They were married January 1, 1888.

SECOND GARBAGE REFUND CASE AWAITS COUNCIL ACTION

CLAIM URGED ON ALLEGHENY COMPANY

Letter Terming North Side Concern Worst Offender Is Laid Before Committee

Whether Council takes action to force collection of several thousand dollars the Allegheny Garbage Company is declared to owe the city was expected to be decided today, when the committee on finance acts on a communication from George P. Kountz.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and attorneys for the American Reduction Company have agreed to settle out of court a suit brought by the city to recover $481,338.08 for refunds on a cost-plus system of garbage collection. Permission to settle was granted by Council last week.

The reduction company and the Allegheny Garbage Company are owned by the same interests. Kountz, who declares he called Council's attention first to the money owed by the reduction company, feels steps should be taken to force collection from the Allegheny company, which operates on the North Side.

Kountz's communication says:

"What are you going to do with the Allegheny garbage contract? Are you going to let it slip out from under without a refund to the city? The Allegheny Garbage Company benefited more proportionately and was a greater offender than the American Reduction Company. The garbage company collected about one-third of the garbage and rubbish and if the American Reduction Company made a refund of $481,338.08 for collection of two-third of the garbage and rubbish, then it appears that the Allegheny company should refund the other third, $240,669.04."

WHITEMAN WINS DIVORCE SUIT

CHICAGO, March 3.—(AP.)—Paul Whiteman, self-styled "King of Jazz," has won a divorce from his dancing wife, Mrs. Mildred Whiteman, known on the stage as Vanda Hoff. Desertion was the charge.

The decree was granted yesterday by Judge John J. Sullivan in Superior Court, where the copy of an agreement between the couple was filed, in which each expressed willingness not to do or say anything to "annoy, harass or vex" the other.

It was stipulated in the agreement that Mrs. Whiteman is to receive $600 a week alimony and three of the "Jazz King's" insurance policies totaling $80,000 on which she must pay the premiums. Whiteman is to have custody of their 7-year-old son, Paul, three months of each year.

Harvester Heads Hold Anniversary

More than 200 persons attended a dinner and dance last night at Webster Hall, marking the one-hundredth anniversary of the invention of the grain reaper by Cyrus Hall McCormick, of the International Harvester Company of America. R. J. Mungovan, district manager, was toastmaster and principal speaker. Other speakers were E. C. Haight, G. M. Just, W. O. Boggs, department heads, and E. S. Bayard, editor "Pennsylvania Farmer." A motion picture, "Romance of the Reaper," depicted the invention, its development and operation.

THUGS GET $104 IN GAS STATION HOLDUPS

Stick-up Man Pays Regular Visit to East End Place; Trunk Firm Robbed Again

Two service stations of the Standard Oil Company in East Liberty were held up by bandits whose loot totaled $104 last night.

Three bandits, all armed, held up Mordacai Shaw, of 423 Biddle street, Wilkinsburg, attendant at the station at Penn and Denniston avenues, looted the cash register of $90 and escaped in an automobile. East End police made a futile search for the thugs.

Another station of the company, at Putnam street and Hamilton avenue, received its semi-monthly visit from a stickup man a few hours before. Threatening F. C. Ellis, the attendant, with a revolver, the robber rifled the cash register of $14.

For the second time within a week the Kleber Trunk and Bag Company, 617 Penn avenue, was broken into early today, police reported. Entrance was gained through a rear door, and $27 was taken from the cash register.

RED PARADERS OUT ON BAIL

Six of 12 persons arrested during the unemployment demonstrations last week were released on bond today, pending an appeal to be heard in the County Court, March 16. Attorney Jacob Margolis is handling the case for the International Labor Defense League.

Appeals in two other cases were to be filed today and efforts were being made to post $2,000 bond for four others, who were held for court on charges of inciting a riot. A protest meeting has been announced for March 15, at the Socialists' Lyceum, James street, North Side.

Runaway Auto Spills Solder On Worker

Peter Habyanet, an employe of the Duquesne Light Company, today has a sore eye as a result of a runaway automobile upsetting a pot of hot solder into a manhole in which he was working yesterday afternoon in the first block in Third avenue.

According to Mrs. Ruth Ennet, of 349 Cornell avenue, West View, owner of the runaway car, it was parked in front of 110 Third avenue, when another driver released its brakes in order to get out of a parking space.

THEFT CHARGED TO WATCHMAN

Paid to protect the Army and Navy store, Main street, Sharpsburg, against theft following a fire, Clyde Fisher, a member of the Sharpsburg Volunteer Fire department, today was under $1,000 bail pending court trial on a charge of larceny of clothing from the place. Fisher was bound over by Justice of the Peace James Hernon, of Sharpsburg, following a hearing last night.

Marcus Harry, manager of the store, testified he engaged Fisher to guard his place of business following the fire which occurred several weeks ago. An arresting officer testified part of the loot was recovered in Fisher's home.

CHILD SCALDED IN HOME, DIES

ON THE STORY OF OLIVER TWIST

Original George Cruikshank Illustration through Courtesy of The Houghton Mifflin Company

"You have a cat, ma'am, I see," said Mr. Bumble, "and kittens too—I declare!"

Thus Mr. Bumble, the workhouse beadle, whose floggings kept pauper inmates within bounds, began his wooing of the matron, Mrs. Corney, one cold night when she offered him a cup of tea. Their chairs kept getting closer together... until he suddenly kissed the coy widow and proposed. Their billing and cooing was cut short by the entrance of a haggard inmate, who announced that old Sally was dying and wanted to tell Mrs. Corney something. It was the story of Oliver Twist's mother... and his birth in the very bed on which Sally was dying. But Mrs. Corney was in a hurry to get back to Mr. Bumble and her tea, so Sally died before telling the whole story. Hastening back, the matron accepted Mr. Bumble's proposal to take effect immediately... but they didn't live happily ever afterward!

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Should Girl Tell Her Past To Her Sweetheart

How about it, Bill . . . Oscar . . . Jack . . . If your sweetheart had a "past" would you want her to tell you . . . or keep it secret?

Della wanted to know. Once, she made a mistake. A mistake she'd paid for . . . a mistake she'd left behind her, to work and redeem herself. Would she be taking a wicked advantage of the boy she loved, she asked, if she let the past be buried in silence?

Today, three men answer her. We'll let Louis speak first:

"Perhaps there is no set rule of right and wrong in a case like Della's," he begins, "and the only thing to judge it by, therefore, is past experience and psychology.

May Spoil Happiness

"Whatever our moral standards prompt us to do—tell or be silent—psychology directs that she ought not to tell. It's hard to tell what sort of a girl she is . . . and much harder to see just what sort of a man her fiance is, but a man can tell about his past and usually can get away with it while a woman should never even try to tell.

"This isn't due to the single standard. It's because a man, really in love, idealizes the object of his affections. He puts her on a pedestal. Try to tell him of the past, and of the flaws in his ideal, and you immediately smash the ideal, especially if he is well educated and has high standards.

"He might marry Della, even if she did tell him of the past, but it would rankle in his mind. He couldn't forget it. You might ask 'Why don't women feel the same way about a man's past'? I don't know. The only answer is that a normal woman doesn't.

"Love is a much too precious thing to lose or throw away, and by telling this man of her past, Della may be making two lives unhappy instead of just one. Indeed, I think it is her duty to be silent . . . even to lie, if necessary. That is, if he is a man of character, and worthy of being called a man.

Other Views

"She won't be able to forget that past, but that is the price she must pay for her mistake. And she has no right to lay a burden on the man she loves."

Well, are you for Louis or agin' him? Do you believe that Della should keep her past from the boy friend at all costs? And do you believe that all regular he-men "idealize" their sweethearts and stubbornly refuse to see them as is . . . as humans, like themselves?

Max doesn't think so. "Della should tell!" he cries. "She should tell you the young man all about herself. And if he's a man of character . . . a man of honor . . . a man who thinks, and above all, if he really and truly loves her . . . he will not mar her life and his own. He will understand.

"I repeat . . . Della should tell him!"

"She should not!" insists H. P. vehemently. "Don't tell your past to anyone!" he admonishes her. "There isn't a living soul who can assume the right to judge you. Your past belongs to you—and you alone! It doesn't even belong to your husband or your future husband. And you needn't worry about any 'deception,' as there is none—so long as you're on the level with him from the day he belongs to you. From then on, stand up straight and shoot straight. That's all any man can ask. I am a man, and I would ask no more. If I loved a girl, I wouldn't care a hang what she had done in the past, if she was straight now, and I in turn would not answer questions. I would only stand straight—shoot straight, and look her straight in the eye!

Age Makes Difference

"If your man were older—say 10 years older than you, and had traveled around like I have, I might advise you differently, because he would be broad-minded. He wouldn't care about your past . . . but just about your future. That's really the kind of man you should marry anyway.

"If he isn't that kind, I not only wouldn't tell him, I wouldn't marry him. I've seen it happen before . . . that either way, a marriage was wrecked because the man was narrow. And a break now wouldn't hurt nearly as much as it would later."

You're not perfect yourself. Do you think you would have a right to judge Della? Could you forgive a girl a misstep like hers? Or would it rankle in your heart if you knew of it, and wreck your happiness?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Mental Workers and Heavy, Mid-Day Meals.

A few nights ago I had dinner with a prominent judge. He says he is 49, but looks 10 years younger.

Dr. Copeland

Whether I am in the mood or not everybody talks to me about health. The judge did and told me what he does to keep fit.

No matter how late he gets home he disrobes and exercises for several minutes in front of an open window. Among other movements he stoops over to reach the floor at least 50 times. Even if it is snowing or blowing he will not think of missing this health-giving exercise, he said.

That would be dangerous for an older man and until it becomes a habit, would be pretty strenuous for a younger one. But since it is the custom of years I have no doubt it is good for my friend.

It would be a splendid thing for everybody to take deep-breathing exercises in front of an open window. Simpler setting-up exercises than these would be a health promoter for every man and woman who would use them.

The Judge says he eats but two meals a day, in addition to a cup of coffee and a grapefruit for breakfast. That program would be improved upon, as I see it, if he took a good breakfast with the coffee and grapefruit at noon.

Most mental workers and office persons eat too much, particularly in the middle of the day. They are dull and stupid for two or three hours in the afternoon. They feel more like sleeping than working. A light meal at noontime would overcome this common experience.

It is well to give thought to the manner of living. Too many of us drift along, indulging in harmful practices, perhaps entirely unconscious of the harm we are doing ourselves. If one can keep from becoming a "crank" or a "faddist" it is a good thing to work out a program of eating and exercise.

"White-collar" workers of every sort need to be careful. Without the strenuous work of manual laborers, they are inclined to put increasing work on digestive organs, which are growing weaker as nerve and muscle. Their place be demand upon digestion, unless there is conscious renewal of strength and tone of body.

The judge asked no advice from me. He was filled with enthusiasm over his own program. Since he is thriving on it, I approve of it for him. Perhaps it would not be so good for you.

Household Hints

When working on silk and the hands stick to the goods, rub the hands lightly over a piece of fine sandpaper.

Remove all wrappers from the laundry soap before storing away. The soap will last longer and give better service. However, keep the wrappers on the scented toilet soaps or you will lose that delicate odor very quickly.

When there is no cream whipper at hand the double boiler comes in very handy. Put a little ice and salt in the lower section and the cream in the upper and whip with an egg beater. You will be pleased how quickly your job will be finished.

If the iron is giving poor service because of starch on it, saturate a cloth with water wrung partly dry and rub soap on it. Place this on several thicknesses of paper and run the iron over it several times. The starch will rub right off.

Silver Cake—One-half cupful of butter, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of milk or water, two and one-fourth cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, whites of five eggs. Flavor with almond flavoring.

We All Excel in Some Way and Lack in Another, Asserts Fay King

By FAY KING

There are some who would have us believe that we are all actually as alike as peas in a pod. That differences of temperament of taste are merely moods we cultivate and coddle.

If that were true the world would be nothing but a gigantic chorus all singing the same tune, making the same movements and kicking at the same time.

Even in one family there is often a vast difference between sisters and brothers.

We do not all like the same things. We cannot all accomplish the same amount of work. We all cannot resist temptation as easily.

We all excel in some way and lack in another. Nothing is more unfair than to expect the same achievements in all things from everyone.

Madge Tells Dicky How "Ede" Set Stage for Their Quarrel.

Dicky started as I asked him if he were not forgetting Edith, and his eyes were suddenly wrathy.

"Ede!" he ejaculated. "Yes," this a bit shamefacedly, "she knew I was sending you flowers. She had spilled the beans about Veritzen sending them to everybody, and she was there when I telephoned you."

Heroically I repressed the retort that I had been sure not only of Edith's presence when he talked to me, but of the fact that it was she who had egged him on to interference, and Dicky hurried on: "But surely she didn't say anything to Veritzen."

With malicious glee which I think any wife would understand I saw that the patient disgust which betrayed itself even in his disclaimer was directed against Edith. I felt that I was lowering my own standards by accusing her, but the trick she had played made me ruthless. She had only herself to blame. I reminded myself, if I had to arm myself for warfare against her.

"That, of course, I cannot say," I tried to make my voice quietly casual, "but unless you impersonated Edith over the telephone I am at a loss to know how Mr. Veritzen acquired the information which he later relayed to me and which was the reason for the query concerning whose flowers I was wearing, which you overheard."

"What d'ye mean, impersonated Ede?" Dicky growled. "Speak United States, can't you?"

"Oh, surely," I said, enjoying myself thoroughly, "Mr. Veritzen telephoned me, saying among other things, that Edith had told him she could save him the expense and trouble of a bouquet for her, because she also was wearing a green gown, and that she could wear the one he had planned for me. She said that I was going to wear sand color and that a 'boy friend' was sending me flowers. I did not choose to have Mr. Veritzen keep that last impression, and I told him that you were the only man who sent me flowers, and that I would tell him later what I meant to do."

Dicky's eyes were fixed steadily upon my face as I talked, but by the time I had finished a shamefaced look had crept into his eyes and his face and neck were crimsoned.

"Well, I'll be ——," he began, then leaned suddenly over the table and caught my hand in his.

"That was about the scurviest trick one woman could play another," he said. "You had every right to be so sore at her—and me, too—that you'd never wipe your feet on either of us. I can't think what's got into Ede lately. She used to be the squarest trick going, but this performance—— Phew! I'll say nothing tonight, but when I get down to the office tomorrow will I burn that lady up? Just watch me!"

"Oh, but you mustn't!" I exclaimed in panic. "Don't you see, you can't without letting her know that I have told you about it. That would be unthinkable. It wasn't especially clubby to tell you, but I don't see how I could help it."

"It was the only thing to do," my husband assured me loyally. "And I can see your point about saying anything to Ede. But I'll take her in hand generally. She needs a course of sprouts. She's feeling her oats altogether too much lately. If she weren't so darned efficient—the magazine wouldn't be worth half as much without her——" His voice trailed away and I saw that in that instant he had dallied with and rejected the thought of severing his business partnership with Edith.

"There's something with which I want you to help me," I said quickly, sensing that it would be wise to turn his attention from Edith.

"Name it," he responded as swiftly, and I guessed that he was himself glad to change the subject.

"It's all right to wear Mr. Veritzen's flowers when all the rest of the women have them," I began slowly, "but it isn't all right for him to get ideas concerning my wearing them. I am afraid he's trying to be a bit theatrical about which flowers I shall choose, and I can't bear him to think that I'd prefer his to yours. Isn't there some way we could—you could—" I broke off at Dicky's quizzical smile.

"Yes, my dear, there's a way that I could," he said, "a nifty, sweet, really artistic way. But I shan't tell you what it is. Just rest assured that while the deah old boy won't have even a wooden leg to stand on, he can't blame you for anything, no matter how sore he is."

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

When a woman's neck loses its soft round contour and tissues assume up-and-around crevices there is an exercise that is productive of satisfactory results. Place the hands clasped tightly at the back of the neck. Turn the head from side to side with a strong hard pull, one that tugs on muscles well down in the chest. Move the clasped hands with the head. Throwing the head forward and back is another exercise that chases away evidence of birthdays.

Spinach, carrots and broccoli are beauty foods. They are eagerly welcomed by the digestive system, as they contain elements necessary for its well being. Pears, apples and oranges are beauty fruits.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Serving the Dinner Guests.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a maid serves at a dinner party should the hostess be served first? I have seen this done and wonder if it is really proper.

2. Should the ladies be served first and then the gentlemen?

3. When taking the dishes from the table should the maid take only one plate at a time?

PEGGY.

1. This is entirely a matter now of the choice of the hostess, which means usually that it is entirely a matter of the convenience of the household. Many hostesses abide by the European custom of having the guest of honor served first, giving in this way, an even greater honor to the guest of honor. (The woman guest of honor, I mean.)

Other hostesses consider that it is easier for all concerned if she is served first, so that she may see that "all is well" with the food as it comes to the table. Especially is this sequence of service helpful when a complicated dish is being served, some dish in which their might be a question as to which part of the dish we are to take on our plates and which part is decoration. Of course this doesn't hold as true now, when foods are simpler, as it did when foods were served in skyscraper fashion of layers of various "fixins" and whatnots.

It is true, however, that in this country more hostesses have themselves served first, when they have waitresses, than have their guest of honor served first.

2. No, not now. The waitress passes the dish right around the table, serving the guests as they are seated. Serving first the ladies and then the gentlemen retards the service too much and only needlessly.

3. Yes.

A Sentimental Privilege.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for the bride-to-be to buy the cedar chest for the clothes, or the groom-to-be? We are doubtful at the present time and would like an early answer? JENNIE.

Either is correct. The bride-to-be buys it, as a matter of course, unless the intended groom suggests that he would like to make the present as a matter of sentiment.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, March 4

The astrological forecast for this day is for a very interesting as well as complex state of affairs. The essential thing is a promise of substantial progress and stabilizing of the fortunes through individual effort and steadfastness, winning the recognition and assistance of elderly persons or old established institutions. However, there are some hazards to employment and there are menaces of friction and confusion in business as well as private affairs. Restraint and self-government, especially in speech, may prove advantageous.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year in which much depends upon their own merit, diligence, amiability and self-restraint. There are excellent prospects of stabilizing the fortunes through elderly influence, although the employment holds some adverse signs. Shun friction and complications in personal affiliations.

A child born on this day should be industrious, ambitious and efficient, but it may be prone to complicate its affairs through rash and turbulent speech and actions.

THIS IS THE SEASON OF THE "COSTUME COMPLETE"

SAVE ENOUGH ON NISLEY SHOES TO BUY OTHER SMART ACCESSORIES!

Now's the time when all the feminine world is furrowing its brow over the collective high cost of accessories. And even though arithmetic is hard for you, it's easy to see that if you pay $5 instead of $10 for your shoes this spring, you have $5 saved towards bag-gloves-scarf-and-bracelet. Five dollars would even buy an extra blouse for your suit!

Everything you want in shoe-styles . . . in colors . . . in leathers . . . and heels, can be had at $5 in Nisley Shoes. PLUS such a beautiful fit that we know you'll come back!

ALL STYLES $5

Nisley's new hosiery shades are flattering and slenderizing

A box of our dull-sheer stockings makes a good investment for the money you save on Nisley Shoes. We carry three weights, all pure-dye silk, most with picot tops.

$1.00 the pair — 3 for $2.75
$1.35 the pair — 3 for $3.75

A word about THE NISLEY IDEA

Most of the women you meet in Nisley stores have always paid a great deal more for their footwear. They've discovered that these are in no sense "$5 shoes. In fact, it is only because we make all our own shoes in our own plants and do this work on such a vast scale (to supply our more than fifty Nisley stores) that we can afford the softer, finer leathers and more shapely lasts. For these reasons, too, Nisley Shoes stay new longer; keep their sleek look.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Theater Party Opens Drive Of College Club for $100,000 Fund

Lenten prohibitions do discourage hostesses from giving large parties, but have no effect at all, I do believe, on first nights at the theater, especially when the College Club sponsors a brilliant benefit at the Alvin, with lovely Grace George in that delectable, chuckling comedy, "The First Mrs. Fraser," and when the Nixon presents again "Strictly Dishonorable."

The benefit marked the beginning of the College Club's efforts to raise $100,000 for a new club house. And the house was packed with gayly frocked women and pictorially correct men. Young girls in bright-hued gowns selling candy were also in the smart audience.

Theater Festive

The whole theater had a decidedly festive air, everybody seemed to know everybody and during intermission friends were greeting each other and chatting in the lobby and the entrance to the theater.

In one group chatting in the spacious lobby I believe I had a glimpse of the Masthead B. Hoods. Mrs. A. Fox Flinn looked charming in a black taffeta gown with a narrow ruffle of taffeta decorating the quaint skirt. Mr. Simon T. Patterson chose a lovely gown having a most graceful skirt of black velvet and a bolero jacket of pink chiffon over pink and tan chiffon. With her was Mrs. Felix Snowden in black crepe. Mrs. J. Hilliard chose a most unusual gown of black satin having a cape of the same material in the back and a narrow scarf of turquoise blue satin.

Back To The Fore

Mrs. T. Howard Nimick chose forget-me-not blue crepe. Mrs. William Terrell Johnson, embroidered wood-violet net. Sitting in one of the boxes were Mrs. George Shiel Ebbert, in black crepe with gold embroidered leave and Mrs. John W. Lawrence in flowered chiffon. And I saw Mrs. Carroll Miller, too, wearing a black velvet ensemble. Frances Fitzgerald in deep cream brocaded satin was there with her father, Thomas Fitzgerald.

Among the charming young brides was Peggy Nelson, daughter of Mrs. John F. Nelson, who wore a frock of cerise taffeta.

Mrs. Charles Reiell was in a black costume. Mrs. R. E. Somers in black moire. Mrs. S. K. Cunningham, in blue velvet and lace. Mrs. Ralph E. Davis, president of the College Club, in a gown of black satin and a wrap of red velvet with a dyed brown ermine collar; Mrs. Nelson in black velvet; Miss Emma Miller Campbell in black chiffon; Mrs. Frederick B. Chalfant, in flowered chiffon; Mrs. Nelson Clark, in a black costume, and Katherine McCloskey, in black velvet.

Others I noticed were Mrs. W. Kirkland Todd in true blue crepe, Mrs. Philip Hodell, Mrs. J. Reynolds Pierpont, Mrs. A. S. F. Kesler, in cream taffeta printed with dainty pastel motifs, and Mrs. Howard Baird in black taffeta. Mrs. Talbot was in charge of the young ladies' tables, by the way. Judge Sara Soffel chose black taffeta, Mrs. Maurice D. Cooper, old blue taffeta, and Mrs. George M. Swan, the queen of the club's social committee, lake green lace.

Jessie Mrs. Robert Carson, Jr., in powder blue chiffon and Mrs. William Save Dalzell in blue chiffon. Others I noted were Mrs. John V. Bresky, Mrs. Bert T. Anderson in Nile green velvet, and Mrs. James McCready in black lace.

Mrs. William Reed Thompson, honorary president of the College Club, chose a black ensemble, and Miss Helen Marks wore Spanish red crepe. Mrs. C. A. Searing, black velvet and sequins. Mrs. Howard B. Smith, flowered chiffon, and the J. Fred Lissetts with Mrs. Lissett in black velvet and lace with a lovely Paisley shawl.

In addition to Peggy Nelson, the girls aiding Mrs. Talbot in selling candy were Eleanore Cunningham, Helen Lindsay, Marianne McCallister, Dorothy Cherry, Margaret Sullivan, Mary Elizabeth Cunningham, Margery Anderson, Jean Blakeslee, Frances Hall, Prudence Goodale, Euretta and Gertrude Davis, Carolyn Carpenter, Cynthia Cate and Ruth Kidney.

Yesterday Mrs. Howell C. Cooper entertained at a luncheon in the Community Kitchen, Sewickley, for the same guest. Others who have entertained for Mrs. Taylor include Mrs. Hutchinson, the Samuel Grant Coopers, the Richmond F. Balls and the Horace Forbes Bakers. Mrs. Ball gave a dinner Friday night in honor of Mrs. Taylor, and Alwyn Edwards, of Sandusky, O. Mr. Edwards was the guest of his sister, Mrs. James Rhodes, for the week-end.

Mrs. Rhodes has also entertained for Mrs. Taylor.

English Journalist Speaks To Twentieth Century Club on India

S. K. Ratcliffe, who spoke before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning, believes that the Mahatma Gandhi-Lord Irwin conferences will justify the British system in the eyes of the world and give India a new home of freedom and fulfillment.

Mr. Ratcliffe, distinguished English journalist and lecturer, was speaking on "India," which, singularly, was his subject 18 years ago when he made his first talk before the Twentieth Century Club and when, as he said yesterday, India was a very remote subject even to the English.

Much that Mr. Ratcliffe had to say has been in the news recently — the London round table conference, for instance (which he said was not a round table, being little more than a half circle), but his forceful and scholarly comments were of especial interest.

The presence of Lord Irwin as the viceroy in these troublous times has been a crowning mercy for Britain and the British system, he observed. He spoke of Winston Churchill as "the incomparable playboy of British politics who has no conception of the actualities of the situation in India." Not a single optimistic person could be found before the round table conference opened, but it closed with a measure of success far greater than anyone could have expected, he said, and commented on the remarkable membership—people of fine manners who were able to adjust themselves socially as well as mentally to their strange surroundings. One of the astonishing things, he said, was the character of those who came to represent the suppressed classes.

He declared that India will not return to the primitive, for the women have come out and are preparing to take their full share in affairs and, as he put it, India is holding out her hands for everything the West can give her. The granting of financial control means the beginning of complete self-government and even the question of defense has become one of a relatively short time. Mr. Ratcliffe expressed profound admiration for Gandhi, to whom he referred as "that unequaled character." Gandhi has done his job well and has aroused public sentiment without parallel. American publicity has made him more real to Americans than to the British, and one reason that he has caught the imagination of the American people is that he represents something totally different from anything they have ever known.

An unusual program—original poems and short stories—was given yesterday by the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club which met in the Y. W. C. A. Community House. Mrs. A. C. Pollock contributed an amusing short story entitled "Does It Matter." Mrs. A. H. McIntire's story, "Adventures in Culture," dealt with a woman who is blackballed by a club but manages to survive "the stigma." Mrs. Deane Harvey read a humorous description of life in a sanitarium written by Miss Helen Pershing; Mrs. Thomas Hayes and Mrs. O. G. Leichliter both contributed poetry, a contribution from Mrs. Q. W. Hershey, sent from France, was read, and Mrs. W. C. Graham, the club president, added a poem, 'My Cluttered Mind." Elsie Breese Mitchell rounded out the afternoon with several songs by Gertrude Martin Rohrer, a member of the club.

FLOWING, CLINGING SKIRTS SHARE HONORS IN BALLROOM

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 3.—The latitude that fashion permits us is certainly quite obvious in the width of the skirt. For on the ballroom floor one sees wide, flowing skirts, sharing sartorial honors with softly clinging ones. But there is one point on which its devotees seem to be in complete accord, and that is the back decolletage. For the matter of the back neckline certainly does encourage the wide open spaces. Never, never, have we seen so many deep decolletages as the past season, or so many interesting backs.

THE BACK interest that a smart frock draws is considerable and every frock offers a new and noteworthy idea in that direction. The sheer and semi-sheer materials are being extensively and expensively used for the best frocks this season and that "rag of a chiffon frock" is generally apt to cost a pretty penny even if it has no back to speak of and little trimming or elaboration.

WE SHOW TODAY a sketch of two of the charming evening frocks. The model to the left is an unmistakable Chanel and is of black chiffon, with inserts of the chiffon forming the entire trimming. The top of the skirt is draped and drawn up in back with the appearance of having been twisted up into bustle-like loops. While the skirt is bouffant and flaring all around, the bulk of its width is amassed at the center back. The neckline is rounded in front.

THE DRESS to the right is a Maggy Rouff of triple white georgette, with all interest and detail centered in the back. The shirred bodice drawn into two little tabs is unusual.

There is an apron-like tier in front which dips down into a gracefully hanging point in back and is topped by a shallow flounce. The flounces and skirt are circular in cut.

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING

PERSHING SAW U.S. STRENGTH PERILED

of transports and arrival of troops without equipment causing some confusion.

Gen. Bartlett

An appeal for American troops on the Bulgarian front came through General Bartlett, our representative there, as indicated by the following cablegram:

"Commander-in-chief Allied forces on Balkan front desires I report that Bulgarians are tired of war. Austra-Hungary is in unstable condition and her troops on this front are not the best. Line of least resistance to decisive victory is now through Balkan ways. With additional help of one American division without artillery Bulgaria can be defeated and Germany attacked through Austria-Hungary, where Jugo-Slavs would aid Allies. American division should arrive with as little delay as possible for action before snowfall.

"All Greeks, Servians and Slavs in the American Army should come to Balkan front to encourage Greeks and Servians and to discourage Bulgaria. Declaration of war by the United States against Bulgaria would greatly increase discouragement in latter country, which now considers United States her friend on final peace congress.

"All British troops are now leaving Struma section, having been replaced by three Greek divisions. One of every four British infantry battalions are now leaving Balkans for another front."

July 10 I went to Bombon, Gen. Foch's headquarters, to discuss the employment of American troops. This visit to Bombon, like all my calls on Foch, was by appointment. The discussion regarding their immediate use of the troops turned on the question of relieving those still with the British.

Wants Organization

I told Gen. Foch that it had been my intention, when circumstances would permit, to withdraw our divisions to the American zone for the organization of our own army, and I suggested that he should have this done at once before they became engaged, when the transfer might leave the British in an embarrassing position.

My idea was that our divisions could be assembled for service temporarily where needed most, perhaps confronting the Chateau Thierry salient where we already had the 3d (Dickman) and the 26th (Edwards) in line, the latter having recently relieved the 2d (Bundy).

Gen. Bundy

"We should look further than this and decide upon a permanent sector without delay," I added. Attention was called to my tentative understanding with Gen. Petain that the American sector should include the St. Mihiel salient, and to the fact that we had done a great amount of work behind that front, such as the construction of railway sidings, yards, depots, airdromes and a regulating station which was nearing completion.

I went on to say that with American units scattered all along the Western Front, assigned to no particular zone for future operations, we were postponing the day when an American army would be able to render its greatest help to the Allied cause.

I stressed the point that we were frittering away our resources for lack of a plan and were not able to utilize the full capacity of our facilities.

Foch Agrees

Instead of thinking of the future, even the immediate future, we were merely temporizing. If we were to do our part to the best advantage we should have a definite place on the front which could be served by our own lines of communication.

I again pointed out that the British were compelled to remain in the north and that French were covering Paris and the area west of Verdun, and that it seemed logical that we should hold to our original idea as to the location of an American sector.

Also, that from a strategical point of view the new line resulting from the reduction of the St. Mihiel salient would afford a most favorable base for a later offensive toward the vital part of Germany, and deprive her of some of her resources in iron and coal. I therefore strongly recommended this operation as the first American offensive.

In reply, Gen. Foch said he was glad our views on the situation were so nearly alike.

"Today, when there are a million Americans in France," he added, "I am going to be still more American than any of you. America must have her place in the war. America has the right to have her army organized as such.

"The American Army must become an accomplished fact. Moreover, the cause of the Allies will be better served by an American Army under its own chief than if its units are dispersed.

"Therefore, it is necessary at the earliest possible date to constitute an American Army side by side with the French and British armies, and it is necessary to make the American Army as large as possible."

Numerical Superiority

Gen. Foch remarked that it might be possible by the end of July to constitute an American Army with at least 13 divisions. Asked about the artillery for some of our units whose artillery had not arrived, he said Petain would arrange that.

He talked a great deal that day, and went on to say that to bring victory to the Allies it would be necessary for them to have an incontestable numerical superiority.

Gen. Foch laid particular stress on the view that the strength of the British and French divisions should be maintained, and the number of American divisions increased as rapidly as possible. Temporarily, he said, as long as the present battle lasted, he was going to ask the American Army to help the French Army by the loan of the divisions that had not yet received their artillery.

He wanted them placed in quiet sectors, or sent to complete their training in areas behind the lines, where they would be available, if necessary, to assist the French troops in front of them.

I agreed with the idea of putting newly arrived divisions in the inactive portions of the line, and we left the details of assignment to be discussed by Weygand and Conner.

With my objective always in mind, I again suggested that the assembly of an American army as a temporary measure might take place in the vicinity of Chateau Thierry, to which Gen. Foch promptly replied that this accorded with his plans.

He then referred to a proposed attack that might occur between the 20th and 31st of that month, and indicated that he expected the 1st and 2nd Divisions to take part.

Look to End in 1919

He also said an offensive would probably be made by the Allies in September to reduce the Marne salient, if it had not already been reduced. He mentioned the possibility of an operation in the region of Amiens to free the railroads through that place.

The impression this conference left on my mind was that although he had spoken of an earlier date, Gen. Foch was not really favorable to the formation of an American army before October.

In their mental processes Foch and Weygand were somewhat alike, and I speak advisedly in making this comparison. When Weygand expressed himself it was quite certain that Foch would take the same view.

Both during the conference and afterward they emphasized the opinion which we all held, that every effort should be made to win the war in 1919.

Foch said the French and British armies and people were tired of the war, and that the minimum result required of the campaign of 1919 would be to free northern France and at least a part of Belgium. This would demand that all three Allies should utilize all available divisions in co-ordinated attack.

The thought was expressed, especially by Weygand, that a certain spirit of emulation among the Allied armies would be necessary to co-ordination, and that the attacks should be launched in the same general region, with interdependent objectives, a conception which would accord with the principle of concentration of effort.

Seek Enemy Railway

With the British front extending to the vicinity of Amiens, and the French from there to the vicinity of Rheims, the location of the Americans, because of the ports and railroads serving them, would be to the last, but coordination of attacks would forbid them going farther east than the sector Rheims-Argonne.

This division of the front, both Foch and Weygand thought, would correspond to the forces available in 1919, and also to the peculiar necessities that governed the location of troops of the various nations.

The objective, it was stated, other than the enemy forces, would naturally be the railroad net to include the lateral railway from Mezieres via Cambrai toward Valenciennes and the north. If this line were cut it would throw the bulk of the enemy's traffic on those through Liege, and would force a considerable portion of the army back against the rocky and heavily wooded Ardennes.

This would cause the enemy much embarrassment, and compel him to relinquish the territory in Northern France and at least a part of Belgium.

American Swam River

The strongest reason advanced at the time in support of their general conception of an Allied offensive was that the spirit of emulation would be aroused among the armies thus fighting side by side. It was argued that this feature would be missed if the Americans should attack in the Lorraine while the British and French attacked in the North.

While nothing definite was then decided, the exchange of views, although rather general, covering the probable operations to be undertaken during the fall and in the following year, did furnish several factors to be considered in the study regarding the employment of the American Army.

Leaving Foch's headquarters I went to the headquarters of the 2d Division, northeast of la Fertesous-Jouarre, to bestow decorations. One of the men to receive the Distinguished Service Cross, swam the river to be present.

This was Marine Gunner (later lieutenant) Henry L. Hulbert, Fifth Regiment, U. S. Marines, afterward killed in action while his division was aiding the French in the Champagne, October 4, 1918. This gallant soldier had also received the Croix de Guerre with palm and the Navy Cross, and in 1899, at Samoa, the Medal of Honor.

Arabs Repudiate MacDonald Policy

JERUSALEM, March 3.—(INS.)—The British Palestine policy, as outlined in Premier MacDonald's letter of interpretation to Dr. Chaim Weizmann recently, was repudiated today by a plenary session of the Arab executive council. Reiterating its previous assertions that the revised policy rendered any understanding with Jews impossible unless the British government canceled its Balfour declaration and Palestine mandate, the council declared "Arabs will not feel safe unless Jewish immigration and sale of land to them have been prohibited."

Cambria County Commissioner Dies

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 3.—John D. Walker, president of the Board of Cambria County Commissioners since 1923, died this morning at a Johnstown hospital, following an operation. Mr. Walker also had served a term as county treasurer and had been prominent in political circles here since 1905.

POLITE AND SOPHISTICATED COMEDY NEW OFFERINGS OF STAGE

Mere Man Is Very Stupid, Mrs. Fraser Proves Rather Too Well

By GEORGE SEIBEL

In the most delightful and most delightfully acted comedy of the season, "The First Mrs. Fraser," Grace George showed a large audience at the Alvin Theater last night how clever a woman can be in rounding up a stupid husband. It looks so simple that one is tempted to wonder whether it is worth while. With all the diplomacy and finesse employed by Mrs. Fraser to "get her man," a faultless technique based on intimate knowledge of the domestic animal, she should have been able to land somebody as witty as Shaw, as rich as Rockefeller, and as handsome as the late lamented Rudolph Valentino.

George Seibel

Instead she gets her vain-glorious, tight-fisted and decidedly stodgy specimen of the shopworn male. Fraser, perfectly portrayed by A. E. Matthews, must tickle the vanity of every wife in the audience. "A poor thing, but mine own," is the only philosophy that will account for the first Mrs. Fraser's taste. And isn't it pleasant for the ladies to bask in the reflected superiority of their sex? Husbands are at a discount this week—and dear at that.

St. John Ervine (pronounce it "Sinjon"), the British critic and playwright, has written a comedy that was bound to please the women. And therefore it was bound to succeed, because every wife will take her husband to show him how stupid other men are.

MISS GEORGE'S BEST

Grace George has done many excellent things in her career, but her playing in "The First Mrs. Fraser" is the very best thing she has ever done. And Mr. Matthews, one of the most competent actors that ever stepped across the Atlantic upon our stage, shares the honors evenly with Miss George. In fact, if she were not so joyously and superbly feminine, he would crowd her off the scene with his thick-skulled masculinity, reinforced by a Scotch burr as fine as if he had dined on thistles.

As the third asterisk in the stellar triangle, Lawrence Grossmith is the equally fatuous Uncle Philip, who regularly proposes to the divorced Mrs. Fraser. And brilliant in an unlovely part, Phyllis Elgar plays the second Mrs. Fraser with a hard sophistication that is as appalling in its hypocrisy as it is amusing in its hysterics.

Yes, it is a perfect cast working in perfect harmony.

It reveals not merely great individual acting, but great ensemble acting which is most rare.

RHAPSODY IS EASY

To rhapsodize over this play and these players is easy. I saw it in New York a year ago and could see it again without weariness. It is a lesson in the art of acting to watch the face of Grace George or A. E. Matthews when the other is talking. Expression could hardly be more expressive.

Four other people are in the cast—all in tune with the mood of the play—all perfectly characterized, even the sentimental and romantic maid interpreted so richly by Mrs. Holbrook Blinn. Lowell Gilmore and Charles Campbell as the fratricidally tempered brothers, May Marshall as the good-humored daughter-in-law, filled in the family group with absolutely convincing detail.

St. John Ervine has written a comedy full of humor, based upon true characterization and sparkling with wit. It is played by Grace George and A. E. Matthews as smoothly and tellingly as anything could be played. It may be a bit hard on the pompous and self-satisfied male, but after all it is just as unflattering to the sentimentality that undoes the cleverness of the eternal feminine.

Evelyn Brent Gets New Feature Role

After a rest of 10 days, following the completion of "The Mad Parade," Evelyn Brent has donned make-up again to enact the featured lead in her new RKO production, "Travelling Husbands," direction of Paul Sloan. Curiously enough, Miss Brent has been popularly identified with gangster films for the past few years. During that time she has appeared in exactly four such pictures: "Underworld," "The Dragnet," "Broadway" and, more recently, "Framed."

OLD BOOZE DRAMMER IS PRESENTED IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The George Sharp Players have gone in for the oldtime stuff again. Down in the Pitt this week they are giving a version of that old melodrama, "Ten Nights in a Barroom." This drammer used to send audiences out to sign the pledge. But last night we didn't see anyone hurrying home to spill the home brew in the sink. What was once a great temperance lesson has become the laughing stock of the town.

Paul McGrath portrays Joe Morgan, the drunk. He effects a hobo makeup that defies description. And there's no doubt that he sees snakes. The audiences sees them, too. They dangle in grand array from a clothes wire stretched cross stage. This is realism that was unknown in the old Empire days.

Betty Bryant, little daughter of Billy Bryant, the showboat man, is Mary Morgan. She's a cute youngster. She sings "Father, Dear Father, Come Home With Me Now" and gets whacked with a whisky bottle. Then she is turned into an angel to the accompaniment of some Fourth of July scenic effects.

THE CAST INCLUDES

Mr. Byrant carries the comedy role of Sample Swichel. He makes you think of a burlesque comedian.

John Winthrop is Simon Slade, landlord of the Sickle and Sheaf Inn. He ends his career when his son, Frank Slade, essayed by young Charles Webster, pops him with a bottle.

Robert Fiske, looking the perfect villain, is Gambler Green; Mabel Kroman is "the gal who never had a beau," and Alice Ann Baker puts on the suffering act as Joe Morgan's missus. Others in the cast include Hugh Banks, as a squire's son; Catherine Maison, as the innkeeper's wife, and Leon Ward, a philanthropist, whose every word is a sermon.

ATMOSPHERE AND SONGS

A number of others also are present as "atmosphere" and specialty entertainers. Clyde Shafer gets a big hand for his oldtime song rendition. Peggy Dougherty warbles about when "Broadway Was a Pasture" and Earl and Marie Gates go in for the Bowery dancing.

There are five acts, and we refer you to the program for the number of scenes in this drammer. And there are all kinds of atmosphere. An orchestra sits in the pit and heralds the approach of villain, hero and so on. Mr. Sharp's Players, for the most part, strive to take the show seriously—with the deserved effect, laughter. It is a goofy riot.

A new revusival, now being heard by backers, contains the grandest lyric and chune ever written about the town—called "Doin' the New York" . . . The reason Bill Boyd's home was raided for being what it was, is that there are no speakeasys out there. . . . Hilda Moreno, of the Ziegfeld ensembles, won't make the separation legal . . . Mrs. Frank Getty vigorously denies a rift. . . . The Jack Kirklands (Nancy Carroll) are being stork'd again.

INSURANCE MAN PRAISES 'ADS'

Newspaper advertising was given as the foundation of the success of the Rochester (N. Y.) Insurance Club by Wellington Potter, of Rochester, nationally-known insurance expert, in an address at a dinner of the Pittsburgh Insurance Club in the William Penn Hotel last night. He urged insurance men to join the movement fostered by the National Association of Insurance Agents, to impress upon manufacturers and others the claims of agents dealing in old-line stock insurance. He said:

"With 292,000 insurance agents in the United States it is high time for the immense buying power of this contingent to make itself felt."

In an open forum following the address the merger of the Pittsburgh Insurance Club, formed four years ago, and the Fire Insurance Association of Pittsburgh, was suggested. Charles H. Bokman, president of the Insurance Club, and others pledged their support for "any constructive effort."

Bond Club to Hold Banquet Thursday

The annual banquet of the Pittsburgh Bond Club will be held in the William Penn Hotel, Thursday evening, March 12. Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, will be principal speaker. Dr. E. R. Weidlein, director of Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, will be toastmaster. Following the banquet an entertainment program featuring Raymond Knight, humorist, will be given.

'Seth Parker' Gets Congress Applause

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—Philips Lord, known to radio listeners as "Seth Parker," of Jamesport, Me., was presented to the House yesterday by Representative Snow (Rep.), of Maine.

Snow said Lord was the "source of more joy, contentment and cheer" to the people than any other individual. "Seth" received the applause of the House.

HEARST STOCK DIVIDEND NEAR

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Holders of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., 7 per cent Class A participating stocks as of today will receive on March 15 the regular quarterly dividend at the annual rate of 7 per cent. This is the third regular dividend on this issue of stock, which was first offered to the public last July. It was declared at the regular meeting of the board of directors last week and covers the three months ending March 1.

This 7 per cent Class A stock carries a preferred dividend of 7 per cent and also has a participating feature, giving it the right to share with the common stock in additional dividends up to an extra 3 per cent, after payment of $1.75 a share on the common.

The 7 per cent Class A stock is the only issue of Hearst Consolidatel Publications, Inc., outstanding in the hands of the public. It was recently announced that Hearst Publications, Inc., a subsidiary, earned $4,938,182.93 after all charges for the year ending December 31, 1930, and covered interest of its 6½ per cent serial bonds 5 1-3 times.

Musical Club Will Give Last Concert

Marking the final concert of the season, the Pittsburgh Chamber of Music Society will present the Yost String Quartet in the Hotel Schenley ballroom Sunday afternoon, March 15. Helen Bell Rush, soprano, will be guest artist, assisting in a first Pittsburgh performance of three Pizzetti songs. Gaylord Yost, Roy Shoemaker, Carl Rosenberg and Samuel Kliachko comprise the quartet.

Brook and Arlen In Rogers' Picture

Gay Life

WRITER FOR SCREEN GETS NEW CONTRACT

Frances Marion, one of whose original stories was "The Big House," has been signed to a new long-term contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Miss Marion recently wrote "The Secret Six" as an original picture script, and this is now in production at the coast.

She is the author of many outstanding successes, and has received one of the awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. She began her career as a newspaperwoman in San Francisco, then wrote fiction and became a scenarist. During the World War she was a correspondent at the battle front.

Seven Nationalities In Shearer Picture

Seven nationalities were represented in the making of "Strangers May Kiss" in which Norma Shearer is starred. Miss Shearer is a Canadian. George Fitzmaurice, the director, is French. Albert Conti was born in Austria; Henry Armetta hails from Italy; George Davis is from Holland; Conchita Montenegro from Spain and others in the company were Americans.

Monroe Owsley Has Role in Hurst Yarn

Monroe Owsley, who played the inebriated brother in "Holiday," has been signed to a long-term M-G-M contract and will next appear in "Five and Ten," an adaptation of Fannie Hurst's story of the same name with Jack Conway directing. He recently completed an important role in Gloria Swanson's "Indiscreet."

Polly Moran Signs With M. G. M. Again

Polly Moran, whose last appearance was with Marie Dressler in "Reducing," has been signed to a new long-term contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Miss Moran's newest screen part is in Marion Davies' forthcoming starring film, "It's A Wise Child."

'Strictly Dishonorable' Again Amuses on Stage of Nixon

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Strictly Dishonorable," the Preston Sturges comedy success that kept audiences in the Nixon in a swift stream of laughter earlier this season, repeated when it returned to that house last night, presented by the same company, which is en route to New York, where the original company has recently completed a run of more than 500 performances.

The company now here will play the "subway circuit" of that city. That it will compare favorably with the one there so long will be quite evident to any person seeing the fine work of the cast now in the Nixon for the second time, headed by Flobelle Fairbanks and Lino Manzoni.

GAY, WITTY COMEDY

"Strictly Dishonorable" is a gay and witty comedy of the "thin-ice" classification and it is so adroitly fashioned that delicate situations have a way of passing out of the ticklish state with such swiftness that laughter is compulsory. Besides, it is a comedy of finely drawn character in an atmosphere where it would be unexpected—a speakeasy of all places!

There we find a lovable young girl from a country town in Mississippi, an Italian opera singer, a genial, kindly, mild-mannered judge, who is not exactly on the water-wagon, at least in his unofficial capacity, the equally genial Italian proprietor of the place, an Irish policeman and the girl's fiance, a bossy sort of chap from East Orange, N. J., a type best defined as a pain in the neck.

LIGHT, AMUSING STORY

In search of adventure the betrothed pair enter and the girl alone remains over night, her companion having departed angry. It is the beginning of a light story of romantic adventure that is amusing and not without a certain grace of charm in its frankness.

Miss Fairbanks is skillful in her depiction of an impulsive lass in love with romance. Mr. Manzoni has all the manner of an ardent ladies' man. Paul Gilmore visibly shows that his heart is in the right place as the judge. Ralph Locke beams good humor as the speakeasy proprietor. Jerome Daley is the policeman—very good.

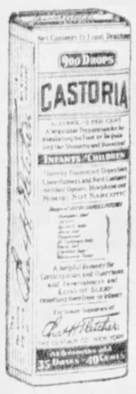
FOR ANY CHILD



CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it is constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.

To be sure of getting genuine Fletcher's Castoria you should look for this signature: Chas. H. Fletcher

VERSATILE PITT ATHLETE GOING OUT

WHEN THE PANTHERS, who are scheduled to play all of their three later games on the road, meet W. & J. in basketball at the Stadium tonight, Eddie Baker will appear in his last contest for the University of Pittsburgh before the home fans. It will mark the passing of one of Pitt's most versatile performers. While Eddie has participated only in football and basketball for the Blue and Gold, he is an outstanding player in any sport he picks.

Eddie Baker

In football, Baker was used as a center at the start of his sophomore year. Then Coach Sutherland moved him to quarterback, and there Eddie was a regular for two seasons. Last fall he surprised the early game-goers by running with the ball. Few modern Pitt quarterbacks have done that. But Baker was good at it. He ran 100 yards for a touchdown against Western Reserve by taking the first kick-off. He was an excellent forward passer and equally as good at receiving forward flings. He was a good blocker, too, as all Pitt quarterbacks must be.

IN ADDITION, EDDIE was the team's best punter, and, though he didn't look so good at the start, by the middle of the season he had developed into an outstanding kicker. He kicked for the point after touchdown, and in one game he even tried for a field goal. Toward the close of the campaign he was also doing the kick-off, thus completing the full role of kicker. Besides, of course, he handled the team and called the signals, and at all times he did a fine job of it.

In basketball he has been equally versatile and valuable though he got a late floor start as the result of a football trip to the coast. On his return he found the Panther five moving along smoothly and victoriously, with Doc Kowallis and Tim Lawry at the forwards, Bus Albright at center and Willie Arture and Don Smith at the guards. There wasn't a chance for Baker to break in as a regular.

SO EDDIE BECAME Coach Carlson's best utility man. He was listed as a guard, but he played forward, guard and lately center. And he didn't appear to be a bit awkward at any of those tasks. In recent games he has been the bright light of the Panthers.

In fact, it is doubtful if Pitt could have defeated Carnegie Tech last Friday night but for Baker's great work, as Eddie is now fresh and at the peak of form, while the other Panthers appear to be worn from the hard season through which they have played.

WHAT BAKER WILL do in the line of athletic activity after the basketball season is not known. But a fellow who likes sports so well is likely to continue in some field. Pitt has no baseball, but Eddie is a star of the diamond and no doubt will be found actively engaged in that game again as soon as possible. During the last two summer vacations he played sandlot ball for Art Rooney's North Side Civics, and friends have urged him to take up the diamond sport professionally after his graduation. Baker plays shortstop.

Gene Rye

THE BREAKING OF two bones in the right wrist of Outfielder Gene Rye, slugging rookie of the Boston Red Sox, will put the colorful recruit out for at least a month and a half.

Rye, whose proper name is Merchantelli, had been showing up well as a hitter and making a strong bid for a regular berth. He is the player who set a new world slugging record in a Texas League night game last season by making three home runs in one inning for the Waco club.

GENE WAS HEARTBROKEN after the accident and thought it meant the end of his major league chance. He told Phil Troy, traveling secretary of the Red Sox, that he feared his opportunity had faded.

President Bob Quinn took the depressed youngster aside, told him not to worry, that he had the stuff to make good in any league, and that he certainly would not be sent back to Waco or even to his home in Chicago, but was to stick right along with the club and remain one of the crowd. After that he will again be given every chance to make good. Rye was instructed to keep his legs right and his weight down by doing a lot of walking. He was an overjoyed kid when Quinn finished his talk.

JOE SHAUTE, former Cleveland left-hander, is showing up so well for the Robins that Joe McCarthy may regret he didn't give him that promised Yankee tryout. In two innings of a Robin practice game Shaute performed in a way to impress Manager Robinson most impressively. He worked smoothly and easily with the arm that went dead on him last summer, had his fast ball and his confidence and declared he felt not a bit of pain in his wing. He wanted to cut loose but Robbie vetoed the suggestion, and urged Joe not to take any chances. Robbie rightly figures that if Shaute is right, he'll be worth a whole lot more to the Brooklyn club than any young pitcher who might be picked up.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT WILL be made at the meeting of the basketball rules committee thi month to eliminate the tip-off. It will be headed by Sam Barry, the coast coach, who proposed that change without success two years ago.

Barry contends that it would do away with the premium on tall centers; that the ball would be put in play at one end of the court, each team getting the toss-in at the start of a half; that unusually tall centers mean an advantage of from 6 to 10 points in a team's offensive punch; that it would give the little fellow a better chance to make the team, and that 95 per cent of all basketball injuries result from the scramble at the tip-off.

MATE WILL BE the horse to follow Equipoise most closely for the distinction of being installed as favorite in the Kentucky Derby on May 16 at Churchill Downs. Equipoise is given the favorite's ranking on his record for last year—eight firsts, five seconds and one third in 16 starts.

Bill Roper

But Mate's showing also was impressive. He won eight races, was second four times and third twice in 15 starts. Others with good records for 1930 are Vander Pool, with a clean sweep in 11 starts; Twenty Grand, with four firsts, two seconds and one third in eight races, and Don Leon, with nine wins, three seconds and two thirds in 18 starts.

UNLESS THE FACTION that is holding out for a University of Pennsylvania graduate carries its point, the football coaching job at Penn, according to the latest rumor, may go to Bill Roper, former Princeton mentor. It is said that Roper has the inside track with all the powers except those advocating a continuance of the graduate system. An arrangement whereby he could carry on his own business and political activities on the side might be possible at Penn, as his insurance firm has its headquarters in Philadelphia and Roper is the Chestnut Hill representative in the city council, a neighbor and friend of Dr. Thomas F. Gates, Penn president. Another angle is that the engagement of Roper might open the way for the desired resumption of Penn-Princeton relations.

DAVIES BOXES CHAMPION

FLOOR CROWN IN SECTION I AT STAKE

The Lineup

Schenley	Pos.	Westinghouse
Crum	F	Linsinoff
Cates	F	Mero
Gerber	C	Ware
Mihm	G	Dye
Friedman	G	Wendell

Time of game—4 p. m.

The Section I championship of the City League, which was very much kicked around during the regular season, will be settled definitely this afternoon and the way paved for the opening of the three-game series for the league title as Westinghouse and Schenley hook up in a battle in the Pitt Stadium this afternoon.

Babe Dye

When the teams wound up the regular campaign last week, the Bellefielders and Brushtonites found themselves deadlocked for the lead, each with 10 wins and two defeats. Schenley was beaten by both Taylor Allderdice and Westinghouse in first half tilts. Westinghouse lost to Schenley in the second round and to South in the first. Had the schedule provided South with any opponent save either Schenley or Westinghouse last week, there might have been a triple tie for the top rung of the ladder, for it took a victory by Red Gross' charges last Friday to relegate South to third place.

The outcome of today's scrap is regarded as a tossup. Neither five will have the advantage of the floor. Both lost men at midsemesters they could use very well now. Schenley has shifted its lineup some, shooting Crum to a forward and inserting Gerber at center. Mero has replaced Wadsworth at forward for Westinghouse, the latter, a smart, heady player, winding up his scholastic competition during the first half race.

CRUM BIG STAR

If Crum is on, Schenley will be a tough team to beat. The ranky Oaklander is possibly the best natural basketballer on either team. Babe Dye, the blond Westinghouse guard, is a hard worker, a good passer and smart enough to keep his team in the ball game, but even his class will hardly offset Crum's accuracy and speed if he has one of those good days.

Today's winner will open the annual city series for the league title with South Hills, champs of Section II, Friday afternoon.

Monessen Wins

Monessen High, which has sent its basketball team to Pittsburgh to battle in the W. P. I. A. L. championship elimination series seven times, eased through its first round game of the 1931 eliminations last night in the Stadium, defeating Bentleyville, of Section XVI by a 23 to 19 count.

Monessen had the game in complete control for the first three periods, and was able to roll up a commanding lead without displaying too much for the benefit of scouts present from other teams that hope to meet the Greyhounds later in the tourney.

At the end of the first period, Monessen was out in front by 4 to 2. At the half, the lead had been boosted to six points at 11 to 5. The teams battled through the third quarter all even, each counting half a dozen points, and then, Bentleyville, pulling itself together and exhibiting an attack of fair strength, rallied valiantly in the final eight minutes to tally eight points to Monessen's two, but still fell four points short of tying the ball game.

STEVENSON GOOD

Stevenson, veteran Monessen guard, failed to do any field goal getting, but messed up rally after rally hopefully engineered by the Section XVI entrants. The Monessen attack was led by Tucci, a smiling little forward, and Kotys, the center, each of whom dumped three field goals and a foul for seven points.

Bentleyville carried off one honor, that of producing the individual scoring star. Forward Zemiska, called "Bozo" by the Bentleyville rooters, dumped one more foul than either Kotys or

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: PENNSYLVANIA WAS NOT SETTLED BY THE DUTCH AND NOT NAMED AFTER WILLIAM PENN—Pennsylvania was not settled by the Dutch. The so-called Pennsylvania Dutch are not "Dutch" at all, but German. It is a common error to confuse Dutch with German in English-speaking countries. The German word for a native of Germany is "ein Deutscher," and, because this word has a ring similar to the word "Dutch," the two often are confused and sight is lost of the fact that a "Dutchman" is strictly a Hollander or a native of the Netherlands. The so-called Dutch settlers were in reality natives of Pommerania, Alsatia, the Palatinate and other purely German provinces. Pennsylvania was not named after William Penn, its founder. In Penn's own account of the history of the naming of the colony (his letter to Robert Turner, of January 5, 1681) there is the following passage: "and they added Penn to it, and, though I much opposed it and went to the King to have it struck out and altered, he said it was past and he would take it upon him, for I feared lest it should be looked on as a vanity to me. But the King said, 'we will keep it, but not on your account, my dear fellow, don't flatter yourself. We will keep the name to commemorate the Admiral, your noble father.'" Admiral William Penn was not a Quaker, but, on the contrary, a very ardent antagonist of Quakerdom. (See: John Fisk's "The Quaker Colonies of America," Vol. 1, P. 150.) A HOG'S BRISTLE WAS THE ORIGINAL HAIRSPRING—The inventor of the mainspring for watches was Peter Henlein, of Nuremberg, Germany (about 1500), who manufactured the first of portable watches. Heinlein's product, known as the "Nuremberg Eggs," was of remarkable craftsmanship, but was inaccurate. The necessity to equalize the pressure of the mainspring led to a still more important invention, the so-called "hairspring" (balance spring). Its inventor, Robert Hooke, of England, used actual pig's bristles in the construction of the first "hairspring." Hence the name of the "hairspring," which survives to this day, although the original "hair" long since has been replaced by balance springs of metallic make.

WOLGAST IS FOE IN NON-TITLE BOUT HERE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Two of the best flyweight boxers in the world clash tonight in the Motor Square Garden ring.

One of them is a world champion, Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, New York and New Jersey, and the other Willie Davies, Charlerol veteran, who would have been champion if the opportunity to fight certain title claimants with the crown at stake had been presented him at any time during the last half-dozen years. He has done a lot of eliminating in non-title matches, and he's in a similar spot tonight.

A victory tonight will mean just another win for Davies and will not carry Wolgast's title with it, because the men are meeting over the 112-pound limit of the smallest of the classes at Wolgast's dictation.

TOUGHEST OPPONENT

Wolgast is not unchallenged as champion, Frankie Genaro being recognized as the titleholder by the National Boxing Association. Several months ago, this pair met in Madison Square Garden, New York, and battled to a draw. Davies has beaten both Genaro and Wolgast, along with Corp Izzy Schwartz, Black Bill, Newsboy Brown and other title claimants and contenders, but he has lost to Wolgast oftener in their series of meetings than Wolgast has lost to him. The Midget, because of his phantom-like speed afoot, always has been Willie's toughest foe. They last met in Toronto a few months ago, with Wolgast winning the decision, and, several years ago, they clashed in the same ring in which they will box tonight.

The preliminary card stands as arranged, with Tiger Joe Randall, local Negro welterweight, meeting Jimmy McGraw, of Wheeling, in the eight-round semi-final; Billy Flanagan, of Braddock, boxing Tracey, Negro middleweight of the North Side, in the second bout and Sammy Burns, Negro, of the Hill, taking on Steve Senich, of Homestead, in the opener, at 8:30.

DATTO, ROGERS AGAIN

The "positively no smoking" and no standing room rules of the boxing commission will be enforced for the first time at the Garden, which will be staging its first show since its Johnny Datto-Jackie Rodgers return bout on February 9, the lapse being due to the food show. Incidentally, Rodgers and Datto have been rematched for the main bout next Monday night.

Between Rounds

Tommy Crawley, local lightweight, leaves tonight for Rochester, N. Y., where he boxes Louis (Kid) Kaplan tomorrow night.

The Pittsburgh Lyceum will holds its next amateur boxing show Thursday night of next week.

There will be no boxing show at McKeesport this week, Promoter Jim McGirr having been unable to toss together a card inside the five-day limit prescribed by the boxing commission at a recent meeting.

Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, and Joe Sekyra, of Louisville, will box the main bout of a show in the Castle Bowl, New Castle, one week from next Monday.

Ray Collins, of Erie, has been matched with Johnny Jadich, of Philadelphia, for the 10-round semi-final at the Olympia, Detroit, Friday night. Jadich recently was knocked out in the same ring by Ray Miller in 19 seconds. Tom Heeney and Charley Retzlaff box the main bout Friday.

Jimmy Taylor, Cleveland middleweight, who knocked out Al Becker at the Moose Temple last Friday night, will be one of the principals in the semi-final there again next Friday, with Mose Butch and Marty Gold topping the bill. Paul Balint and Don Frazier will box the opener.

Johnny Dunn, New Kensington featherweight, will box either Tony Leone or Billy Hoag at Zanesville, O., next Monday night. Ken Hargraves will box in one of the preliminaries.

JACKETS MEET CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, March 3.—Local hockey fans expect to witness one of the best games of the International League season at the Elysium tonight when the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets meet the local Indians, defending champions, in a fray that will mark the Steel City skaters' final appearance of the campaign here.

Despite the fact that the Indians have gained four victories and a tie in their last five starts, the local puckmen will rule no better than an even choice against the invaders, for Pittsburgh has lost only one decision in its last 11 games. In their last two meetings the Jackets gained a victory and a tie at the expense of the Indians, but the locals hold the edge in their season series, winning three, losing one and gaining a deadlock in two other skirmishes with Roy Schooley's warriors.

By winning tonight, Pittsburgh, now tied with London for fourth place, can advance to within a half-game of the Indians, owners of third place. The Jackets will not drop out of the fourth notch even should they lose, for London does not swing into action again until Friday.

The locals appeared to be at the peak of their form on Saturday when they handed Buffalo's pacesetters a 3-1 setback, and they were only slightly less impressive in downing Syracuse on Sunday.

The Jackets are handicapped by injuries to Gordy Fraser. Their

Negro Baseball Loop Organized In South

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3.—(AP.)—Negroes of the South are going to have organized baseball this summer, with a league confined to Dixie. A group of promoters met here yesterday and organized the Negro Southern Baseball Circuit, composed of clubs representing Birmingham, Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga, Montgomery and New Orleans.

HANDBALL PLAY UNDER WAY

Favorites copped their matches in yesterday's first round competition of the annual Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. senior handball championship tournament, being staged at the Keystone Athletic Club.

The defending champion, Theos Manos, of K. A. C., easily set aside his first foe, Fierst, of the Y. M. H. A., 21-8, 21-17. The most decisive win of the day was recorded by Joe Bialas, P. A. A., who eliminated Sharpe, Downtown Y, 21-3, 21-1. Yesterday's summary:

Manos, K. A. C., defeated Fierst, Y. M. H. A., 21-8, 21-17; Wolfe, Y. M. H. A., defeated Horner, F. A. C., 21-8, 21-6; Alman, Y. M. H. A., defeated Snyder, K. A. C., 21-9, 21-14; Bialas, P. A. A., defeated Sharpe, Downtown Y. M. C. A., 21-3, 21-1; Frank Smith, K. A. C., defeated Landidus, Y. M. H. A., 21-7, 21-12; Altmar, Y. M. H. A., defeated Clark, P. A. A., 21-6, 20-21, 21-16; Olbum, Y. M. H. A., defeated T. Smith, East Liberty Y, 21-15, 21-11; Winkleman, Y. M. H. A., defeated Warren, K. A. C., 21-2, 21-16.

Today's matches: 4 p. m.—Manos vs. Wolfe, Alman vs. Bialas, Frank Smith vs. Almar, and Olbum vs. Winkleman.

LOU YOUNG ON MEND

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—(INS.)—The condition of Lou Young, former head football coach of the University of Pennsylvania, was reported as "good" today by attendants at the Chestnut Hill Hospital. Young was rushed to the hospital late yesterday and hurriedly operated on for appendicitis.

TIGERS AFTER SACRAMENTO

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 3.—(AP.)—With the Detroit Baseball Club in camp here, "farming out" rumors and reports that the Sacramento Senators, of the Pacific Coast League, may be sold, were heard here.

Stanley Harris, manager of the Detroit club, denied a report that Gene Des Autels, his young catcher, who worked during the latter part of the 1930 season, would be farmed out to Toronto this year. Harris said Des Autels promised to be one of his best catchers, and he had no intention of getting rid of him.

Frank P. Navin, president of the Detroit Club, was reported en route to Sacramento. It was rumored Navin would confer with Lewis Moreing, owner of the Senators. Moreing said he would be in a "receptive mood" if the Easterner wanted to talk around the price Moreing thought his team was worth.

Camp Flashes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP.)—Freddie Lindstrom has turned up in the New York Giants' training camp with a waistline of close to aldermanic proportions. Somebody wanted to know where Freddie had found so much excess weight.

"In Chicago," he said. "It's a great climate. They told me I was going to be an outfielder this year, so I wanted to look like Babe Ruth and Hack Wilson."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, has 33 players in camp. All he wants now to be happy is a few days of the Florida sunshine he's heard so much about. The Yanks have seen more wet

Between Rounds

Frank Klaus signed a five-year contract to manage Jimmy Belmont, Braddock welterweight, before pulling out last night for Miami, Fla., to take in the Primo Carnera-Jim Maloney battle Thursday night. The former middleweight champion has pulled Jimmy through his last five fights a winner, the first four on knockouts and the most recent a decision victory over Joe Trippe, at McKeesport, last Thursday night.

Johnny Dunn, New Kensington featherweight, will box either Tony Leone or Billy Hoag at Zanesville, O., next Monday night. Ken Hargraves will box in one of the preliminaries.

SPORT SHORTS

ATLANTA, Ga.—(AP.)—H. J. Stegeman, basketball coach at the University of Georgia since 1919, has announced his retirement. He will devote all his time to his position as athletic director and coach of track. Rex Enright, assistant football coach, will take charge of next year's varsity basketball team.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Alfredo De Oro, of Cuba, wound up the Eastern open three-cushion billiard tournament last night by hanging up his ninth straight victory, defeating Harry Schuler, of Brooklyn, 40 to 33 in 34 innings.

WORCESTER, Mass.—(AP.)—Baby Joe Gans, California Negro welterweight, will oppose Lou Brouillard, hard-hitting Worcester favorite, in the main bout of 10 rounds here Friday night.

PORTSMOUTH, O.—(AP.)—George Clark, former football coach at Butler, Kansas and Minnesota universities and assistant to Robert Zuppke at Illinois, has signed as head coach of the Portsmouth Spartans, members of the National Professional League. It was understood his salary will be $5,000.

ED PHILLIPS MAKES HIT AS BUC CATCHER

Tech Five Battles Mountaineers, Pitt Tackles Presidents Tonight

PIRATES FACE LONG SESSION AT CAMP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 3.—What seems to be the most important development of the Pirate training was noted today in the receiving department, where Eddie Phillips, Toronto catcher of last year, appears to have taken the pole position from Rolly Hemsley.

"If that fellow isn't a high-class receiver, I don't know where one might look for such an athlete," said Manager Ens after studying the peppery International Leaguer, who came to the Buccos by way of the Athletics.

Connie Mack had drafted Phillips, but the Rajah of the White Elephants was willing to pass Eddie along to the Pirates, inasmuch as Mack is supposed to have the finest catcher in the land in Mickey Cochrane.

ENS SATISFIED

More than six feet tall and, a fleet lad on his feet, Phillips has stolen the Pirate show for the present. When the Pirate regular infield went into its first practice of the season yesterday, Ens selected Phillips to operate at the plate. Jewel did not deny he had a case on the Toronto receiver and, as the boss was satisfied with the Pirate staff of last season, he naturally will give any promising newcomer a chance to win the post.

To state the facts richly, Ens is very keen about more than one of the new catchers.

The pilot has gone hook, line and sinker for Hal Finney, Alabama boy, although Hal doesn't appear to be ready to do his stuff in the big show. It is spirit of this rookie, together with his native skill, that has won the fancy of his boss. Finney is one of the tireless workers of the camp, and he is so well behaved that training rules were not made for him.

Another first-string consideration for the catching job is Jack Mealey, Wichita graduate, who was under the bat for the mid-western champions while Spades Woods was compiling his phenomenal record of last season. Perhaps you read about Wood fanning 197 batters in as many innings for one of the most unique records of the sport. Well, it was Mealey who supported the young lefthander in that fanning bee. And surely his was sturdy support when one considers that the Pirate catchers were unable to hold up Wood after he reached the big show.

LONG DRILL TODAY

Mealey caught Wood as the southpaw pitched 19 victories in 20 ball games. It has been said that Charley was able to encompass his strikeout fete largely because he was twirling in the night league, but his catcher claims that the young pitcher pitched only two or three games under the artificial glare.

The fight for the first-string job is becoming interesting, with Phillips having the rail position at present. There is a likelihood that the big backstopper will hold the favored spot for sometime to come as he is of a determined lot.

Manager Ens planned to run his big squad through one long workout today. Ens will feel more composed when Paul Waner and Adam Comorosky reach camp. Comorosky has signed his contract, but he is the victim of a rash which will make him an absentee for another week or more.

Local Sandlot Loops Plan for New Season

The North Side Twilight League was reorganized at a meeting of sandlot baseball leaders at Spalding's last night. The loop this season is to be made up of Fineview, Troy Hill Independents, St. Anthony's, Brighton A. C., Perry Civics, Fort Pitt, Bellevue and a club to be selected.

The Suburban League was planned with the Steel City Club, Ardmore Aces, Moran Painters, Penn Club, Jack Potts, Universal and Trafford as tentative members.

Colteryahn Dairy, Collier Colts, McKinley Park, McGrath A. C., DeMor, Shine A. C. and Sonora are to be admitted to the Central Pittsburgh loop.

Morgan to Oppose Goodyears Sunday

The Goodyears, of Akron, O., will meet Morgan, local representative, at Bridgeville Sunday afternoon in the Western final of the national soccer cup competition.

The winner in the game at Bridgeville will meet the winner of the New Bedford-Newark Eastern final, to be played late this month. The sectional winners will clash in April.

COUNTY LEAGUE SERIES ON TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The long-awaited opening of the Allegheny County League basketball playoffs is scheduled on the Duquesne High School floor tonight when Fintex, first half winner, meets the Duquesne Lafayettes, defending champions and winners of the second half crown.

The opener originally was scheduled for the South Side Market House last Wednesday, but was postponed by mutual consent. The second game of the series will be played at the Market House next Tuesday night.

Central-Pittsburgh is at First Presbyterian and Mount Troy at Faith Chapel in the Junior Church League. St. Joseph's plays at St. Henry's in the Catholic Lyceum League.

The Penn Five copped from the North Side Buicks, 33-28, and the Falcons tripped the Knickers, 39-38, in West Penn League combats last night. Rankin upset Hill Top Y., 51-27, in the Amateur League, and Pitpa set down Duquesne, 29-18, in the P. & O. circuit.

The Grand Cadets defeated P. N. A., 46-6, in the Junior League, and the Daro Club won over Hill Top Reserves, 28-19, in the Metropolitan.

The Chesters beat the Troopers, 26-16, and Mrshalls won from the X Club, 16-13, in the Y. M. H. A. Intra-Mural League. The Methodists topped the Presbyterians, 49-35, in the Crafton Church League.

Trinity Cathedral Royals evened their series with the Phantom Five, of Greensburg, by copping, 39-33, in a fast contest.

SCHOOL QUINTS IN TITLE TEST

Tucci and topped the list with eight.

Bentleyville's man-for-man defense was almost totally inadequate. Monessen's fast passing and general speed was too much for the Sixteeners, who were unfortunately lacking in tournament experience. The boys made a good enough showing, however, and deserved the plaudits of the loyal band of townsfolk who accompanied them here for the important combat. The lineup:

Monessen—23	Pos.	Bentleyville—19
Rodebaugh	F	Damich
Tucci	F	Zemiska
Stevenson	G	Moeller
Zelaska	G	Abd
		Beck

Score by periods:

Monessen	4	11	6	2—23
Bentleyville	2	3	6	8—19

Substitutes—Monessen—Lynch, Hughes. Bentleyville—Holub. Field goals—Rodebaugh, Tucci 3, Kotys 3, Zelaska 2, Zemiska 3, Abd 2, Beck. Foals—Rodebaugh, 1 out of 3, Tucci, 1 out of 2, Kotys, 1 out of 2, Stevenson, 1 out of 2, Zeleska, 0 out of 1, Hughes, 1 out of 1, Damich, 2 out of 3, Zemiska, 2 out of 2, Moeller, 1 out of 3, Abd, 1 out of 1, Beck, 1 out of 1. ALTOONA CATHOLIC ENTERS

Altoona Catholic High School, winner of last year's state Catholic high school tournament, sponsored here by Duquesne University, has entered the third annual tourney, which begins Friday in the Bluff gymnasium.

Local entries will be St. Mary's of the Mount High School, Central Catholic and the Duquesne University Preps. The Duke Preps were runners-up in last year's tourney. The Philadelphia representatives will be West Catholic High School, St. Joseph's, of Ashland, Pa., and two teams from the Oil City district.

CHARLEROI GIRLS WIN

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 3.—Charleroi High girls won the first game of the second round competition in the Washington County girls' tournament here last night, defeating the East Pike Run High team, 37-27. Hickory defeated Bentleyville, 29-18.

Foul Refund Bill Out of Committee

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(AP.)—The Senate committee on law and order, meeting at the close of last night's session, reported for passage the McClure bill providing for the refund of admission to patrons of boxing bouts when the principal bout ends in a foul.

The committee held over the Trainer bill legalizing Sunday baseball in communities which would allow it by ordinance pending the joint public hearing on measures affecting the blue laws to be held next Tuesday.

ICE STARS FINED

MONTREAL, Que., March 3.—(AP.)—Fines of $15 each have been imposed on Charley Conacher and Harvey Jackson, of the Toronto Maple Leafs, and Marty Burke, of the Montreal Canadiens, for their battle in the penalty box during last Saturday's National Hockey League game at Toronto. Jackson also is automatically suspended for one game following his third major penalty.

DIXON QUITS CUP TEAM

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—(AP.)—Fitz Eugene Dixon, Philadelphia banker, has declined reappointment as captain of the United States Davis Cup team. He had been non-playing captain for the past two years.

MIAMI MUTUELS

Jim Thorpe At Work as Laborer

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—(AP.)—Jim Thorpe, acclaimed the greatest football player of all time and once holder of the title of world's best all-round athlete, is working here as a laborer with pick and shovel for $4 per day, but he still can grin.

The once mighty Indian of Carlisle, who in 1912 almost single-handed cornered Olympic honors for his native country, only to relinquish his trophies later under charges of professionalism, is not ashamed of his job, although he is a nonentity in a motely crew of diggers excavating for the new Los Angeles County Hospital. He answers to "J. Thorpe" at the paymaster's wicket.

PANTHERS MAY SEW UP BIG FOUR TITLE

Smith	G	(C) McNeil

By JESS CARVER.

The entire Big Four, not the railroad, the college league, meets here in Pittsburgh tonight to all but wind up its basketball campaign. At Carnegie Tech, West Virginia's Mountaineers and the Tartans clash, and in the Pitt Stadium, Wash-Jeff battles with the Panthers in a return combat, which will wind up Pitt's home schedule for the 1930-31 campaign.

By beating W. and J. again this evening, Pitt can sew up the Big Four championship, even though the boys drop the final game to West Virginia in Morgantown next week. Pitt has taken West Virginia and Wash-Jeff once each, and Tech twice, for four victories, which is pretty near enough.

The Tech-Mountaineer game appears to be the choice contest of the two, for the reason that the outcome is far more uncertain. The West Virginiaians have been in-and-outers this season, but have enough class to give any foe a real ball game when they are on.

Tech will start the fracas with the same lineup that went to bat against Pitt last week. Bob Smith still is on the fritz, his bum ankle having responded to treatment slowly, and while he may be able to see some action, Coach Hogan is not counting on him for any extensive duty.

OUTCOME IN DOUBT

Graduate Manager of Athletics Buddy Overend has designated tonight as Fathers and Sons night. Fathers purchasing ducats for the tussle will be permitted to take their sons into the game free of charge. It's a swell idea, just the sort this fella Overend would dope out.

The game is a toss-up. Carnegie is faster than West Virginia, even without Smith, but the Mountaineers have aces of undoubted strength in Sortet, Eddie Bartrug and Capt. Plaster. You may chisel your own ticket.

BAKER, ARTURE THROUGH

Co-captains Eddie Baker and Willie Arture will show themselves as varsity performers for the last time before home fans against W. & J. tonight. Neither is slated to start, Dr. Carlson having once again shifted his lineup, but the pair won't spend the entire night on the bench. Arture suffered an ankle hurt, similar to that sported by Smith, of Tech, in the game last week with the Plaid and little Willie may have to take a good rest. Baker, however, is ready to go, yea, even anxious.

The shift in the Pitt lineup will remove Bus Albright from a starting job at center and insert Bill Brown and place Ben Delello at guard. Doc Kowallis and Tim Lawry will start at forwards and Don Smith will work with Delello.

The freshmen quintets are to clash in preliminary tussles both at the Stadium and at Tech.

Pittsburgh will be well represented in the capacity crowd which will witness the fray, many ticket applications having been received from the Steel City.

Roy D. Schooley, president and manager of the Yellow Jackets, is to arrive here this evening to assist Ccach Charles Reid in directing the visiting team. The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh.	Pos.	Cleveland.
Cox	G	Woods
Fraser	D	Young
Reise	D	McFarlane
Rodden	C	Gray
McCarry	W	Dorety
Greer	W	Clare

Building Up Big Fights

By IKE DORGAN,
The Man Behind Tex Rickard's Fistic Ballyhoos.

CHAPTER XLIV.

Tex Rickard never would have made the first Dempsey and Tunney match had he known that his great ace in the hole was to lose his title. Old Tex might have hustled around and dug up someone else as Dempsey's opponent. You never could get Tex to express an opinion on the outcome of a ring battle. He could remain a stone man when he wanted to be one. But he was positive that Tunney couldn't whip Dempsey.

Gene Tunney

I doubt that Rickard realized how Tunney had concentrated on defeating Dempsey. Gene had taken his time about challenging, and, when he went into the ring, he was muttering to himself his own battle slogan of:

"We've got two pairs of fists. There are two heads to punch and two pairs of legs to carry us in and out of rallies. Mine are as good as Dempsey's. I may not beat him, but he won't beat ME!"

Tex didn't waste much time on location after the New York Boxing Commission ruled Dempsey out of New York by refusing to give him a license to box in the Empire State.

DEMPSEY RULED OUT

Dempsey was in training at Tom Luther's, White Sulphur Springs, when he got word from Rickard that the show was moving out of New York. Tex had ordered a cottage built for Dempsey out in the woods a mile from the hotel at Luther's, and the old sort of secrecy, barbed wire entanglements and such were to be in vogue. Tex had remembered the publicity that attended the cooping up of Georges Carpentier at his Long Island training camp and the same order of things was to have been carried out at the Saratoga camp.

Then came the bombshell. Despite the appeals of writers and business men, the bout was driven out of New York.

Dempsey moved his camp to Atlantic City, where he had trained for the battle with Carpentier.

TUNNEY SELLS SELF

Gene went about his work casually, thoughtfully and with great attention to the smallest details. He caught on. Not so much with the writers who had known him. It was out-of-town writers and the foreign correspondents who seemed to take a shine to Tunney. He had a convincing way of talking, and, when he waxed eloquent about the coming battle for the title, he set down many sound reasons for assuming that he had an even chance with Dempsey.

"After all, we are only human. Every champion has caught up with his day. I'm standing on Dempsey's hocks right now," Tunney would say.

The result was that Tunney built up his own argument until many began to believe him, although, when it came down to the final selection, most of the writers picked Dempsey to win.

Tunney arranged that now famous airplane flight from his mountain camp to Philadelphia for the sole purpose of getting Dempsey's goat. If Gene had arranged that little stunt to rattle Dempsey he had overlooked Rickard. Tex threw 20 fits over the foolhardiness of the plan.

THAT AIRPLANE RIDE

He got Gene on the long-distance telephone when he first heard of it and then later came teaming into Stroudsburg in an effort to make Tunney call off the flight. Tex told him that the slightest accident to the plane might ruin the whole show. It meant Rickard's reputation, he told Gene. Tex might just as well have been talking to the Statue of Liberty.

Tunney was determined to make the flight. It was a ticklish flight, over the roughest kind of mountains, but Tunney told Tex to calm his fears, as his friend and crack flier, Casey Jones, was going to handle the controls and that all would be hunkie dorie.

Under any other circumstance, that prank would have been a corking publicity stunt, but, somehow or other, Tex didn't think Gene was going to be that lucky. It would be bad enough to take a hiding from Dempsey, but to get killed before the licking came was more than Tex could stand.

'PSYCHOLOGY' AFFECTS JACK

Tex was so sure that he could coax Tunney away from the idea that he must fly from his mountain hideout that he ordered the story kept from the newspaper men.

Gene crossed him on that, for he told a few of his cronies about it several days before and they kept faith with Gene by not printing the story until he had taken off and was on his way to the scene of his unexpected triumph.

I'm certain that the boldness of Tunney's flight under the circumstances did a lot to upset Dempsey's faith in himself. It was the old wheeze of the younger and fresher challenger making the champion ask himself:

"Isn't this fellow afraid of me?"

Sullivan's mind was filled with the same sort of questions when he saw the dapper Jim Corbett come into the ring at New Orleans wearing a light summer suit, a straw hat and switching a little bamboo cane.

I doubt that anyone who at-

HONUS WAGNER IS NAMED DIRECTOR

By TOM BIRKS.

The appointment of Honus Wagner as regional director for Western Pennsylvania of the newly-formed United States Amateur Baseball Association has been announced by Leslie Mann, national director of the new body. The acceptance of the position was good news to the association. The organization of the association to foster strictly amateur baseball leagues has been going along for some time, and some really progressive plans have been disclosed by Wagner.

It is the intention of the association to try to induce the Olympic committee to include baseball in its schedule of games next year at Los Angeles, and, if this is done, a team representing America will be entered. With Canada, Japan and the United States entering teams, the introduction of baseball would be worth while.

It is the plan of the body to hold a national elimination championship, probably at Chicago, with all eight regions fighting for the amateur world series, and from these select an all-star team to represent this nation. And there is a chance a Pittsburgh boy will be wearing the spangles of the Stars and Stripes at the Olympic games.

Wagner is getting in touch with Bill Phillips, regional director at Philadelphia, to have the Western Pennsylvania champions play the Eastern Pennsylvania champions in a series of five games, the local team to be sent to Philly for five days at no expense to the team.

New Products Expected To Increase Earnings Of Trico Company.

Considerable comment is heard concerning the prospects for the new Pilot Glass and the vacuum horn, which have been brought out by the Trico Products. The public reception is reported to have been favorable. In addition, Trico is one of several organizations interested in negotiations just completed for equipping 1,000 taxicabs with a mechanical device which will flash before the eyes of passengers a continuous program of illuminated advertising. There has been good buying in the stock at times.

Conservative commission houses have been inclined to advise customers against following any upward movement in the farm implement issues. They point out that conditions in the agricultural regions are likely to curtail the purchase of new machinery and may lead to complications in the collection of receivables in the coming year. In some quarters, it is believed that price reductions on implements may be made in an effort to attract buyers.

A number of the annual reports which have been made public in the past few weeks indicate that a number of companies have been purchasing their own stock in the open market. That may be considered as an indication of the confidence of the management in the long range outlook. One result of that practice has been to cause a reduction in the floating supply of some of the issues, so that the stocks could be more responsive should operations for higher prices be attempted. Considerable comment on such purchases is heard in the financial district.

In line with last week's forecast the leading copper producers have again marked up the price of the metal another ¼ cent a pound. The action had been expected toward the end of last week, but for some reason or other was deferred until yesterday. The latest lift posted by copper exporters raised the price for export metal to a 10.80 cent basis and automatically places the domestic quotation at 10½ cents a pound. Copper fabricators quickly followed the action of the producers. The latest advance is reported to have had its basis in knowledge of the fact that monthly statistics will be available in about 10 days, and will show a fairly substantial drop in surplus stocks of refined and blister metal.

The action of directors of three of the leading copper producing companies, namely Kennecott, Utah and Nevada, all members of the Kennecott group, in voting the regular quarterly dividends would appear to carry the intimation that the board of those companies are a trifle more optimistic. Copper company dividends had been subjected to severe downward revision over the last year or so and thus the evident determination to maintain present rates would seem to denote greater confidence.

The size and terms of the Treasury's projected March 15 financing proved about in line with what Wall street had been looking forward to. The division of the financing, however, as between long-term and short-term seems to raise something of a problem for holders of some $600,000,000 of the maturing 3½ per cent notes who will have to seek new channels of employment for their funds, under the terms of the treasury offering, the new 12-year-3⅜ per cent issue will be alloted to 3½ per cent holders on a preferential basis, but inasmuch as the new issue will amount to only $500,000,000, it will be seen allotments will be small. Banks undoubtedly will take the bulk of the short-term six months' and one-year bills bearing 1½ and 2 per cent respectively.

Bituminous Coal Production Down

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Total production of soft coal during the week ending February 21, is estimated at 7,915,000 net tons, according to the Bureau of Mines, a decrease of 300,000 tons from the preceding week and comparing with 9,515,000 tons in the like 1930 week.

Production of soft coal during the present coal year to February 21 amounts to 399,029,000 tons, as against 474,754,000 in 1930 and 460,239,000 in 1929.

Lake Navigation Opening Earlier

ERIE, Pa., March 3.—Lake Erie is open for navigation between Detroit and Erie, an unusual condition for this time of the year, while reports from Mackinaw indicate that conditions show the thinnest ice in 15 years, indicating early resumption of navigation from the upper lake ports.

Gain in Kelvinator Shipments Reported

DETROIT, March 3.—Kelvinator Corporation shipments for February showed an increase of 11 per cent over unit shipments for February, 1930, which in turn had shown a marked increase over the like month in 1929.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Reynolds Metals Company and subsidiaries 1930 net profit was $1,778,273 after depreciation, interest, federal tax, etc., against $3,560,034 in 1929.

Bucyrus-Erie Company reports for year 1930 net income of $2,439,461 after depreciation and federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $1.63 a share on 560,000 shares of common, against $3,301,960 in 1929, or $3.70 a share on 480,000 common shares, excluding 80,999 shares issued on December 31, 1929, and to $3.17 a share on 560,000 shares outstanding at the end of that year.

Continental-Diamond Fibre Company preliminary report for year ended December 31, 1930, including results of European subsidiaries for the first nine months, showed net income of $438,759, after depreciation and federal taxes, equal to 87 cents a share on 505,000 shares. The pamphlet report for 1929 showed net income of $1,917,887, or $4.26 on 450,00 shares.

Starrett Corporation Holding Company for the various corporations representing the Starrett Brothers building interests, showed for 1930, net income of $1,150,275, equal to $3.02 a share on the common stock. As the corporation has changed its fiscal year to correspond with the calendar year, no comparative figures are available.

John R. Thompson Company, restaurateurs, reported for the year ended last December 31 net income of $1,126,585, equal to $3.75 a share on capital stock, as compared with $1,584,836, or $5.28 a share in 1929.

Bendix Aviation Corporation reported preliminary net profit of $1,183,859, after all charges and taxes, for 1930, equal to 56 cents a share, as compared with $2,416,408, or $3.53 a share in 1929. The directors voted the quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable April 1 to stock of record March 10.

Amalgamated Leather Companies, Inc., closed 1930 with a net loss of $1,111,382, which compares with a profit of $91,651, in the previous year.

Standard Power and Light Corporation, in a preliminary report for 1930, reports net earnings of $7,078,623, equal to $4.02 a share of common. Formerly a subsidiary of Standard Gas and Electric, Standard Power and Light was reorganized January 7, 1930, as a holding company for the Standard system.

City Ice and Fuel Company 1930 net income totaled $6,611,905, an increase of $555,232, or 9.1 per cent over the net for the previous year.

Holland Furnace Company reports for year 1930 net profits, after all charges including federal tax, of $1,655,029.49, equal, after preferred dividends, to $3.60 a share on 432,134 common shares outstanding. This compares with $2,202,378.48 earned in the record year of 1929, equal to $4.85 a common share, and $1,245,189.50 or $2.65 a share in 1928. Net sales for 1930 were $17,327,655.94 as compared with $18,671,828.38 in 1929.

American Stores Company reports for 1930 net income of $5,930,149, equal to $4.01 a share on the common stock, compared with $6,594,822, or $4.25 a share, in 1929.

Signal Oil and Gas Company 1930 net profit was $689,716 after charges, depreciation, depletion, federal taxes, etc., equal to $3.40 a share on 226,940 shares of combined Class A and B stocks, against $1,280,829 profit in 1929, or $5.75 on 222,490 combined shares outstanding at the end of the year.

Associated Gas and Electric System report for year 1930 shows preliminary net income of $17,501,068, after taxes, preferred dividends to subsidiary and affiliated companies, interest and depreciation, against preliminary net income of $16,645,984 in 1929.

Johns-Manville Corporation net earnings for 1930 were equal to $3.66 a common share, against $8.09 a share in 1929.

Daily Average Oil Production Drops

TULSA, Okla., March 3.—Oklahoma led the way for a drop of 55,673 barrels in the country's daily average crude oil production last week, says the Oil and Gas Journal in estimating the production at 2,103,111 barrels.

Oklahoma production fell off sharply, totaling 444,950 barrels, or 57,085 barrels under the preceding week's average. The Journal points, however, that the decrease is largely on paper as release of oil from storage has maintained about the same supply for market.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Market Trend Lower

STOCKS DROP IN LIGHT TRADING

Traders Cautious as Sharp Decline Halts Enthusiasm Over Advance

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—The stock market was a pale and unimpressive affair today.

Speculative enthusiasm appeared to have been squelched by the sharp decline of the previous session, but bears as well as bulls were cautious. Price trends were on the main lower, but changes were narrow and principal shares held fairly steady.

Utilities, amusements, chemicals and several industrial specialties were under considerable pressure.

North American, United Carbon, Columbian Carbon, Purity Baking, Western Union, Case, Johns-Manville, Remington Rand and Montgomery Ward were among issues losing 2 to 3 points. Losses of a point or so were numerous, embracing such issues as U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Telephone, Radio Corporation, Warner Bros., Paramount, Baltimore and Ohio, American Water Works and National Power and Light.

Dividend omissions by Remington Rand and United Carbon were responsible for selling of those issues, while Johns-Manville's report showing 1930 net of only $3.66 a share against $8.09 in 1929, brought some selling into that issue. Montgomery Ward's decline followed yesterday's report of Sears-Roebuck's sales for the second period of its 13-month Calendar, showing about the same decline from last year as was reported for the first period.

Credit conditions were still a little firmer, with the month-end settlements taking up the slack in the call loan market. There were no funds offered in the outside market under the loan desk rate of 1½ per cent.

NEW GRAIN PIT OPEN IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—A new grain market, to deal exclusively in Canadian wheat, was born today in the New York Produce Exchange.

Formal ceremonies at which H. L. Bodman, president of the Exchange, officiated, and representatives of other commodity exchanges attended, ushered in the new grain market at noon.

The honor of making the first sale went to Carl Andrus, who sold 50,000 bushels of May wheat for 61½ cents a bushel to a fellow member, I. Ibester.

Trading will be confined for the time being to contracts for future delivery at Buffalo of Canadian wheat in bond. All settlements will be made through the New York Grain Clearing Corporation.

One Community Has Rebuffed Rule of Jazz

By B. C. FORBES

COLUMBUS, O., March 3.

VISITING THIS city for the first time one gets the impression of spaciousness. Then one learns the reason. On the eve of the War of 1812, the Ohio Legislature, after thorough investigation, decided to establish the state capital near the geographical center of the state. A forested site was selected at the confluence of the Olentangy and Scioto Rivers, two squares were reserved for the state, one for the Capitol Building, the other for a penitentiary.

Mr. Forbes

THE 1930 census gave Columbus 290,564 inhabitants. Its metropolitan Columbus has 338,000 population.

A MAJESTIC civic center is rising. It already embraces a palatial new municipal building, police and fire department headquarters, the foundations of a new state office building, and evidence of preparations for other great structures.

Here too is the pride of Columbians, the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, a magnificent, mighty structure rising to a height exceeding the Washington Monument. Other notable buildings are the State Capitol, the State Judiciary Building, Postoffice-Federal Building, Chamber of Commerce. Various other important state institutions are also located here.

Although old, Columbus is up-to-date, up-to-the-minute. Port Columbus, municipally-owned flying field, is one of the finest airports in the world. It boasts the first air-rail passenger station in the United States. It is eastern headquarters of the Trans-Continental Air Transport-Maddux Lines, operating between New York and Los Angeles, carrying passenger, mail and express.

The city's transportation facilities include five trunk lines, two electric lines, 23 motor bus and passenger lines, 20 motor freight lines, three airmail and passenger airplane lines.

THE CITY'S strategic location has attracted 600 manufacturing establishments. Iron and steel manufacture represent 30 per cent of the total value of local products—chiefly foundry and machine shop products including mining machinery, road building machinery, oil derricks, and roller bearings. Food products galore are manufactured here. Next in importance come the shoe industry, printing and publishing, lumber and mill work.

There are 10 national and state banks and no fewer than 27 building and loan associations, indicating a thrifty people.

THE OHIO State University draws 15,000 students, a total exceeded by only three other state universities. Columbus is old enough to have developed culture—and it has. The state Department of Education is also here. Other educational institutions include two denominational colleges and 18 high schools.

The local women's music club is said to be the largest of its kind in the country. It enrolls for its concerts best-known artists of the world. A new gallery of fine arts and the museum at the state university bear further testimony of the community's keen interest in the finer things of life. Indeed, Columbus rightly claims a place of leadership among the art and culture centers of the Middle West.

THANKS TO its ideal geographical location and high attractiveness, Columbus is becoming a famous convention city. Last year more than 300 conventions were held. "You can get from almost anywhere to Columbus overnight," you are told. And if you look at the map, you will see that there is much truth in that claim.

THE VISITOR comes away with the feeling that here is a substantial, comfortable, uncrowded, homey city where life is lived rationally and where jazz has not annihilated the higher and more desirable phases of family and community life.

WAYNESBURG W. VA. TROUNCES DUKES

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 3.—The basketball season in Waynesburg reached an exciting climax last night when Waynesburg College gave dopesters another shock by defeating Duquesne University, 59 to 33, in an exciting contest.

Spurred on by the sensational sharpshooting at critical stages of Widdy Mancuso and Irish O'Connell, the Yellow Jackets turned in their best exhibition of the year in defeating the Doughty Dukes from Pittsburgh. The entire Waynesburg team was hot, and only three of their total of 39 points were scored by the foul route.

Waynesburg came from behind to win. Duquesne had scored nine points and Waynesburg none when Coach Wolf injected Currie into the fray, after which the Jackets took on new life, and later cut down the lead to one point. At half time Duquesne led, 21 to 17.

Two consecutive field goals by O'Connell, followed by a distance shot by Mancuso, knotted the count at 21-all early in the second stanza. The team in the lead again by a long field goal.

In addition to the work of Mancuso and O'Connell, that of Patsch and Janosik also stood out. Capt. Brud Stephens led his mates in scoring, counting 17 of his team's points. In an early season game, Duquesne defeated Waynesburg at Pittsburgh. The lineup:

Waynesburg—39		Duquesne—33
Avey	F	Bender
O'Connell	F	Avey
Janosik	C	Mayer
Mancuso	G	Stephens
Patsch	G	Barry

Score by periods:

weather room in any one training season in the last six years.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—(AP.)—John P. Quinn, who for 46 something years of his baseball existence has been identified with the Brooklyn Nationals, with the exception of a few months when he was a pitching ace with Baltimore, who thought one of Quinn's greatest stunts was to pitch a game and then disappear, never to be seen about it.

"Oh, I was hearing them around for a few days at Hot Springs," Quinn answered. "The reads now to go five innings. Just call on me any time."

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, Manager Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics, found his roster complete with the exception of Earnshaw and Grove when he arrived here today for his first spring workout at baseball practice.

"From now on," he said, "we will devote all our time to playing the game. The race this year will be no walkaway for any team."

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP.)—Manager Bill Killefer of the St. Louis Cubs was hopeful today for a break in the weather man's frown on baseball practice, when the rain broke through in good style. It has rained every day since the Browns reached camp.

Judge Gilmore, baseball's understudy, Ed Rice, at the Cubs' camp this season, has developed a sore arm, but Trainer Tommy Brannell believes it will be O. K. soon.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP.)—There's another Babe Ruth in training here with the Cincinnati Reds, but there are some who wonder whether he will live up to advance notices during the regular playing season. Manager Dan Howley is speaking of outfielder Nick Cullop, acquired from Minneapolis in the American Association, said:

"He packs as heavy a wallop as Babe Ruth. If he can acquire confidence in himself, he is going to be a big boy for us."

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP.)—Whoever wins the left-handing job for the Cleveland Indians this year is going to beat out some stiff competition, Manager Roger Peckinpaugh has two worthy veterans, Bob Fothergill and Charley Jamieson, and two highly-raised youngsters, Bob Seeds and Joe Vosmik, for the post. Peck hopes one of the youngsters comes through, because Fothergill and Jamieson have to be rested occasionally.

Locals to Conclude Hazleton Deal

HAZLETON, Pa., March 3.—(AP.)—The Hazleton Mountaineers, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, have announced the signing of Jack Ernst, former Lafayette football and baseball star, to play in the outfield the coming season. The Mountaineers, through a clerical error, have lost the right to Ray Flood, slugging outfielder, whose name was inadvertently left off the roster of reserve players when the list was turned in after last season.

The Pittsburgh syndicate, new owners of the team, is busy assembling a ball team and Manager Hubert Fitzgerald is expected to learn Hazleton today or tomorrow to close up the final details of the deal.

BUILDING UP BIG FIGHTS

tended that battle in Philadelphia ever will forget it. Rain clouds, those big black babies, loaded to the gills with what makes a tropical downpour, hung right over the ring. The crowd didn't seem to care, although there was many a feminine eye above, because the gals had on their Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes.

DEMPSEY REASSURES TEX

Tex came into Dempsey's dressing room and remarked about the possibility of rain coming down to wash out the show.

"Never mind about the customers," said Dempsey. "This thing won't last long enough to catch up with the rain. I'll belt this guy out with two or three punches. It won't go over one round and we can all be out of here before a rain drop shows up."

Tex left the room grinning, and I'm certain he believed that Dempsey was going to do exactly as he said he would do.

What a shock was coming to him and the whole boxing world.

Clark to Speak At Harvard Dinner

Henry W. (Eskie) Clark, assistant director of athletics at Harvard, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Harvard Club of Western Pennsylvania at the Yale-Harvard-Princeton Club, downtown, tonight.

Clark will supervise the movies showing the Yale-Havard game of last fall. Clark is a former center star at Harvard, and is credited with having developed Ben Ticknor, Harvard all-America pivot man of the last two years.

E. A. Whitney, assistant professor of history, also will speak.

BOYLE, ASTO COP

MEADVILLE, Pa., March 3.—(AP.)—Harry Boyle, 172, Meadville, outpointed Johnny Gracinetti, 175, Uniontown, in three rounds in the main bout on an amateur program here last night. In the semi-final, Tod Asto, 130, Uniontown, won over Sergt. Jimmy Riddell, Ridgway, in three rounds.

ORANGE TRIPS IRISH

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 3.—(AP.)—Notre Dame and Syracuse battled to a 20-20 tie in the regulation time of the basketball game here last night, but the Orange spurted out in front in the five-minute overtime period to gain a 28-23 victory over the Indiana invaders.

Steady Loser Finally Sells Stable

CHICAGO, March 3.—(AP.)—Stanley Kunz, of Chicago, former congressman, whose race horses became famous on Chicago tracks and elsewhere because they usually finished last, today is without his stable after 40 years of connection with the turf.

Kunz disposed of his 42 thoroughbreds because he no longer could withstand the financial burden. The stables was sold to the estate of the late Charles Dean, of Palatine, Ill., harness racing ace, and will be operated by his sons, Charles, Ben and Jerry.

The horses were famous for their habits of finishing last and farther back than entrants from any other stable. However, on rare occasions when they came in, their mutuel ticket prices resembled numbers on a box car.

A.-K. VALLEY TOURNEY OPENS

NEW KENSINGTON, March 3.—Franklin, Parnassus, Oakmont and Tarentum high schools entered the second round of the Allegheny-Kiski Valley basketball tournament here last night in the initial session of the annual event.

Franklin came back strong in the last half to pass a stubborn Springdale five and win, 35-18. Falls Creek bowed to Parnassus, 32-19.

Muir's two-pointer in the final seconds of play brought Oakmont from behind to beat Verona, 24-23.

Tarentum staged a field night to easily conquer Leechburg, 30 to 12.

The first round will be concluded tonight, with the following games carded: Freeport vs. Rimersburg; Arnold vs. Blairsville; Har-Brack vs. Aspinwall, and Apollo vs. Kittanning.

Fight Results

Jack Gross Wins Over Roberto Roberti

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—(AP.)—Jack Gross, Salem, N. J., heavyweight, pounded out a 10-round victory over Roberto Roberti, of Italy, in the windup at the Arena last night. Gross weighed 200, Roberti 227½.

Harris is Victor Over Nick Popicg

WHEELING, W. Va., March 3.—(AP.)—Harry Harris, 166, Bellaire, O., decisively outpointed Nick Popicg, 169, Wheeling, in 10 rounds here last night, flooring Popicg in the first and eighth rounds. In the eighth, Popicg claimed he was fouled, and was sustained by the referee, but, at the crowd's behest, requested to continue and to have the foul disregarded.

Young Lorrimer Begins to Show Improvement

CHAPTER XVI.

The three of them lunched together that day, and while there were sometimes silences, heavy with unspoken questions, Mrs. Lorrimer and Mary Lou managed to keep the conversational ball rolling most of the time.

"Haven't you a perfectly terrible appetite—Lorry?" said Mary Lou to Lorrimer. Mrs. Lorrimer looked from one to the other and observed with astonishment Mary Lou's easy use of the little nickname, unfamiliar to Lorrimer's mother, and his instant, markedly glad, acceptance of it. "I have," she went on, "I'm perfectly ashamed of it, but I can't help it!" and she proceeded to prove her words.

After luncheon Mary Lou insisted upon "walking off" the results of her appetite, and Lorrimer went with her, Konig, who had by now adopted her for his own, at their heels. When they came in, an hour later, Mary Lou looked at her companion gravely.

"You look sleepy!" she accused him.

Mother Pleased

"I am." He stifled a yawn and then smiled. "Not very chivalrous, is it?"

"How well do you sleep, anyway?" she demanded briskly.

"You've changed," he answered irrelevantly. "You never used to worry about people."

"I'm older," she replied serenely. "Besides I didn't say I was worried. You go upstairs and take a nap—"

"Governess!" he accused her, amazingly light-hearted.

"Not at all. I want to get rid of you. Your mother's sending the car to the station—see, there it goes! That means frocks and frills. I'll see you at tea time," said Mary Lou and steered him into the house, protesting every step of the way.

But she managed, and presently Lorrimer cast himself down on the couch in his sitting room and tried to keep his eyes open. But he couldn't. He'd had more fresh air than usual and more exercise, and he was moreover, tired out with the weight of his conflicting emotions, with the succeeding shocks and astonishments of the past day and with the questions which still remained unanswered. One thing was clear enough. The girl he knew had changed, but adorably so.

He sighed impatiently, and relaxed among the cushions of the couch. Delight? His eyes closed and he slept instantly and dreamlessly.

"He's upstairs." Mary Lou told Mrs. Lorrimer, finding her in her own room. "He was half asleep. He hasn't been getting much sleep, I imagine, and no wonder. I think he'll sleep now, until, perhaps, tea time."

"You," commented Margaret Lorrimer, "are marvelous!"

"Well, not very. He was fairly staggering when we came back to the house. I walked him pretty briskly, you know. We left Konig wailing and gnashing his teeth at the kennel and came on back to the house. I said I had to try on things and wanted to get rid of him—Mr. . . . Lorry, I mean, not Konig," she explained hastily.

"Why Lorry?" asked Margaret Lorrimer.

"That's what she, Delight, called him. He asked me why I didn't."

"I see—you've worked wonders already," Mrs. Lorrimer told her again.

Gets New Clothing

"Not really. It's the novelty of the situation," explained Mary Lou earnestly, "that makes him so easy to handle. And he is making it easy for me, in more ways than one. If only . . . if only," she said, "we can keep it up, and get him more and more back to normal! I would have accepted his offer to teach me to ride even if I hated the thought, which I didn't."

Presently a saleswoman and an assistant arrived from New York and Mary Lou's room took on the semblance of a shop, gone mad. There was plenty to choose from and Mrs. Lorrimer selected, eventually, three plain, charming daytime dresses, suitable for early winter wear in the country, a suit for town, and all the accessories of lingerie, shoes and gloves. She selected also several afternoon and dinner dresses and evening frocks, admirably suited to Mary Lou's type, delightful in cut and coloring.

"But," cried Mary Lou, pirouetting in the prettiest evening frock of all, a tight, scant, high-waisted bodice of clear pale green and a skirt formed of many petals of tulle, with the long lines of the mode, entirely charming and becoming, "but these are far too many!"

"I don't think so," Mrs. Lorrimer replied critically, "but they will do for now, at any event. I'm anxious to go to town but that can wait." She smiled at Mary Lou and Mary Lou smiled back, understanding. "But you'll have plenty of use for them. We'll get some young people over, a little later. Jenny and her 'gang,' perhaps. Travers hasn't been anxious for company, you know; has avoided it. But with you here he'll soon see that he can't coop you up alone for long. It wouldn't be fair to you, and it will be good for him to see people," she added, lower.

Mary Lou nodded again. She could see Mrs. Lorrimer's point. With herself as an excuse Mrs. Lorrimer would try to win back her son to the give-and-take of young, happy society again. It would be the best thing that could ever happen to him.

Travers Admires Her

After the bizarre but delectable pyjamas had been selected and the clever little negligee coats that went with them, Mrs. Lorrimer sent a tea try to the saleswoman and her assistant, up in Mary Lou's sitting room, and ordered the car for the late afternoon train. Then she and Mary Lou went down to the library. Mary Lou wearing one of the new frocks, the sheer matching stockings and the completely satisfactory shoes.

"Ask Mr. Travers if he will join us," Mrs. Lorrimer told Peter, when tea was served in the great book-lined room which contrived to be bookly without gloom and comfortable and gay without distraction.

He would and did. Refreshed from sleep, amazed, a little ashamed of himself, and suddenly quite hungry, he arrived in the library and was offered tea and toast and ordered to admire Mary Lou's gown.

"She's so easy to fit," said his mother, "that it was like dressing a doll!"

Lorrimer admired, sedate enough in words, but his eyes spoke volumes. And Margaret Lorrimer suddenly felt a catch at her heart. If—if he fell in love with Mary Lou, transferred his affections? But, of course, he would not realize the transference. Still—he'd have to know some day. And then? And if Mary Lou—in her turn . . .?

Travers' mother felt that it was a consummation devoutly to be hoped for. She had never met a girl she liked as well, trusted as deeply and found as companionable as Mary Lou Thurston. But, the real Delight? Where was she? And did she exist? And was she living somewhere, the wife perhaps of the man who sat there, watching Mary Lou's least gesture with an enchanted eagerness?

Speak of Romance

Shortly before Christmas, Dr. Mathews, dropping in at tea hour, watched from the windows of the library the slight flurry of snow which came suddenly from an apparently cloudless sky, and departed again, leaving the horizon clear, cold, blue; watched, too, Mary Lou and Lorrimer ride up the driveway, watched them from sight, heard them dismount at the main entrance, listened to the faint echo of voices and laughter and the clatter of hooves on the frosty drive, and turned to Mrs. Lorrimer, who was watching him.

"He's better, isn't he?" he asked.

"Astonishingly so. They ride every day. She's managed to get him up early and to bed early, by, merely, example. He's going to teach her to play squash. Yes, he's much better. Sleeps well and his appetite has improved enormously. He still has those—well, spells of brooding. He's quiet then, abstracted, living over things. She pulls him out somehow. They read together, French, English, and a little German. Neither of them is an accomplished German student. I think she started that to try and get him to a more rational memory of—war, prison, all the rest. She told him that if he could read of the new Germany in the original language she thought it would help; for she felt he'd gotten to thinking too much about what he had suffered; and did not realize that there were men on the other side who had suffered as greatly. So she got grammars and dictionaries and they have started. It's been interesting to watch them. And she's reconciled him to Jenny and her crowd. They come over now and then."

"What have you told Jenny?" asked the doctor.

"Just that Delight is a girl Travers knew during the war and that I've asked her to live with us, as my companion, as she is now alone in the world."

"She believes you?"

"Yes. Suspects a romance, but says nothing about it. Jenny is hard boiled—or so she thinks—but she is discreet."

"And if," Mathews asked slowly, "if Jenny should be right, and out of this experiment of ours romance should come—what then?"

"Oh," Margaret made a little helpless gesture, "I don't know! I—I'd wish it, of course. For my own sake as well as for Travers'. But—until we know for certain . . . ?"

DAILY TRUE STORY — Woman in Blue

She had always been fond of lilacs. They seemed, somehow, a part of herself. The same richness and depth of color lurked in her eyes. The same grace in her slim body. The same exotic, heady perfume.

Lilacs . . . and Nancy Barron. Lilacs . . . and Ted. He had always associated her with lilacs.

Ever since that day, not so many years ago, when they had met at a college football game, and she had worn a tiny spray of lilac as a corsage.

Standing on the downtown street corner waiting for a taxi, Nancy stared across the street at the display in a florist's store . . . a mass of lilac-hued flowers banked high in his window. And smiled, because they reminded her of Ted, as he said they always reminded him of her.

A stream of cars, released by switching lights that had snapped from red to green, obscured the vision for an instant. Through the traffic she glimpsed a man and woman leaving the store.

The woman, dressed in blue suit and blue hat—she could see that much—seemed young. She had been looking up into the man's face and laughing gayly. The man . . . . there could be no mistaking the breadth of his shoulders, his swinging gait, or the assured tilt of his head.

"Oh, it can't be true!" Nancy thought. "Ted, of all persons! No, I won't believe it! I can't!"

Those sort of things might happen to other people, but not to her and Ted. It seemed impossible of belief, she thought distressfully. And yet, there was no disputing the evidence of her own eyes.

The taxi drew up at the curb. She remembered, then, having called it. She was on the point of giving the driver her home address.

"No," she thought, dismissing that first impulse with a shrug. "I'll go to the bridge party anyway. If he's having a good time, there's no reason why I can't enjoy myself, too!"

It was not easy though. Half the time she could not be sure whether they were playing auction or contract, which led to increasing difficulties as she sought, mechanically, to play her hands. The spots on the cards danced mockingly before her eyes. Each face card resolved itself into a picture of Ted or the woman in blue.

Shrewd Player

"One spade," she bid. "I bet he bought her lilacs, too!" was her inward thought. "Pass . . . the wretch!"

Somehow she stuck it out until play stopped, totally unaware of frigid glances cast her way when she had made careless mistakes. Nancy Barron enjoyed a reputation for being a shrewd card player. A reputation that was not enhanced by her disregard of conventions and rules that afternoon.

Her present lapses were accompanied by surreptitious lifts of eyebrows, sage noddings of heads, all of which were unobserved by Nancy.

Even if she had noticed, she would have paid small heed, engrossed by the tumult of her own thoughts. Striving to appear calm, she settled up her losses, grimly aware that it was hardly possible that she could have won in her present state of mind.

Outside she called another taxi.

"Extravagant . . . yes!" she thought stubbornly. "But if he can afford lilacs for another woman, I guess he can afford taxi fares for his wife!"

All the way home the memory of Ted's defection stood out in a jumble of thoughts. After all, everything else was subservient to that one fact.

Should she take him to task for it the minute he entered the door that evening? Of course he'd try to kiss her just as he always did. Just as though nothing had happened!

Or should she pretend that she knew nothing about it and await further developments? It would be difficult, she knew, to try to appear unconcerned.

Arrives Home

She fumbled inserting the key in the lock, repressing a quiet sob. They'd been so happy, she and Ted, in this home! And now . . . she did not know yet what the outcome would be, save only that she could not go on living with him.

The door yielded at last to her trembling fingers and she stepped inside.

"Humph! Looks like a peace offering," she murmured. "Just like a man!"

In the same instant she was aware of voices. Voices that emanated from the living room . . . Ted's and a woman's.

Then she heard swift feet crossing the living room, and he was in the hallway before she could reach any decision.

"Got home early, Nancy," he greeted her cheerfully, bending over to kiss one of her cheeks. Despite her resolve she did not shrink away from him, though her cheek flushed a deep red at his touch and her slim body tensed.

"Brought home some company for supper. I tried to reach you on the 'phone, but couldn't get any answer. Want you to meet my sister Molly. Surprised me by coming into town at noon. The one that was up in Canada, you know."

Nancy Thankful

It all came tumbling out in one breath. They had scarcely reached the entrance to the living room when he had finished.

Nancy's eyes met the eyes of the woman crossing the room to meet her. Instinctively her fingers tightened their grip on Ted's arm as she stared at the blue dress of the woman, and on the davenport beyond, a blue hat.

"Awfully glad to see you, my dear!" she heard herself saying. "I've often wished I could meet you."

And then, choking back a sob of thankfulness, she ran into the dining room to rearrange the vase of fresh lilacs that stood upon the table.

Smart in Large Sizes
Pattern 2113
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

May be obtained only in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 38 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

And thinking of the time I've dutifully
Spent seeking words that would rhyme beautifully,
When I might have gone in for torturin
Them till they brought me tame and forturin.

Note on What Is Not Very Important

(Quite an unusual occurrence, by the way.)

Our moral codes are often changed,
Reorganized and rearranged;
Thus progress gives to every vice
A chance to be considered nice,
Eliminates a few disgraces
And shows that we are getting places
Not obviously different
From those away from which we went.
But though in moral codes we see
Some touches of variety,
Our morals seem to go forever
About the same, as if they'd never Realized the possibilities
Of acting in a way to please
A quorum of the weary gents
Located in the audience.

—Baron Bell.

Navy Pledge Must Be Kept

Republicans Betrayed Faith, Must Act in New Congress Or Yield to Leadership That Will.

In the light of the facts it is hard to see how the leaders of the REPUBLICAN PARTY, at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue, can dodge the responsibility or escape the blame for the scuttling of the American Navy by the REPUBLICAN CONGRESS which expires on March 4.

By its national platform of 1928, the Republican party pledged its President and Congress, in the following words, to building up the Navy to treaty strength.

"WE PLEDGE OURSELVES TO ROUND OUT AND MAINTAIN THE NAVY IN ALL TYPES OF COMBATANT SHIPS TO THE FULL RATIO PROVIDED FOR THE UNITED STATES BY THE WASHINGTON TREATY FOR THE LIMITATION OF NAVAL ARMAMENT, AND ANY AMENDMENT THERETO."

In 1930 the Republican President and the Republican Senate elected upon this platform amended the Washington Treaty by the ratification of the London Treaty with the aid of Democratic votes.

These Democratic votes were obtained partly on the solemn assurance that the Republican President and the Republican Congress would proceed forthwith "to round out and maintain the Navy in all types of combatant ships to the full ratio provided for the United States" by the London Treaty.

This was the solemn pledge of the Republican President and the Republican Congress now in power.

This pledge has been reduced at the present session to "a scrap of paper" by the refusal of the Republican leaders at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue to make their party's performance square with their party's pledge.

When the present session of Congress began, the Navy Department recommended the authorization of a modest building program to begin the upbuilding of the Navy to treaty strength.

The Navy Department also recommended an increase of 25 per cent in the present number of appointments to Annapolis with a view to beginning the training of the additional officers required by a navy of treaty strength.

Instead of authorizing even the modest and inadequate building program for which the Navy Department appealed, the Republican leaders in both houses of Congress have deliberately refused to permit this program to come to a vote in either house.

Instead of providing for an increase of 25 per cent in the number of appointments to Annapolis, the Republican leaders in both houses of Congress, after a conference with the Republican President, have provided in the regular Naval Appropriation Bill for next year for a 25 per cent reduction in appointments to Annapolis.

It is futile for the Republican press and the Republican press agents to pretend that they have thus scuttled the Navy in order to prevent an extra session of Congress.

There were plenty of votes in both houses of the present Congress, as the leaders of the Republican party well know, to pass the building program and maintain, if not increase, the present number of midshipmen.

It was the REPUBLICAN LEADERS who defeated this legislation by preventing it from coming to a vote.

As a result the American Navy will remain more than 13 per cent below the tonnage allowed the United States by the London Treaty, while the British navy is less than 2 per cent and the Japanese navy less than 1 per cent below treaty strength.

Not only have the leaders of the Republican party at the present session broken their platform pledge to build up the Navy, but they have also turned a deaf ear to the outstanding lesson of the fleet maneuvers just held at Panama.

That lesson emphasizes the imperative need of immediately increasing the aerial and submarine strength of the fleet as provided for in the building program which the present Congress has junked.

By the time the new Congress convenes next December, the American people should be in full possession of all the facts about the scuttling which the Navy has suffered at the present session.

In the light of those facts, public sentiment will demand that the new Congress either build up the Navy to treaty strength forthwith or MAKE WAY FOR A NEW LEADERSHIP AT BOTH ENDS OF PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE THAT WILL.

A party that stoops to false pretenses to ratify a treaty and makes its platform pledge "a scrap of paper," and refuses to provide for "the common defense" betrays the American people, and is not fit again to secure the confidence of the people.

Council Snubs the Ladies

There Was No Good Reason Why the Inquiry Asked Should Not Have Been Ordered at Once.

With fresh evidence uncovered daily of irregularities in the purchase of articles for the city by Bertram L. Succop during his regime as director of supplies, Council continues to defy the citizens who demand that an open investigation shall be made of the mess.

The treatment accorded the delegation from the League of Women Voters who called yesterday to request an inquiry was little short of discourteous.

There was no good reason why the investigation requested should not have been ordered at once. The motion of Councilman Anderson calling for the inquiry should have been passed promptly and unanimously. In refusing to act Council did not make things easier for itself or for Mayor Kline.

The policy of paltering simply adds fuel to the flames of public indignation, and makes the taxpayers more determined than ever to get to the bottom of the scandalous business.

More Abuse of Authority

Magistrate's Petty Fines for Bootleggers May be Considered as License Tax.

Ten alleged bootleggers of the Hill District were fined $100 each by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Center Avenue Police Court yesterday.

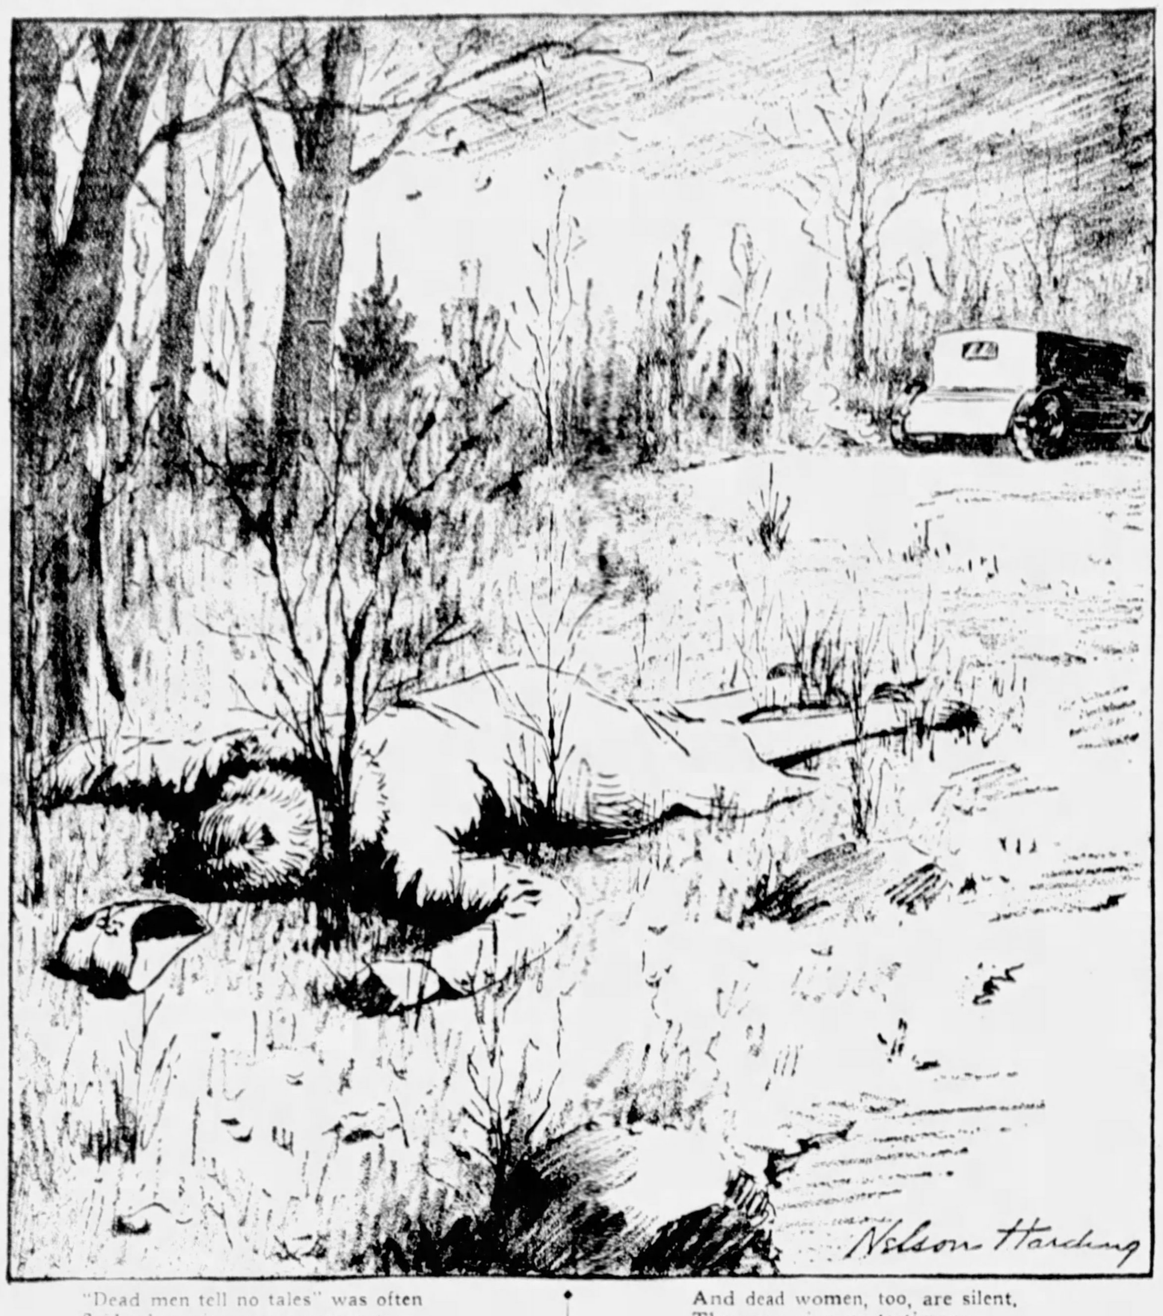
In cases where prima facie evidence of violation of the liquor law is given petty magistrates are required to hold defendants for the grand jury. They have no discretion in the matter—it is mandatory.

In the cases before Rothenberg the police said quantities of moonshine whisky were confiscated in the defendants' establishments. Yet Rothenberg calmly proceeded to usurp power, to assume jurisdiction, and to dismiss the accused with light fines.

It is no wonder, with this system in vogue, that bootleggers and other racketeers continue in business. They probably think of the magistrates' fines as a license tax.

The Silent Witness

By Nelson Harding



"Dead men tell no tales" was often
Said when piracy was rampant.
Said beneath the skull and crossbones
In the days of buccaneering.

They can give no testimony
When removed by modern pirates
In the same cold blooded manner.

THINK IT OVER

Drawn by Hal Coffman.

In picture form, it is repeated here.

Just as an insect thinks that every drop of water is a cloudburst, so do men fear drowning beneath a cataract of troubles most of which exist only in their own minds.

To worry is human. But think back over your life, try to recall the calamities you imagined might happen to you, and then see how many did NOT happen.

Unless you have been peculiarly unlucky, only a few of those anticipated disasters ever took place.

You can make a drop of water look like Niagara, if you look at it as an insect looks at it. But why be an insect? Your brain was given you to see things as they are, not to magnify your troubles until they overwhelm you.

THE STATISTICAL SCIENCE

By Archibald Henderson

One of the most interesting features of the development of modern mathematics is the application of statistical measurement to a vast number of practical problems. Statistical theories are three in number and are described as follows by Prof. Weaver of Wisconsin. First, there is the theory of sampling which studies the extent and reliability of the conclusions about the original source which one can draw from the sample. Then there is correlation theory which studies the nature and degrees of interrelationship between measurements or two or more attributes. And finally there is dispersion theory, really a part of the theory of sampling, and this dispersion theory treats of the interferences one can draw from sets of samples concerning the homogeneity of the sources from which these samples are drawn.

Laplace, the great master of the theory of probability, which is the basis of statistical science, takes very broad ground. In his classic treatise on probability he observes: "Strictly speaking one may be able to know with certainty, even in the mathematical sciences themselves, induction and analogy, the principal means for discovering truth, are based on probabilities, so that the entire system of human knowledge is connected with this theory."

It is one of the most singular things about time that it proceeds ever relentlessly onward. The arrow of time points in a certain direction. The command is: Forward! Time is not reversible. "Turn backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight," is a futile prayer. Statistical phenomena, according to Sir Arthur S. Eddington, possess this unidirectional character. Let us take a pack of a very large number of cards, say four billion, of four suits—the suits being numbered respectively from one to a billion, and having the colors red, blue, green and violet.

Consider the original arrangement of the cards, and then let us shuffle the gigantic pack. Shuffling continues to disarrange the pack from the original arrangement; and it is exceedingly unlikely that any subsequent shuffling will reinstate the original arrangement. Now we know that the shuffling of a statistical layout on set of elements goes only forward; never turns to the original arrangement. Probably, then, civilization is like this. Primitive civilization is elementary, simple; the elements have not been shuffled; on being shuffled, quickly brings us back to the beginning again. But in a complex state of society like our own of the twentieth century, there are an uncountable number of elements and these have been shuffled again and again. If we could have two images of the world, one complex, say, and another more complex, then we might be sure that the second picture was taken later. The universe is older because it has been shuffled more!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Each man has a God.

And each man's God is as big as that man's own vision and desire.

A black pigmy in the African jungle makes a bundle of straw and sticks, and calls it God. It is a small bundle and it is a small God. But it fits the pigmy's vision and desire. He does not see God or life in the large. He comprehends nothing of its beauty and wonder and tremendous power. Life, to him, is a good tree to climb, a safe cove to hide in, a dangerous swamp to ford. Sunsets are wasted on him. And if his stomach is full, he should worry about his soul! Food, a warm bed, safety, enemies and wild beasts—that is all. His bundle of sticks and straw is a very accurate measure of his spiritual need. He wouldn't know what to do with a more subtle or magnificent God.

But the God of a great poet or prophet looms taller than the stars—

Each man's God is as big as that man's own vision and need.

What do you really want out of life? What are you honestly interested in? There's the size of your God.

MOST OF US CAN FIND ALL THE GOD WE WANT IN ANY GOOD DEPARTMENT STORE.

But, just catch us admitting fact! With our last gasp we will protest that we require all the God there is, and then some!

There is, of course, a God beyond our petty imagining—the Source of all life—the Alpha and Omega—

But He isn't YOUR GOD, nor MINE—

Only as much of Him as we can understand and earn is your God and mine. And comprehending is a hard job—

YOU DON'T GET GOD FOR NOTHING.

You can't get God merely by joining a church, by learning a creed, by reading books or obeying laws or going around with nice people. You can get God only by living Him.

No one possesses more than an infinitesimal part of God.

You can only have as much of God as you can imagine and need and work for and use. And all the rest of I's Wonder and Beauty and Power are useless to you. They do not exist for you. They do not exist for you any more than Einstein's calculations exist. YOU "NO CAN DO."

That is why it is futile to try to force your God on anyone else. Your concept of God, however excellent, won't do him a bit of good, for each man must discover God in his own way and in his own time.

If you are really interested in God, there is just one way—

SEEK HIM AND USE HIM. YOURSELF. That's the only sermon that's really convincing.

Depreciation in Marriage Bonds

A man begins to look interesting to the gold-diggers just about the time he gets so fat or so bald that his wife secretly wonders what she ever saw about him to make her think him romantic.

Love's Fortress

Drift out with the tide of years.
A hope that the heart would cherish,
A vision the fancy cheers,
For something of youth's bright rapture
Must fade like a fading rose,
And the spirit can never recapture
The ecstasy springtime knows.
Yet ever the soul will cling to
Its dowers of faith and trust,
Through all changes that time may bring to
A life with its dreams and dust.
Though beauty and youth are taken
And the glow of unfoldment ends,
Love's fortress is not forsaken.
And for losses love makes amends.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 3.—Park avenue of all New York streets has made greatest progress during the past 10 years. A high-powered association fights encroachment of business, vulgar display of electric signs, 5 and 10 red fronts and other commercialisms costing Fifth avenue a place in the sun.

Yet many say in 15 years Park will go the way of Fifth unless vigilance is strict. Beglamoured by its own achievements, a street often becomes careless. Already stage comics speak of Park as a rincon where "bad ladies walk good dogs." A half dozen huge hotels now dot the street.

The association is striving to keep theaters out of the boundary. A huge cinema cathedral is seeking location there—dangling aloft a pot of gold. If bars are let down in this instance other amusement ventures are bound to creep in. And Park will become declasse.

There are no street cars on Park, but there is a faint rattle from the trains that thunder into Grand Central. Among the 5,000 wealthy families who reside on the thoroughfare between Thirty-fourth and Ninetieth, there are reported at least 1,500 millionaires.

No rents in the city are so high, ranging from $7,000 a year to $50,000. Many buildings are cooperative and apartments sell from $60,000 low to $250,000 high. Buyers must be O. K.'d by a meticulously-minded board of directors.

Restrictions along the Gold Coast are often racial. A prospect must have his record scrutinized from cradle to now. Its pretensions are symbolized by one hotel offering a bedroom with a Rembrandt and for which a $30 a day extra charge is made.

Along this polished promenade live three German princes, two grand dukes and several barons. Park avenue zooms along for more than 40 blocks with a Mayfair grandeur and ends abruptly with the plop of a falling rocket in a Ghetto pushcart rabble.

One of the oldest and best of the Lambs stories concern Wilton Lackaye in a darkened corner, probably dreaming of Trilby triumphs. A young Lamb gambols in—one tagged for lacking courage in a sea disaster where women and children rightfully deserved first place in lifeboats. He skipped over to Lackaye.

"How about billiards, Mr. Lackaye?"

"Don't care to play billiards."

"Checkers then?"

"No checkers tonight."

"How would a little two-handed pinochle hit you?"

"I don't care to play anything with you."

"Even to the lifeboats."

Recently I had a closeup of one of those frequent cafe holdups. My table was near the cashier. A youth came in, his face the sickly white of a shark's belly. When the crowd thinned, he stepped up to the cashier and said nervously: "Hand it over quick!" In a flash it was done, the revolving door twirled and the thief vanished. And I immediately lost all interest in a grand 20-cent cut of lemon meringue pie.

Last night I spotted a gentleman in front of me who looked like Ashton Stevens, the Chicago critic—spats and all. Catching up, I slapped his shoulder and cried: "Hello Ashton!" ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you foolishly optimistic?

"Everything will come out all right," you keep saying.

"What is to be, will be," is another of your phrases.

Controlled by these thoughts, you sometimes excuse yourself from efforts to stop or check matters that are working against your plans.

Be honest—don't you use these arguments to cover up your disinclination to exert yourself strenuously?

It is easier to blame Providence for much of the so-called ill-luck you experience, than to try harder to carry out what you have begun.

Any excuse to avoid hard work and sleepless nights of wondering what to do next to overcome obstacles, is what you seek.

Perhaps you even brag about the fact that you never worry.

This means that you have never exerted yourself to the fullest extent.

To give up to worry, is one thing—to never worry is a lazy man's way.

To do anything worth while you will have many periods of anxious thought.
